Names of Educational Institutions Conjure Up Memories of the Pioneer

Of the names of Oakland schools mean more to you than mere designations to distinguish one from the other? New schools are being built and christened so rapidly in growing sections of the city that it is difficult to keep account of them, regardless of the older ones. The present transformation of Oakland's school system is an absorbing study, but interest lies also in the naming of, and other history connected with, the schools founded in the generations since the first public institution of learning was founded here in July, 1853, with sixteen pupils.

This school had its first teacher Miss H. J. Jayne, member of a pioneer family, after whom Jayne avenue is named.

It was located on the site of the present Oakland high school, in the block between Eleventh and Twelfth, Jefferson and Grove streets, which was purchased in 1853 for $900. A movement has recently been started to remove the high school to a more suitable location outside of the business section. The present site is valued at approximately $300,000.

PERSONAL ROMANCE IN GROWTH

There is no end of personal romance mingled with the growth of the Oakland schools. One instance involves the naming of the Clavson school after William Clavson, one of the most active civic workers Oakland ever had. Besides being an educator he was interested in local manufacturing and laid plans for the formation of the city's first business men's association.

He was appointed principal of the school which was afterward given his name, but he died just before the time he was to have taken up his duties in 1881. In his stead was appointed Miss M. C. Cobb, a young woman whom he was to have married. She served for two years, and was succeeded by Miss Julia E. Colby, who has held the principalship ever since.

OAKLAND schoolboys and schoolgirls are too much occupied with their studies and the playground activities, which have become so closely allied to lessons, to think of the beginnings of public instruction, even in their home city. They may have learned why their own school was given a certain name, and observed that the names of presidents and poets were applied to some of the others, but they have never thoughtfully gone through the list. Nor have many of their parents.

TEST QUESTION OFFERED.

How many, old or young, are familiar with the circumstances of the christening of Lazard grammar school, which is under construction at Twenty-sixth avenue and East Ninth street? Of course it hasn't had time to become familiar, and the question might be regarded as "map judgment," or calling upon a pupil for examination without a period of preparation. No hands being held up, it might as well be proclaimed that former Superintendent J. W. McClymonds is responsible for the naming. He caused the school to be so christened as a tribute to the late Dr. Lazard, an army surgeon, who was an authority on diseases peculiar to the tropics and who died during service in the Philippines. McClymonds in suggesting this name voiced his belief that schools should be named after persons who had accomplished something in the world's work.

Not all the schools of Oakland are named after the dead. An exception is found in the W. P. Frick, which bears the name of a well known lumber man, who was married recently and who donated a portion of the site upon which the grammar school was built at Sixty-second avenue and the foothill boulevard. It is also another school which has been named in recent years, and is in a fast growing part of the annexed district.

Somebody in authority has gone back to nature in the case of three schools, the Laurel, at Kansas street and Thirty-fifth avenue; Manzanita, at East Twenty-sixth street and Twenty-fourth avenue, and the Sequoia, at Lincoln avenue and Seaside street.

FIRST HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPAL.

Another school that has been recently named is the McClellan, at Thirteenth avenue and East Thirty-eighth street. Its christening is of present interest on account of the unsuccessful effort made to attach the name to Oakland high school a year or so ago. The board of education had practically decided upon the new name, but action was withdrawn on account of a storm of protest from citizens who had watched old "Oakland High" grow from infancy, and who were proud of the prestige it had gained throughout the west under that name.

J. E. McClellan, whom it was desired to honor by naming a school after him, became the first principal of the high school in 1867 and held that position for many years. The grammar school in East Oakland has now been given his name.

Oakland high school requires no mention as far as its name goes, but it is of interest to the Oaklander of today to know that it once occupied a building with the Irving grammar school at Twelfth and Market streets, and that as late as 1882 it had but seven teachers.

The Manual Training and Commercial High School, which now occupies the old Oakland high school building, was given its present name after objection had been made by a business college which disputed its right to "Polytechnic," on the grounds of prior adoption of that title. A large and modern home is being built for the Manual Training and Commercial high school on Forty-fifth street.

ILLUSTRATES NON-FAMILIARITY.

Perhaps the latest school to be given a permanent name is the Lakeview. It was named as an illustration of the non-familiarity of Oaklanders with school names, and it happens to be one of the largest schools in point of attendance in the city. Few residents not living in its neighborhood would be able to locate it at first thought. It is the old Perry street school. A large concrete building is being erected for the children of this district at Grand avenue and Perry street. The shacks which have housed the children since the need of a school suddenly sprang up in the new lakeshore section are located on Perry street, a block distant from the new structure, and they are in a deplorably crowded condition. The school was formerly known as the Grant Annex.

Campbell school, at Fourth and Grove streets, is named after the late Fred M. Campbell, who was the third city superintendent of Oakland schools, serving eight years and retiring to become state superintendent of public instruction. His unexpired term was filled out by Charles H. Clement. Campbell served again as city superintendent here from 1895 to 1899. He was succeeded by J. W. McClymonds, who held the position for 24 years, resigning during the present year.

His successor is Albert C. Barker. The first two city superintendents, antedating Campbell, were Lyander Walker, elected in 1859, and George Taft, elected in 1870. The fifth and sixth were H. J. Todd and J. C. Gilson.

The late Dr. R. F. Cole, who once served as president of the city board of education, is the man after whom Cole school, at Tenth and Union streets, is named.

OTHER MEMORIES PRESERVED.

Durant school, at Twenty-eighth and West streets, which is to have a new building, helps to preserve the memory of the late Rev. Henry Durant, head of the old Oakland College on Twelfth street.

lished in recent years in the Santa Fe Tract. It is located at Fifty-fourth and Adeline streets. A new building is being erected, to be named the Santa Fe school.

Washington Annex No. 2, at Alcatraz and Telegraph avenues, has replaced the old Peralta school, named after a famous family of early settlers in Oakland.

Dewey school at Thirty-seventh avenue and East Twelfth street, as may be imagined, was christened after the battle of Manila bay had been fought. A school in the same neighborhood is to be built at a cost of $110,000. Its name has not been determined.

SCHOOL FACES BAY.

Bay school, at Sixty-second street and San Pablo avenue, was so named on account of its marine outlook.

Bachan school at Tompkins and Oak streets, gets its name from the Salvation Army home near which it is located.

Not far distant is the Allendale school, at Penniman and Thirty-eighth avenues, named after a pioneer, Allen, who owned the tract in which the school was built.

The schools named after Presidents are Cleveland, at 277 Cleveland avenue; out of which the University of California grew.

CLAREMONT SCHOOL

Tompkins school was named after a pioneer of Oakland, long since dead, whose son, Edward Tompkins, recently sold to the city a site for the Manual Training and Commercial High School for $50,000. Charles Edwin Markham, author of "The Man With the Hoe," and a world famous poet, became principal of Tompkins school in 1891 and retired in 1900, being succeeded by George Frick, present county superintendent of schools.

A new building is being erected, to be named the Santa Fe school.

Washington Annex No. 1 is one of the little known schools, having been estab-

Garfield, at Twenty-third avenue and East Sixteenth street; Grant, at Twenty-ninth street and Broadway; Harrison, at Fourth and Harrison streets; Lincoln, at Eleventh and Alce streets; and Washington, at Sixtieth street and Shattuck avenue.

Oakland schools named after poets are: Longfellow, at Thirty-ninth and Market streets; Emerson, at Forty-eighth and Webster. Prescott, the historian, has a school named after him at Ninth and Campbell streets, and the Franklin, at Ninth avenue and East Sixteenth street, has for its namesake the philosopher and editor, Benjamin Franklin. Then there is Lafayette, at Seventeenth and West, and Hawthorne, at Fruitvale avenue and Tenth street.

"HIGHLAND" A MISNOMER.

Highland school is not located on high land, at all. Its location is at Eighty-fifth avenue and A street, a considerable distance from the hills. So there is little in a name in its case.

Intermediate School No. 1, the first of the "lower high schools," has replaced the historic Swett grammar, named after John Swett, pioneer educator.

Annexation has brought into Oakland many important public institutions of learning. One of these is Fremont high, named after The Pathfinder, who first gazed upon the bay region from a point in the hills not far from the school. The high school building has just been greatly enlarged.

Elmhurst is another large school that has been placed under the Oakland department through annexation, and Lockwood, Melrose and Melrose Heights are others.

There is just one school named after its school department (telephone, No. 42). It is located at Elmwood and Peterson streets.

WILL WE EVER TALK TO FOLKS ON MARS

The irony of it! To think that in spite of all the marvels of scientific progress we probably will have nothing but a bowing acquaintance with the highly civilized beings who wander over the planet Mars. We may nod to him, and he may nod to us, but it is unlikely that we will ever hold any intimate converse. We don't know his language, and he doesn't know ours, and unless there is some intermediary planetary being who can act as an interpreter we probably will remain interested observers of one another until the end of time.

Of course there is a possibility of utilizing the great wastes of the Sahara Desert as a blackboard for the Martian of an inquiring term of mind to study our mundane hieroglyphics. He may be able to identify some of our figures, but our word signs always will remain to him a puzzle. And his flashes will be the same to us.

MAY BE ONLY REFLECTIONS. Speaking of the dashes from Mars that have recently been discovered, Waldemar Kaempfert, editor of the Scientific American, said:

"Instead of regarding them as efforts on the part of an intelligent race to communicate with the stupid inhabitants of the earth, most astronomers prefer to consider them as occasional glints of sunlight reflected from the red planet."

"But supposing they really are efforts at communication it would not be easy to decipher them. In fact, I do not think they ever would be deciphered. Before we can communicate intelligently with Mars or Mars with us, we must agree on some code of signals. The ordinary alphabet, or Morse dots and dashes would never be understood even by the most highly developed Martian intellect."

"If any attempt should ever be made to communicate with Mars from the earth, a beginning must be made with some form of picture writing. We might draw on the Sahara Desert or our Western plains a simple diagram illustrating some one of the Euclidean theories, such as the square of the hypotenuse of a right angle triangle equals the sum of the squares of the other two sides. If the Martians know anything of geometry they would be able to copy the drawing, and also to present to our astonished gaze another diagram illustrating some equally familiar geometrical proposition."

EVEN DIAGRAMS WOULD FAIL.

"But even this, while it would afford convincing proof of the Martian mentality, would not give us the necessary code which would enable some terrestrial telegrapher or picture writer to impress upon the Martian mind some of the momentous facts in the history of the United States, or, in turn, to learn something of Martian politics."

In his one excursion into fiction the imaginative Camille Flammarion drew an alarming picture of a collision between the earth and a comet. He described graphically the efforts of knowing Martian astronomers to warn the earth of its peril. But they did not. During a picture of a comet and a man of Italy for Italy was the spot which gravitation had selected for the collision. The Martians very clearly indicated the exact spot. In Flammarion's story the terrestrial astronomers succeeded in interpreting these portentous signals; but the signals were really meaningless signs of the astronomers of the earth. Flammarion's story of the collision of the earth with a comet is a very interesting theory of Martian phenomena, and easy enough to accept to the Martian mind more profound knowledge than we possess, because the earth is young in planets go. But if the Martians ever succeed in conveying to the President of the United States the communications of a wise old planet on the anniversary of the signing of the Emancipation Proclamation, it would be a feat that transcends the portents that which Flammarion's story suggests.

CITIES OF LIGHT

Far reaching reform in town planning as a primary factor in the battle against tuberculosis was demanded by the architect, Augustin Rey, in an address made before the French Society of Civil Engineers in Paris.

According to M. Rey, cities of the future must be so constructed that the direction of all the streets shall correspond to the sun's daily course in the heavens in order that the inhabitants may receive the maximum of light, which is the greatest microbe killer in existence.

The task of architects, he says, will be to plan towns in such a way that every nook and corner shall receive its share of the sun's rays for the greatest possible number of hours daily. On this account he insists that the present system of small apartments will have to go, and their places be taken by smaller and more airy dwellings.

He concludes by saying that the present nicknames of Paris, "The City of Light," should be that of all towns which care for the health of their inhabitants.

NEW YORK CHURCH TO TEACH EUGENICS

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—If the matrimonial bee is buzzing about you and seems inclined to settle, J. Gardner Smith, one of his coworkers would like to have a little talk with you. Maybe you ought to allow it to light, and then, again, maybe you shouldn't. That's what Dr. Smith wants to see you about. He's superintendent of the Mount Morris Baptist Church, and he's started a school to teach the youth of the city whom to marry.

Imagine any human having the temerity to tell grandfather or even father and mother they should or they should not marry. But times have changed, and real romance is to be sacrificed upon the altar of Spartanism. The Mount Morris Baptist Church proposes to teach eugenics within its portals.

Dr. Smith plans a series of lectures for boys and girls on eugenics. "It's a necessity of modern conditions," he explains, "for since the church assumes to marry the human race and control them in wedlock, it becomes the duty of the church to see the right kind of marriages are contracted." In other words, Dr. Smith considers the church should see that those who march to the hymeneal altar "stay put."

WOULD SACRIFICE LOVE.

Dr. Smith would sacrifice love, if in the mating it will make for a better race.

mentally and physically. And eugenics, or the revealing of the secrets of sex to flourishing youth, it considers the greatest problem of the day. It believes eugenics to be the remedy for the divorce evil, the preventive of ill that cling to a family through generations and, above all, the only medium that will insure happy homes.

Because the parents are uninformed and unable to teach eugenics in the home, Dr. Smith and his coworkers purpose to do it for them in the church.

This latest eugenics movement distrusts emotionalism. And since it abolishes the many time-honored sign-posts, it erects another; if you don't feel you are in love with a girl there's a very great likelihood that you are.

Of course this crusade against a world-old blindness has all the hereditary prejudices in its favor to overcome, but Dr. Smith sincerely believes he can fight fire with fire, or rather that a series of lectures will finally annihilate them. There are to be two classes that will listen to talks covering a period of forty weeks; the one, consisting of girls more than 18 years old, will be conducted by Miss Nona S. Gould of the Women's Medical College; the other, consisting of young men of the same age, will be conducted by Dr. Frederick A. Wolf of the College of the City of New York. Among the topics to be discussed will be "The Meaning of "Sex Prophylaxis," "Venereal Diseases," "Business of Marriage," "Mendelism" and "The Bearing of a Family."

BLAMES MODERN-DAY ROMANCE.

"The teaching of eugenics is absolutely necessary for the general and individual well-being," said Dr. Smith, who is director of lectures. "How many mothers and fathers themselves, know why things are as they are? It is ignorance of that sort that causes disastrous conditions. There is not one happy family in a hundred; one in every ten would separate in two weeks if it could be done honorably. They are pitifully mismanaged, and have not been taught the fundamental laws governing human beings."

"Marriage to them was a romance. They had in their hearts the vision of a home full of love and sweetness; it was a direct result of passion. Young people do not discriminate between love and passion; they merely think that they love one another, and are the victims of a mutual infatuation. They do not stop to consider the mental traits of one another, or the physical traits, or the social inclinations. They have no conception of what it means for two persons to live together for a long time."

"Suppose the man likes to read and the woman to go to the theater; one likes this and the other that; think what that means! Each misjudges the other until it ends in an open rupture, and the chil-

"Do you think, doctor," he was asked, "that lectures such as you intend to give will put a quietus on romance and all that sort of thing?"

"Surely," he answered. "When fifty young men and the same number of girls—that is the number at present, and probably will be larger shortly—are confronted with indubitable facts and listen in an intelligent mood to highly rational truths, they can not help being affected. When we show them the danger of tying themselves up for life to a man or a woman whose mother was a neurotic and whose father a drunkard, they will think twice before they permit their emotions to take the bit of reason between the teeth."

"When we point out the significance of all the little traits in a man and a woman; point out what past generations have prepared and present tendencies indicate, our words will not fall on unresponsive soil."

"I have for years been in close contact with thousands of boys, and I have never known one to go wrong simply because he knew, but I have seen many grown men and women bemoan the fact that they were not instructed during their youth in matters regarding sex."

The clergy and the laity have only a meagre conception of the number of lives that are wrecked through ignorance of sex prophylaxis."

"Isn't it likely that the church will ob-

VIEWS AND REVIEWS OF WHAT WORLD IS DOING

Saloon Reduction Is Taken Up by Many Cities

OAKLAND'S recent struggle to reduce its saloons to a reasonable number, and its fight with the powerful interests which may now result in a battle at the polls, is no isolated case. From many cities in the United States come stories of similar battles. The editorial pages of the dailies of the leading cities in the land show, throughout the east, fights against liquor interests.

St. Louis was in a fight very similar to Oakland's and its plan to limit the saloons to one for each hundred inhabitants started a state-wide campaign.

WHISKY AND BUSINESS.
"Whisky and business do not mix," declares the Kansas City Star, in commenting on the liquor traffic. Showing young man of today, it says:

Here's a thing affecting the liquor trade that the brewers of the good old days did not have to contend with:

The young men have learned that beer and business, and whisky and business, won't mix.

No employer wants a young fellow who drinks. Whether the job is seeking handling money in a bank, tending a railroad switch, waiting on customers in a hotel, or in a professional office, or doing anything else that requires a clear brain and a healthy body, the young man who drinks is not the man for the job.

Wisconsin's fight with the liquor men is commented upon vigorously in the Milwaukee Leader as follows:

WISCONSIN'S FIGHT.
A most remarkable statement is credited to the president of the Wisconsin Retail Liquor Dealers' Association in an address made by him to the holders of illegal licenses issued by the "nonpartisan" aldermen of the city of Milwaukee who have undertaken to nullify the laws of Wisconsin. He is reported to have said:

In the event you are ordered by the police to close up your place of business, refuse to do so. Let them arrest you if they will and then you can carry your case from one court to the other, thereby allowing you at least a couple of years to do business before the case is settled. Get together, elect men to the city council and to the legislature who will look after your interests.

We hope that there are few holders of illegal licenses who will be guided by such advice. At various times in the history of the United States there have been rebellions against the authority of the general government, including the "whiskey rebellion" under Washington's administration and the slaveholders' rebellion which was inaugurated when Lincoln was elected to the presidency. They all failed.

The Wichita Beacon commenting on Governor Hodges' recent statement on saloons, says:

Governor Hodges in addressing the American Anti-Saloon League in Ohio made the following fine, truthful and purposeful observation:

"Prohibition has demonstrated that the most expensive revenue any state can collect is the saloon license tax."

"The money that years ago went to the human canal route now goes to happy homes, public schools and civic improvements."

"In some states the throne of political power is in the saloon, but not so in Kansas. Early in the youth of our state we had our lesson and we learned that liquor caused our taxpayers to pay out more money for costs than all the thieves, highwaymen and murderers combined."

"STOP! LOOK! LISTEN!"
RAILROAD WATCHWORDS

"Stop! Look! Listen!"

These are the watchwords made famous by every railroad in the land, and which are being repeated by thousands of dollars are spent yearly to protect the pedestrian from himself. When men walk on railroad tracks they get hurt. The same applies to driving automobiles.

If every one would heed the warning contained in those three words which every country boy, standing at a railroad crossing, has planned up and memorized, all would be well—theoretically at least. Some accidents are of another nature, and these accidents are to some extent unavoidable. That is why money is being spent to make them more avoidable and progress in this case means safety.

Commenting on this phase of railroad law, the Seattle Times says:

A great lawyer is said to have received an enormous fee for framing the famous admonition found on railroad crossings throughout the United States: "Stop! Look! Listen!"

His work and that of the corporations was designed to promote the safety of all compelled to venture on the lines of steam traffic. Yet, an experiment conducted in California indicates that their joint labors were in vain.

Trains for the Southern Pacific stationed at certain crossings for a period of several months, counted 26,296 wheeled vehicles and foot passengers crossing the tracks. Of that enormous number, just thirty-five stopped first and looked in both directions.

Of 122 motor vehicles, 4246 teams and wagons and 4523 pedestrians—49 per cent took no precaution whatever. Forty-one per cent of the vehicles crossed at a high rate of speed.

It is any wonder that under such circumstances fatal accidents occur? With the public so careless of its own safety, there are no precautions that the corporations can take that will prevent disasters.

RED SIGNAL OPPOSED.
A strong plea for the discontinuance of red as the danger signal on American railways is made by a student of colors, who advances some logical reasons for opposing the system presently in use.

One male in every twenty-five has a deficient color perception, and most of these have an inherited tendency.

Ability for red. Color-blindness apparently is increasing and transportation companies have been compelled to make rigid tests of employees who might otherwise constitute elements of danger in the operation of trains, and even of automobiles.

Another objection raised is that red is a "fugitive color," not difficult to distinguish, but fading exposure to sunlight. Frequent repainting is necessary to keep it to the required degree of brightness.

CURBING LOAN SHARKS, AND ETHICAL SIDES

The essential idea of entering the field

remorselessly exploited by the loan shark and of driving them out by fair and honest competition is rapidly gaining favor and practical application throughout the country. The general plan is to aid the wage-earner or salaried man who is driven to borrow by unforeseen or sudden necessity, by accident or misfortune, and to do this in a manner that will leave him independent, self-reliant and free.

Commenting upon the organization recently formed in Chicago, the Record-Herald of that city says:

Over 200 applications for loans in the city would amply demonstrate the need of an organization like the First State Industrial Wage Loan Society—were further demonstration necessary. The realization of the urgent need, and of the rapidly and cunningly of many of the extra-private and "confidential" loan agencies, prompted the various steps, in and out of the legislature, which led to the formation of the Industrial Wage Loan Society.

That opened its doors on Monday in this city. The society will soon need branches, and it is likely to have imitators in other cities. It supplies a want and rationally solves a pressing problem.

ANOTHER COMMENT.
The Chicago News says the following about the same organization:

Responsible persons organized the new concern, which owes its existence to the efforts put forth by members of the Chicago Industrial club to draw the teeth of loan sharks. They caused to be framed and then urged the passage by the legislature of the new law under which the Industrial Wage Loan society will operate.

These practical business men recognize that frequently persons with small incomes, particularly young married men who work for wages, have to face heavy expenses when they are without ready funds to meet the emergency. In these circumstances there is surely no disgrace in borrowing. In most cases there is no good reason for concealing the fact that the borrowers have gone in debt.

There is a point which it may take some time to get clearly into the minds of wage workers. It is the supposed need for secrecy that has driven many of them into the clutches of loan sharks. Having learned that there is nothing dishonorable about borrowing money to meet a pressing need and that their employers encourage it under right conditions, they should naturally turn now to the loan organization that charges only a reasonable price for the accommodation.

As an instrument to encourage honesty and to discourage greed and extortion the new society should exert a widely beneficial influence.

The Wichita Beacon sees the finer ethical side of the whole problem of poverty which drives men to pawn their futures with loan sharks and in reviewing the case of David H. Tolman, millionaire loan shark, has been landed behind prison bars to serve six months for exacting 200 per cent interest. It says:

True, the fortune he has piled up by preying on the necessities of the poor remains. When the jail doors open, in another place, under another name, he can live in luxury off the proceeds of his greed; enter "society" and be respected.

The impressive thing in Tolman's case is that, in a country abounding in natural wealth and supposed to be the theater of the world's best opportunities, there should exist thousands of men and women pressed so close to the line of poverty.

In every city, great palaces wherein revel the rich and, hard by, slums and tenements where a great procession barely able to keep body and soul together.

Everybody is now ready to have a rock at Tolman. But remember! He is only a symptom. The trouble isn't with him. It is in the human adjustments which produce these social conditions.

Putting the Tolmans in jail won't make life much easier for the folks with whom they have been doing business.

Tolman traded ruthlessly in poverty, to be sure; but he didn't make the poverty. The poverty isn't his. It is in the human adjustments which produce these social conditions.

Meanwhile, we tinkered with the tariff and talk about the currency and follow new fads in philanthropy and fuss about a lot of things. Those who have, waste, and those who lack, contrast continues, very much as since the beginning of time.

MILK INSPECTION AID TO DAIRYMEN

Milk inspection has disclosed many things. Uncovered wagon tops, uncovered bottles, diluted or preserved milk, and many other conditions in dairies have been relentlessly ferreted out by health authorities in the big cities, and still the problem continued, and probably will as long as milk is sold. Constant vigilance seems the price of pure milk.

It is not so much that dairies countenance these matters; in fact the dairies to assist the ambition of individuals in their desire to better themselves by their ability and business industry. ## MACDONOUGH

The unmistakable, unanimous verdict of praise accorded to "The Common Law," a dramatization of Robert W. Chambers' justly famous novel determined A. H. Woods to allow all sections of the country to pass critical judgment upon the merits of this remarkable play. Mr. Woods has turned loose four distinct organizations for the presentation of "The Common Law" which are touring in different directions, each one being interpreted by a cast unsurpassed for general excellence and the productions thoroughly equipped in every particular.

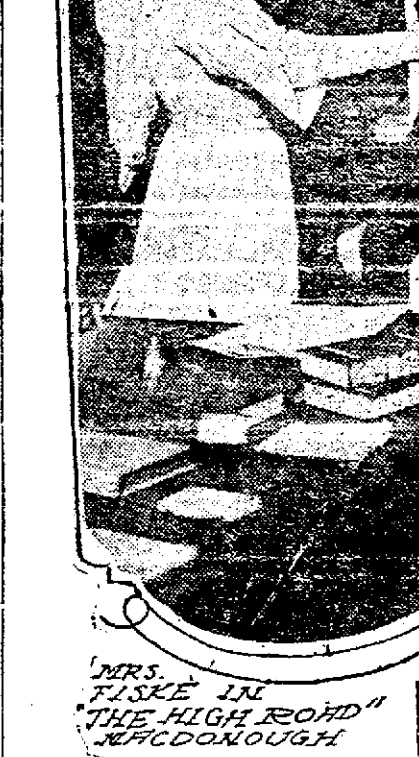

"The Common Law" will be offered here at this afternoon's matinee and five nights and Wednesday matinee at the Macdonough.

Chambers, the author of this strange and unconventional book of fiction, is recognized as being our most representative story teller, and in this, his latest and most sensational work, he has not only startled readers with his audacity but has furnished new arguments in favor of social precepts bearing upon the marriage relation. "The Common Law" as a play is, in all probability, one of the most convincing dramas of heart interest offered in many years.

There is a big melodramatic scene introduced, too, which Manager Woods has taken true advantage of, both in the acting quality and scenic embellishment.

"STOP THIEF" COMING.

"Stop Thief" the new farce to be presented at the Macdonough Theater December 7-8-9-10 by Coban & Harris, is said to lift an audience to exalted attitudes of delight by a process of satirical analysis of human nature. The plot is ingenious. On the eve of the wedding of an absent-minded man's daughter to a youth who is troubled with fits of kleptomania, a new lady's maid is introduced to the house. She is a professional crook, and with the aid of another of the same stripe, but the opposite sex, lays ingenious plans for relieving the house of a heavy burden of wedding presents. Doogan, her confederate, finds it easy going. The young kleptomaniac believes himself of having removed the valuables that are already beginning to disappear. The absent-minded parent hands Doogan his money and asks him to keep it for him. The other members of the family hasten to confide to him the whereabouts of all their valuables. Just as the two thieves are about to make their escape there enters an earnest capitalist who demands certain stocks which he has given to the absent-minded parent as collateral for a loan he is now ready to pay. The thieves immediately get his money. The stocks can't be found. The capitalist threatens prosecution for everybody and goes out in search of a warrant. The officers enter with the warrant and the warrant is stolen and carefully deposited in the absent-minded one's pocket. Then follows the hot scene of the play.

THE REAL MRS. FISKE.

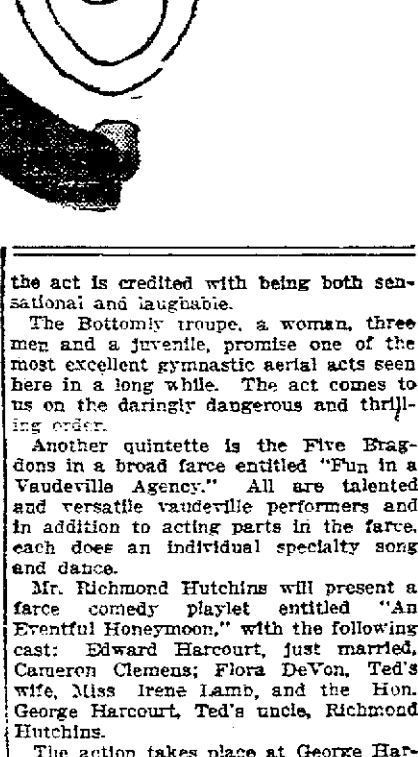

Mrs. Fiske is easily the foremost figure on the American stage; her name is known wherever a newspaper is circulated. In her profession which she has so honored and dignified, she has several papers and magazines devoted entirely to the "World of make-believe." "Live" news matter in practically every newspaper office the country over. The department devoted to the stage is one of the most important in many of the popular magazines, and there are even several papers and magazines devoted entirely to the "World of make-believe." A vast amount of material is necessary to feed public curiosity about the stage and a vast amount is therefore published. Of this it must be confessed that a great deal reflects little or no credit upon those concerned in it or upon the stage at large. The editor is not to be blamed, for it is his object and his news duty to print what his readers will read and again, "pity 'tis, 'tis true," there are many followers of Thespis who lend themselves to exploitation which, while it may not be downright reprehensible, is by no means creditable. Against the editor there is this to be said: If he demanded dignified, truthful material about stage people, he would get it, but it is impossible to make a "sane head" story from a legitimate theatrical announcement, while a lady of the chorus who rescues a millionaire's son from the snares and pitfalls of single blessedness can be made a first page "feature," to the exclusion of the political situation, the war in Turkey, or the progress of "Votes for Women" crusade.

Mrs. Fiske will be seen at the Macdonough in "The High Road," December 5 and 6.

The Orpheum management opens the new week's bill today with Ellen Beach Yaw, the world-famous soprano, as its headliner. She is famed as having the greatest range of any soprano in the world, excelling all other singers in this special feature. The Orpheum management presents her this week at an enormous salary and the engagement is noteworthy. Capacity houses will greet this famous singer.

Harry Fox, so long with the Millership Sisters, and Francis Dolly, of the famous Dolly sisters, who had an unprecedented run at New York Wintergarden, have severed their connection with these respective companies, and, forming a vaudeville partnership, come to the Orpheum this week with a brand new line of songs, dances and jokes. Miss Dolly is described as an attractive young lady with exceptional singing and dancing ability, and Fox, while too well known to need introducing, brings many new offerings. The act will lead the singing and dancing bill.

Dave Genaro and Ray Bailey are bringing their chief act, "The Flirtation Danceuse," to the Coast again, but have built around it a network of new features giving it an entirely new atmosphere.

"Fixing the Furnace" tells in its title the fun it will provide at the hands of George Rolland in the stellar role. This sketch is a page turn from the chapter of the housewife's many trials and tribulations, and is one long continuous laugh.

Austin Webb, who has been seen in various engagements with Mary Manning, and under the direction of Charles Frohman, the Schuberts, and Kiaw and Erlanger, will make his first appearance in vaudeville on this coast this season. He is coming to the Orpheum this week with a sketch entitled "The Flag and Mine," a sensational melodrama, dealing with objects of timely interest. Last season he played the principal role with the Western company of David Belasco's "The Woman," and his vaudeville sketch will afford his admirers an opportunity to study him at close range.

Dupree and Dupree, a man and a woman, will be seen in many spectacular stunts on the bicycle and tricycle this week, and while the act is an old one, Orpheum audiences never tire of gazing at a team in hair-raising stunts, and Dupree and Dupree promise many of these on the lone wheel.

THE ORPHEUM

Certain conditions of modern American life are daringly exposed in Paul Armstrong's latest play, "The Escape," which is to be presented for the first time in San Francisco tomorrow evening and throughout the week at the Alcazar, with Evelyn Vaughan and Bert Lytell leading the cast. It is the staged story of a young girl's escape from a life of living with her family in a New York tenement to adopt an existence of sinful ease as the mistress of a politician whose employment she had entered as a stenographer.

Miss Vaughan will be seen as the girl who escaped and Mr. Lytell as a physician who plotted her to true womanhood, with all the other characters appropriately bestowed.

BRYAN GRAPE JUICE HAS STRONG "KICK"

CHICAGO, Nov. 29. — Attention, Mr. Bryan!

Here is a man, arraigned in the Municipal Court on a charge of drunkenness, who attributed his downfall to grape juice. And he got away with it.

"How did it happen," Judge Sculley asked John Nicholson of 1728 Cleveland avenue when he appeared with an aching head and a furry tongue before the bench yesterday.

"You see, Judge, I'm a teamster," said Nicholson, "and for the past two weeks I have been delivering grapes to saloons. The bartenders always give me a drink of the juice. Wednesday I took too much and the warm weather caused the juice to ferment."

"I wonder what Secretary Bryan would say," remarked the judge as he signaled to Nicholson to sign the pledge for a year and be on his way.

ROMANCE IS MYTH, POOR GIRL FINDS

Sets Fire to Be Rescued, But Finds Chivalry Dead and "Prince" a Loafer.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Gertrude Hanson had longed for romance and adventure through the sixteen years of her life. She lived in Fernwood, a part of Chicago where romance was a myth and where adventure never came. Her parents, who reside at 1033 South Florida street, had outlived their dreams of romance and could not understand the longings of a girl of high school age.

She made adventure for herself therefore. She bound and gagged herself in the cellar of the home of Mrs. Otto V. Johns of 9999 Lowe avenue after setting fire to a pile of papers.

STORY IS HAIR-RAISING.

Fernwood welcomed the excitement. After the girl had been "resuscitated" she told a tale which sent detectives of the South Englewood and Kensington stations to the suburb to search for a "pyromaniac."

Gertrude said she had been sent to the cellar by Mrs. Johns, for whom she worked, to get some kerosene. She had hardly entered the cellar when she was awakened by a fire.

That was the setting and plot of her first adventure. In the finale Gertrude had pictured the advent of a "Prince Charming" who would rescue her from a fiery death. But Mrs. Johns smelled the smoke before the prince arrived, went to the basement and dragged Gertrude to the open air.

CLIMAX IS PROSAIC.

She threw a pailful of water on the girl, which was not romantic, but effective. Gertrude "recovered" consciousness immediately, for she feared another drowning. Then she told the story of her attack.

"I had just entered the cellar," said Gertrude, "when a man jumped at me. He had a club and he hit me and then knocked me down. I tried to scream, but he tied a piece of cloth over my mouth. Then he poured some kerosene over a pile of papers and set them on fire. I fainted, I guess, because I did not know anything more until Mrs. Johns threw cold water over me."

MYSTERY IS SOLVED.

The search for the "pyromaniac" was started and lasted for several hours. In the meantime Gertrude's adventure had taken a new turn. Captain Joseph Smith of the Englewood police went to Fernwood to direct the pursuit. He heard the girl's story, then questioned her until she confessed that she had bound herself and set fire to the papers.

Gertrude's father, Thomas Hanson, who is a retired grocer, said his daughter was fond of reading novels and that he had tried to make her stop because it interfered with her studies at school. He said he would search her room for any "thrillers" she might have secreted.

WIFE TOO SANITARY TO KISS HIM; SHOTS SELF

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 29.—Refused a kiss by his wife because she believes that kissing isn't sanitary, David Barnhart went into the cellar of his home and shot himself in the chest. Barnhart has a chance to recover.

SHE LIKES MUSIC, BUT NOT AT 2 A. M.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Mrs. Bertha Lawrence, of Brooklyn, likes music, but there's a limit. For three years, Mrs. Lawrence says, she and her family have had to listen to a player-piano, Dr. Philip Berlinbach and his family live next door. Doctor Berlinbach has the player-piano, and according to Mrs. Lawrence, it is kept busy grinding out music until 2:30 a. m., Sundays as well.

Mrs. Lawrence asked Supreme Court Justice Maddox for an injunction restraining the doctor and his family from annoying her. Furthermore, she bases her application for the writ on an alleged violation of the sanitary code, as the constant playing of the piano imperils the health of those who are obliged to listen to it.

HUNTERS CLUB FARMER.

BLAIRSTOWN, Nov. 29.—William Hibler, a wealthy Cedar Lake farmer, was beaten over the head with a club by hunters he warned off his land.

HALF MILLION FOR MAN LOST 40 YEARS

PANAMA, Nov. 29.—Harry M. Bowman, 80 years old, has been located in the National Military Home, Marion, Ind., and identified by Neal Bowman, administrator of the estate of John Bowman of Stonington, northeast of Panama, as Bowman's long lost uncle and rightful heir to an estate valued at $500,000, which includes 1230 acres of the richest farmland in Central Panama.

Henry Bowman had not been heard from for forty years. He is a brother of Dr. Asa Bowman, father of John Bowman, and disappeared a short time after the Civil war, in which he served as a private in the Union army.

When Dr. Bowman died, in 1901, he left his entire estate to his only son, John, who lived off the income from the several large farms in this country. John Bowman disappeared twenty years ago and left no will. In consequence the two cousins were about to come into possession of his large estate, a partition suit having been instituted in the Christian County Probate court for division of the property.

KEEP YOUR HAIR and SCALP CLEAN

Says Lillian Russell

After each night's massage take hold of end of hair and shake it well to rid it of dust.

(Copyright, 1918, By Lillian Russell.)

In order to keep your scalp in healthy condition and your hair vigorous perfect cleanliness is the first essential. It stands to reason that if your face must be washed frequently to keep it clean, so must your scalp. Your scalp does not differ essentially from the skin of other parts of the body. It needs intelligent treatment, that is all. Much of the harm that is attributed to the shampoo depends not so much upon the frequency as the method. The girl who lives in a busy city where soft coal soot float about will need to wash her hair more often than the girl who stays at home in a country where hard coal or wood is burned. And the girl whose scalp is oily will have to shampoo her hair more often than the girl with dry hair.

You can see, then, that the hair might be washed under certain circumstances once or twice a week, or you might be able to keep it fresh and sweet by means of brushing, dry shampooing, and sun and air baths for a month without a regular shampoo. But, as a rule, I think that once in two weeks is not too often.

The best effects of a shampoo can never be gained on cloudy, damp, or rainy days. The sun has a good deal to do with the condition of the hair, and that is one reason why the hair should never be washed at night. Sometimes hearing is permanently affected by carelessness in this regard. Hair must never be done up until it is perfectly dry.

Should the ordinary shampoo not be convenient some time when you are traveling or when the weather is persistently gloomy, freshen up the hair by taking a dry shampoo. There is nothing better for this purpose than pulverized orris root. Part the hair at half inch spaces and sprinkle the powder generously on the scalp and through the hair, letting it stay for half an hour. Then brush out. Indian meal will be just as cleansing, but its odor is not so attractive.

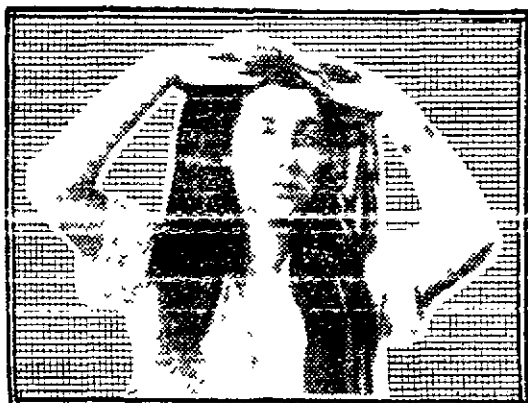

If you go to a professional shampooer always use your own brush and comb, which you will, of course, keep clean and sweet. Many scalp and hair evils follow careless habits so common in this regard.

Some Well Tried Formulas.

The following are well tried formulas for shampooing the hair:

Soap Jelly—Shave a small cake of best white castile soap into a pint of boiling water and let it stand until thick; add a teaspoonful of glycerin and a few drops of your favorite perfume. The glycerin is softening and healing to the scalp. The hair must be wet enough so the jelly will adhere. Then by rubbing until a thick lather forms the whole head and scalp will be thoroughly cleansed before using the abundance of warm water always necessary for rinsing.

Green Soap Lotion for White Hair—One teaspoonful

First movement: Bring fingers of each hand over top of head and begin work where first movement left off.

Second movement: Bring fingers of each hand over top of head and begin work where first movement left off.

Third movement: With fingers at back of neck work upward to the center.

of cologne, two teaspoonfuls of tincture of green soap, and an egg. Apply the mixture with a brush made for the purpose. An old tooth brush may be used, but it is rather small and not as effective as the brush especially designed for this purpose.

The brush removes dandruff, cleanses the scalp thoroughly, and by bringing the blood to the minute vessels that nourish the scalp, benefits the hair follicles. After the lotion is thoroughly rubbed into the hair use as hot water as is possible and go over the hair again, rinse the hair with water that is gradually cooled until cold. This is a very good shampoo for white hair, but you want to be sure that every bit of the lotion is rinsed out of your hair. As a final touch, make a cold, weak bluing water, using the bluing for laundry purposes, and rinse your white hair in it.

Shampoo for Blond or Red Hair—One tablespoonful of listerine, three tablespoonfuls of tincture of green soap, and the white of one egg makes an excellent shampoo lotion. After wetting the scalp and hair thoroughly with warm water pour the shampoo mixture over the head and rub with the finger tips until a stiff lather is formed. Do this three times if the hair is heavy. This cleans the scalp thoroughly. Be sure to rinse the hair well. If any soap is allowed to remain

In combing your hair carefully draw comb down the length of the hair. Never pull it roughly.

It will surely spoil the gold tint so much to be desired by the blond and Titian haired girl.

Small Amount of Dandruff Natural.

Tonic and Shampoo Lotion for Oily Hair—This is an excellent tonic for oily hair. Two ounces witch hazel, two ounces alcohol, one ounce distilled water, and forty grains resorcin. Apply every night, rubbing it thoroughly into the scalp and lifting the hair away from the scalp. Do this for two weeks, then wash the hair with the following lotion and repeat until you get the desired results: One teaspoonful of cologne, one teaspoonful or more of tincture of green soap, one teaspoonful of borax, and one egg.

Tonic for Dry and Falling Hair—The best hair tonic contains quinine. The following is good for dandruff, as well as for falling and dry hair. But you must remember that results come only through constant use: One and one-half drams sulphate of quinine, two drams tincture of cantharides, two ounces alcohol, one-half ounce glycerin, twelve drops of oil of anise, eight ounces of witch hazel. Apply this tonic every night for two weeks. Then wash the hair in suds made from a solution of green soap. Omit treatment for four days and then return to the tonic for another two weeks. Keep up this régime until your hair becomes glossy and full of life, and ceases to fall out.

Brushing the Hair to Counteract Dryness and Keep the Scalp Healthy—Don't you remember how glossy your grandmother's hair was? It was as much a part of her religion as saying her prayers to brush each side with at least a hundred strokes every night. Brush with military brushes and use both hands, as this exercise will also round out the arms and keep them symmetrical.

Dandruff—A small amount of dandruff is natural, and when it is dry and limited in quantity, one need not feel concerned about it. It then means only the throwing off of particles of scurf skin. But when there are large flakes, however, you should take care of it. The following formula is excellent for dandruff. Resorcin eight grains, castor oil, one fluid ounce; alcohol, three fluid ounces, and Peru balsam, five grains. Rub in the scalp daily for a time.

Scalp Must Be Kept Soft.

Scalp Massage—You cannot have a healthy scalp or hair if your scalp has grown fast to your head. Set about to loosen it with scalp massage. Circulation is thus stimulated and there is no better way of nourishing the hair than by causing the blood to course vigorously through its vessels. The scalp must be kept soft and flexible, so that it can be easily moved over the skull.

Before dressing the hair and when taking it down at night, loosen it by giving the ends of it two or three light shakes, place the tips of the fingers of both hands at the juncture of the hair and the forehead, and then work them with a circular motion gently but firmly toward an imaginary center at the top of the head. At each turn of the fingers let them work lightly on the surface, and then deeply, the first motion is for the hair follicles themselves, the next for moving the scalp on the head so as to make it soft, pliable and flexible.

The second movement is to place the tips of the fingers so that the forefinger of each hand will meet at the spot where the last massage left off. This will bring the fingers of each hand over an ear at the juncture of the hair and skin. In the same manner as before they should work over the hair roots with light, deep massage until the finger tips meet at the center at the top.

For the third movement of scalp massage, the fingers of each hand are placed so as to meet at the back of the neck where the hair begins, and, describing the same motions as before they work themselves upward to the center.

In this manner the entire scalp, in less than five minutes, receives a thorough stimulation. The hair responds at once and will be found full of life and electricity, where before it was lifeless and dull. It will also make the whole head feel lighter and better. This manner of caring for the hair cannot be too highly recommended. It is easily and quickly done, and will keep the scalp healthy and prevent the hair from falling.

Remember: If you will help nature along a little she will do the rest.

LILLIAN RUSSELL'S ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES BY BEAUTY SEEKERS.

A. T.: Oiliness of the hair at the roots is sometimes caused by a tight scalp. When the scalp becomes adherent to the underlying bones it prevents proper nourishment and keeps the oil from being evenly distributed. Scalp massage will remedy this trouble. Do not wash your hair oftener than once a month. Massage the scalp each night, using a tonic. I shall be glad to send you instructions for scalp massage also a tonic and shampoo for oily hair if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

MRS. E. P.: I am sorry, but I cannot give you an internal remedy for developing the bust. I do not believe in internal remedies for beauty ills, for very often they are injurious to the health. If you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope I shall be happy to send you a formula for developing the bust.

ROBERTA: A teaspoonful of benzoin in a basin of water every morning renders the face and neck whiter and firmer. If situated so as to procure soft water for toilet purposes it is far better than any other kind. If the hands look wrinkled they should also receive the same food massage.

A. T.: Roughness of the skin on the arms between the shoulders and the elbows is a common skin condition. Some skins are naturally much finer than others, and require less watching, while some require constant grooming to keep this condition from arising, or if it has developed, to overcome it. A treatment that is usually successful is to scrub the arms first with a stiff flesh brush, not a common complexion brush, as its bristles are too fine, and a pure soap. The scrubbing should be rather vigorous and followed with applications of hot towels. Keep this up until the skin is red, soft, and velvety, and until every pore is open to drink in a soothing cream, which should be applied with gentle friction. I shall be glad to send you the formula for an excellent cream if you care to send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

MISS CLARA: The length of your dresses should depend entirely upon your size. However, I think a girl of your age should wear her dresses to her shoe tops unless she is small for her age. Tan, green, blues, shades with pinkish tint, and white will be becoming to you, I think. I am sending you the formula for a bleach for freckles, and the French tonic for stimulating the growth of the lashes and brows.

MISS L. D.: Blackheads are sometimes caused from indigestion or anemia, but more frequently from neglect. The pores of the skin fill up and a speck of dirt settles in them, and these are blackheads. They cannot be forced out, for they will only come back, but they can be coaxed out by cleansing the face thoroughly with a good cold cream each night before retiring, then washing the face in warm water and good soap, using a camel's hair complexion brush to get all the dirt out of the pores. Rinse the face in warm water and then in cold. The cold water hardens the flesh and closes the pores. Try this treatment for a while and if you find the results are not satisfactory send me a stamped addressed envelope and I shall be glad to send you the green soap treatment for removing blackheads. This rarely, if ever, fails.

D. D.: The thin girl must first of all clear her mind of the unpleasant fear of being unsightly. She must then begin to gain a little flesh, and allow that it she faithfully adheres to her plan of action she will be rewarded in a short time. She must walk in the open air for a while, breathing long and deeply, then she must rest—not lying down with a book in her hand, nor clasping her hands in nervous fear, but dropping everything and sinking into absolute relaxation. She must eat food that is nourishing—cereals, vegetables, and the staff of life, bread and butter. Often a thin girl needs oil in her system. A tablespoonful of almond or olive oil will do it. As much orange juice and half a teaspoonful of honey taken three times a day is excellent for not only filling out hollow cheeks, but for toning up the system generally. This should be taken after each meal, and if necessary, at bed time. This is a simple treatment for nervous, delicate, thin girls, and if followed faithfully will fill out a figure and fill a heart with good cheer. If you care for it I shall be happy to send you a dietary for gaining flesh upon receipt of a stamped, addressed envelope.

R. L.: Most women talk about preserving their figures, complexions, hair, or kind dispositions, but one seldom hears of any one speaking about preserving the eyesight or protecting the eyes. Yet the eyes are the most beautiful feature of the human face. Poets have sung in all ages to "my lady's eyes," and one of the things to which medical and surgical science has brought its entire thought to bear is that of restoring sight. Notwithstanding this, the average woman is more ignorant in regard to her eyes than to any other part of her body. She habitually subjects them to unnecessary and detrimental strain. True, few women will sit in the glare of artificial or sunlight, but it is not to protect their eyes that they want to avoid this, but they wish to keep the light from their faces, which experience depressions.

SOCIETY

ONE of the most remarkable gatherings ever planned on this side of the bay is the Woman's Convention for the discussion of the water problem. If one looks for a representative woman of the smart set today, one will be sure to find her in some of the prominent clubs. That is the case in London, notably so in New York, and in our cities around the bay. While the smart set still plays bridge, there is not the same keen interest in it that one found two years ago. In New York there are daily sessions, afternoons where important questions are discussed, and the leaders are women who give of their leisure, of their money, of their charming personality to further the good cause of education. Of course, by education one means the larger issues of the day.

It is remarkable, too, that the women have chosen for their slogan, "Fair Play."

All sides are being considered, and no matter what each woman's private opinions may be, she does not let them affect her attitude towards the general trend of the discussion.

It is a compliment to the women of the Civic Center that the San Francisco administration is being represented on the Oakland platform. It will send one of its supervisors, the mayor's private secretary, its district attorney and its engineer to open the discussion. Oakland will therefore make history in the line of women's conventions and it will be something of which the East will take due notice.

Almost every prominent woman in Oakland will be seen at the Hotel Oakland during the three days convention, and the lounge and halls will be gay with throngs of visitors. It is a fine thing when all classes meet on terms of equality, all discussing a common question, in the heart of a common need.

Mrs. Jones has announced important committees. Among them is the committee on introductions, headed by Miss Ethel Moore. She will have as her assistants Mrs. F. C. Turner, Miss Anita Whitney, Mrs. S. C. Borden, Mrs. George Fredricks, Miss Annie Dwyer and Mrs. C. A. Case.

The Monday afternoon reception committee will consist of Mrs. John J. Valentine, Mrs. John R. Farrell, Miss Teresa Russell, Mrs. W. S. Peters, Mrs. F. R. Chadwick and Mrs. John Gordon.

Mrs. Arthur D. Thomson is chairman of the reception committee for Monday evening, and she will have a large number of friends to aid her in her work.

Miss Florence Locke is at the head of the decorating committee, and she is planning the platform and the lovely decorations of palms which are to grace it, making a picturesque environment for the president and the speakers of the day.

The information bureau will consist of Miss T. Russell, Miss Edith Booth, Miss Barrett, Mrs. M. C. Young, Mrs. William Kelley, Mrs. M. B. Graham, Miss Cynthia Lee, Mrs. Edgar L. Ormsby, Dr. Livinia Lambert.

Never before in the history of Oakland have so many important women in club work assembled in a common cause. For among Mrs. Jones' vice-presidents are:

Mrs. A. C. Posey, president Edell Society; Mrs. C. S. Chamberlain, president Oakland Club; Mrs. Esterbrook, president Home Club; Mrs. L. L. Gilloghy, president Adolphian Club; Mrs. W. R. Pond, president Twentieth Century Club; Mrs. Robert Watt, president Oakland New Century Club; Mrs. A. W. Aitken, president Alta Club; Mrs. P. F. Allen, president Hill and Valley Club; Miss Julia George, state president California Civic League; Mrs. James Ellis Tucker, president San Francisco Center; Mrs. Reuben Mastick, president Hayward Center; Mrs. Mary Robert Coolidge, president Berkeley Center; Mrs. T. H. Speddy, president Alameda Center; Mrs. J. D. Coburn, president Emeryville Center; Mrs. S. M. Adams, president San Antonio Center; Mrs. William A. Brown, president San Leandro Center; Miss M. S. Dohrmann, Richmond Center; Mrs. F. Law, president Seminary Avenue Center; Mrs. Christensen, president Melrose Center; Mrs. Mita Fenton, president Piedmont Civic Club; Dr. Minora Kibbe, president Laurel Club.

The state officers of the Federation of Women's Clubs are to be here for the convention, among them: Mrs. Mae L. Cheney, chairman department of education; Mrs. Bradford Woodbridge, chairman department civics; Mrs. George P. Reinhardt, chairman department of forestry; Mrs. L. P. Crane, chairman department of public health; Mrs. E. G. Greene, chairman of waterways; Miss Lillian D. Clark, chairman of country life.

The district officers will also be in Oakland for the convention, among them: Mrs. William Colby, president Alameda district; Mrs. Kate Smith, vice-president; Mrs. Cecil Corwin, recording secretary; Mrs. L. G. Leonard, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Thomas Huxley, treasurer; Mrs. Charles Graham, auditor; Mrs. J. N. Frank, auditor.

There will be present at the convention also: Mrs. H. N. Rowell, state president of the Congress of Mothers; Mrs. William Blackburn, president Second district, Congress of Mothers; Mrs. L. C.

is evident, especially when she refers to the "salon," or to our lack of it.

She tells us that the best society in America is to be found in Washington, the most cosmopolitan and beautiful city in America. Boston claims to be the intellectual center, just as Washington aspires to harbor the elite of society. There is great wealth, too, because the Western millionaires have bought vast homes in Washington and go there for the season.

Washington society is distinctly political. It has not any great salon, nor any woman who is a leader, although nearly all the women there are interested in politics, and it is in every way a political center, just as Boston is unmistakably literary. New York and Chicago are business strongholds. But the clever Englishwoman may be allowed to tell her story in her own way:

"It seems so strange that no American woman has so far been able to form a salon. In the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, in England and France, salons were at their height. In the nineteenth century they lingered on in England, though in France they fell with the empire. In London, in Edinburgh, in Dublin, and some smaller towns, there are women today who by sheer individuality attract people to their homes. It is easy enough for the rich to open a restaurant; but it requires less food and more brains to maintain a salon. There are women in London—great political leaders—who entertain lavishly, and there are women with small homes where everybody who is anybody can be met.

"The moment anyone who is no one frequents a house, someone who is someone ceases to go.

"Over the tea cups, diplomats, authors, painters, actors, men and women of brains, can be found in those drawing-rooms. Large subjects are discussed in small salons. England and Germany are producing the greatest thinkers of the day, but in the matter of salons Germany is far behind, because her women are not yet as advanced as the women of England or America.

"America ought to have her salons; but she has not. Why?

"A smiling welcome from a good hostess, useful introductions between suitable people; a little trouble and

Among the most prominent social leaders on our coast are Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst, Mrs. Isaac Requa, Mrs. William Crocker, Mrs. Miller Graham of Santa Barbara, Mrs. Eleanor Martin, and in the future there will be added Mrs. Henry Huntington, as the Huntingtons are to make their future home in their magnificent estate at Santa Barbara.

BUFFET SOLVES REFRESHMENT PROBLEM.

The buffet system of serving refreshments has been hailed with joy by many hostesses, who will in this way be enabled to entertain many more guests than if all had to be seated at tables at the same time. The buffet besides may make a welcome addition to a dining-room, or to the large court of a hotel, for it is color study. Dr. Tevis set the example for the buffet, and it was admirably managed. The buffet extended along the entire end of the room and was piled high with flowers and there were lovely candy baskets in delicate tones of pinks and blue.

A kind of scale of colors, with designs of temple red embroidery, and tall gilt candelabra were used with fine effect.

At another tea recently there was a buffet, the table being covered with a priceless Sicilian cloth, rose du Barri dishes, and there were quaint blue-handled knives, all very foreign.

At Miss Rebecca Shreve's tea dance yesterday there was also a buffet, arranged in the most fascinating way.

One way, of course, is to have all sorts of things to eat in refreshments served buffet style, but one is moved to wish devoutly that they may be simple. When early dinners are the order of the hour, simple refreshments are infinitely to be preferred. A visitor writes of our receptions: "They drink tea, of course; more cream appears in the oysters or in the chicken."

"A square thick piece of hot buttered toast was put on each guest's plate; then came the chicken itself, from which a helping was ladled out, small pieces of chicken cooked with truffles and mushrooms in cream and wine sauce. Excellent, but so rich.

"Cream cheese piled on to currant jelly is delicious. And then, of course, for no American could live who assisted Mrs. Shreve in receiving were:

Treat, Miss Ruth Loring, Miss Marian Leale, Miss Gertrude O'Brien, Miss Elizabeth Oyster, Miss Florence Greaves, Miss Dorothy Greaves, Miss Myra Treat, Miss Henrietta Smith, Miss Gisela Haslett.

DECEMBER DATES ARE OF IMPORTANCE.

Social dates of importance are scheduled for early December days. On the first three days of the week the Hotel Oakland. On Tuesday Mrs. C. O. G. Miller is including many Oakland guests in the luncheon at her Pacific-avenue home.

Miss Ernestine McNear is to be a hostess of Wednesday, entertaining at luncheon at the Claremont Country Club in honor of her cousin, Mrs. J. M. McNear, who is here from Portland.

On December 5 Mrs. Andrew Fennimore will entertain at large tea in honor of Miss Helen Stone, whose engagement to Grayson Hickey was recently announced. On December 11 there will be the elaborate reception by the alumni of the university complimentary to Mrs. Hearst. The members of the committee on arrangements are mostly from our side of the bay.

There will be the two tea dances at the St. Francis as usual, and a large "dansen" on Wednesday afternoon at the Palace, besides the smaller luncheons and receptions for which many invitations are already out.

At the Home Club on December, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn C. Barnhart will be host and hostess.

The Players' Club of San Francisco will present the very delightful farce, "The Pigeon," by Galsworthy, under the personal direction and management of Mr. Reginald Travers. This will be the first performance of this play on the coast.

After the farce there will be cards and dancing. Light refreshments will be served in the banquet hall.

As before a club which has for its name the magic word "Home," much attention is always paid to the Christmas holidays. So it is announced that there will be a "Children's Christmas Party," with games and all the goodies to delight the childish heart.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry Carlton are to be host and hostess at the Christmas dinner at the Home Club. And they send out the fascinating call:

"Come all and make merry by our fireside. Let joy be unconfined."

On next Friday afternoon the "Living Issues" section of Edell, of which Mrs. L. F. Cockcroft is chairman, is to hold an interesting meeting. The section announces the following topics for discussion:

"Colonel Rees' Plans for Oakland Harbor"; "How to Conserve Our Redwoods at 'Cheltenham'; "Forests of the Future" (World's Work, Nov.); Governor-General Harrison and Filipino Question"; Opening of Sixty-second Congress and Gist of the President's Message"; ten minutes for brief suggestions on "A Simple Christmas."

So it is evident that the week will be full of many activities, and it begins with cheerfulness everywhere. And it certainly is true that happy hearts are everywhere now—and "A merry heart does all the way!"

much tact, and the thing is done, provided the men co-operate. In America, till now, the men have failed to do so."

But there is no doubt that the salon is in process of formation out here on this coast. In former days families of wealth moved away and established homes in Europe, or were lost in Greater New York. Now the tendency is to stay here, and in our state women have great influence.

So three beautiful and young matrons are to be at the head of magnificent homes. They are cultured women, exceptionally clever, and it will remain to be seen which one will win out as a leader, which one will be able to entertain the salon, which can be a social forum, far-reaching in its influence.

THE coming week will be one of interest, with the wedding of Miss Sherwood and Miss Lane on Wednesday evening and the many dancing parties that are scheduled to take place within the week. The wedding of Miss Sherwood and Miss Lane will be a notable one, although a simple home wedding, as the young daughter of the house is one of the most noted girls of local society. Rev. Edgar Goss of St. Peter's Episcopal church is to be the officiating clergyman, and only the immediate members of the two families will be present together with a few of the intimate friends of Miss Sherwood. # A Romance of the Old South in the New

HISTORY OF THE MINIATURE.

Phoebe Johnson, the first "Lady of the Miniature," born in Atlanta in 1845.

Had her miniature painted by Clement Dumont in 1864. Gave miniature to Bertha Harmon and left Atlanta when it was taken by Sherman in 1864.

Married to Phillip Stuart in Tennessee in 1868. Marsha Johnson Stuart, born in 1867.

Marsha marries Stephen E. Evans in 1890.

Phoebe Johnson Evans, the second "Lady of the Miniature," born in 1890.

Marsha Harmon, who has received the miniature, married Alexander Rogers in 1865. Gives the miniature to her grandson in 1898.

Frank John Rogers falls in love with the miniature and marries Phoebe Johnson Evans, the second "Lady of the Miniature," in 1913.

THIS is a romance of the old south and the new. The story is set in the days "before de war," but its end was a marriage in 1913 in the new south of today.

A tiny, hand painted miniature is the real basis of this romance, which is far more like a romance out of fiction than out of real life. This miniature, an echo of other days, is the cause of the recent courtship and its still more recent happy ending.

The miniature was painted in Atlanta, Ga., in 1864. It was painted in July, just two months before Atlanta was taken by Sherman. Forty-nine years later it was the cause of a wedding.

In 1864 Phoebe Johnson of Atlanta was 19 years old. Pretty, popular, full of life, with a disposition that even war could not make sad, she viewed the events of the period with great calm. Georgia had already seceded, and at Atlanta were huge factories where things needed for the soldiers could be made. Atlanta was strongly fortified and full of young, enthusiastic soldiers.

Clement Dumont was one of the soldiers stationed at Atlanta. He had studied art abroad and was far more interested in the painting of miniatures than in war. He met Miss Phoebe at the factory where shirts for the soldiers were being made. They smiled. It was only a step, for Clement was bold, before he had asked if he might paint her picture. And Phoebe, knowing full well that the picture, if it were a good one, would be fair, and, liking the young soldier, consented. And that is how the miniature sprang into being.

Poor Clement Dumont! Active fighting kept him from pursuing his chosen art. The lovely miniature he painted of Phoebe Johnson was perhaps the last one he ever did. He fell in battle a few months later. Only a few of his miniatures are still in existence.

Found in Old Box of Treasures.

On Sept. 2 Sherman took Atlanta. The machine shops were burned, the factories destroyed, and many brave soldiers in both armies perished. Every one was made to leave Atlanta. Phoebe Johnson, in the excitement and the horror of leaving, gave away many of her precious possessions as keepsakes. She gave to her best friend, Bertha Harmon, the miniature of Phoebe. The Harmon family moved west and later south. It was impossible to keep up a correspondence in those days. The Harmons moved west, too, but the two friends, Phoebe and Bertha, never heard of each other again. Only the miniature remained as one of Bertha Harmon's chiefest treasures.

Time passed. It was the year 1898. A little boy of 10 was looking over an old box of treasures. Presently he came across a tiny, hand painted miniature of a style of years ago. He saw a sweet face surrounded by soft brown hair and a pair of half sad, half laughing brown eyes. He ran with the picture to his grandmother.

"Who is this beautiful lady?" he asked. "It says just 'Phoebe' on the other side. She is the loveliest lady I have ever seen."

Mrs. Bertha Rogers, who had been Bertha Harmon, told her grandson the story of the miniature and added: "But that lovely girl is as old as I am now if she is still alive."

These last words made no impression on the small boy. His name was Frank John Rogers and he is the real hero of this story. Frank asked for possession of the miniature and it was given to him. Unlike most small boys, he was not careless with his possessions. He tied a tiny ribbon to the miniature and placed it on his dresser. The most favored of his boy friends were allowed to look at it.

"That lady is the one I'm going to marry when I'm a grownup man," he told them.

Other Women Failed to Appeal.

Grandmother Rogers tried to impress upon Frank that the original "Lady of the Miniature," as he called her, was old and wrinkled and no longer the smiling girl pictured in the miniature. But Frank refused to believe. He talked of Phoebe as if she were a real girl. As he grew older other women failed to appeal to him. Unconsciously he compared them to the face in the miniature. Some girls were too frivolous and he knew the "Lady of the Miniature" could be serious at times. Other girls were too solemn, and he knew the "Lady of the Miniature" had a sympathetic, laughing side. Each girl he met was compared to the picture of the girl of long ago and each one failed, in his opinion, to equal her.

When Frank Rogers went out to school the miniature went along. When asked who it was he never hesitated to say:

"O, that's the girl I'm going to marry. Isn't she lovely?"

Then he would hasten to add that she was a southern girl and that her name was Phoebe and that the miniature was painted of her when she was dressed for a fancy dress ball. That is how he explained the quaint costume.

Only once did Frank Rogers receive a real shock. It was when he was a senior in college. A member of his fraternity from another college, a southern boy, was spending half an hour in his room, together with a group of other boys. The visiting boy saw the miniature. "That's a splendid likeness of her," he said, and smiled. "I didn't know you knew any southern girls."

Frank Rogers started his usual "Yes, that is Phoebe," but he was too startled to continue. The visitor misunderstood, entered into conversation with another boy, and left soon afterward. But from then on, although he would not inquire, something kept saying to him. "She is alive, your dream girl. She is real, real."

After Rogers finished college he joined his uncle's business and went on the road to sell engines. He had a level business head, a clear brain, and real business ability and was succeeding well in his work. Girls still failed to interest him. The miniature went with him on his travels. Other girls paled in comparison.

Last winter Frank Rogers went to New Orleans. He was to spend a month there on business, so he looked up several of his college friends. He was invited to several social functions, but refused most of them.

Finally an invitation to a fancy dress ball attracted him. He had been working hard and needed recreation, so he accepted it. He arrived late. Masks had already been removed. He knew only his host and several other men. Music was playing softly. A dance had just been finished. Girls and men with gay cottonsouvenirs were passing to and fro. Suddenly his heart almost stopped beating. A girl was coming toward him.

She held her head high, the girl who was approaching; she looked at him with a half smile. Her hair waved softly about her face. Her quaint "before the war" dress showed her slender neck and shoulders. In her hair was a single pink rose.

It was his miniature come to life!

Frank Rogers nearly stopped breathing. He says now that he believed that his senses had left him. He stepped forward and held out his hands.

"Phoebe! You!" he said.

The girl in the quaint costume looked at him closer and smiled again.

"Yes," she said, quite calmly and quite as if she were a real person. "Yes, I'm Phoebe, but—who are you?"

And just then, before he had finished a stammering explanation which explained nothing one of the only men he knew in New Orleans approached.

"Hello, Rogers," he said; "I didn't know you knew my cousin, Miss Evans. Phoebe, this is the man from the west I've been telling you about."

Romance Seemed Expected Thing.

Frank Rogers doesn't know how he lived through that evening. Even now, he says, the events following the introduction are a blank to him. But he received an invitation to call at the home of Miss Evans. And, of course, he accepted.

He told the story of the miniature. Miss Evans added her story to it. Here it is briefly: "My grandmother was named Phoebe Johnson. She moved to Tennessee in 1864, I believe, and was married two years later. Her husband was Phillip Stuart. Mamma was born in 1867 and married dad in 1890. I was born in 1892, two years later. Grandmother died the year I was born, so I was named Phoebe in memory of her. Phoebe Johnson Evans is my full name."

The rest of the romance you can guess. It consisted of an ardent courtship, followed by a pretty home wedding. The honeymoon so far has consisted of a business trip on the part of the groom, but he has been accompanied all of the way by his bride, who says it is nicer than any other honeymoon could possibly be. Frank Rogers, looking at his real "Lady of the Miniature," agrees with her. He says, though, that after this year there will be a permanent home and a bungalow instead of a lot of traveling, but the real miniature, a bit faded, but still perfect in his eyes, will rank next to the real "Lady of the Miniature," and, incased against a background of velvet, will be placed in the new home where all may see it and hear its story.

Frank Rogers says that the romance seems quite the expected thing to him. "Somehow from the first time I ever saw that miniature, when I was a little kid of 10, I seemed to realize that 'the right woman' was there. There was never a doubt in my mind but that some day I would meet her and that we would care for each other. When I first saw her in real life, dressed in the quaint costume of her ancestress, I was surprised, of course, but even then it all seemed perfectly natural. I can't account for it, but I believe that we were made for each other and that my finding the miniature was just a sort of a sign to tell me to wait until the modern Phoebe appeared. It's fate and I'm a fatalist."

Agrees Fate Is Responsible.

Mrs. Rogers quite agrees with her husband that fate is responsible. As pretty at 21 as was her grandmother at 19, when the miniature was made, and resembling her as to feature, Mrs. Rogers laughs when the romance is discussed.

"Of course I understand how Frank feels about the miniature. And, honestly, it was a shock to me when I first saw it. Imagine looking at a miniature that seems to be yourself smiling at you and yet knowing that it is your grandmother. You see, I never knew grandmother, so I don't know how she looks, except from the miniature."

"The first I knew about fate and the miniature was on the night of the fancy dress ball. The evening was half over when a splendid looking man came up to me with outstretched arms and said 'Phoebe.' I knew I had never seen him before. My heart felt as if it were torn in two, but whether it was because of fate or because of the novelty of the experience I will never know. However, I am well satisfied with the trick that fate played and I am happy in being Frank's 'Lady of the Miniature.'"

And Frank Rogers, who spends much of his spare time comparing the pretty miniature with its still prettier counterpart, is happy, too, with fate and the ending of his odd romance.

TWO FALL AT OUTLAW'S FIRE

Desperado Raphael Lopez Adds More Victims to Roll of Crime

Fatal Battle Is Fought at Incline of Mines Near Bingham, Utah

BINGHAM, Utah, Nov. 29.—Hemmed in by the poisonous fumes of burning sulphur on the one side and by a posse constructing smudges on the other, a desperate battle was fought at the foot of the incline connecting the Minnie and Utah Anex mines, and either killed or fatally injured J. Douglas Hulsey, deputy sheriff, and Tom Manders, an Austrian, both of Bingham. This shooting occurred at about 2:30.

At 5 o'clock it was reported that additional shots had been heard from the same point and it is thought that another battle might have been started between the Mexican and the guards who were placed to prevent his escape. Shortly afterwards Bert Jones, an engineer in charge of a hoist at the foot of the incline connecting the Minnie tunnel and the Andy tunnel, was reported to be missing, and it is feared that he might have been killed by the Mexican.

ATTEMPT BOTTLING UP. At 1:30 this afternoon a posse headed by Sheriff Aljets of Tooele county, and comprising Patrolman W. H. Hendrickson, D. B. Kertington and W. S. Domm of Salt Lake, Deputy Sheriff J. Douglas Hulsey and George Robinson of Bingham, Dr. F. E. Straup, Dr. A. T. Inglesby and Dr. David Day of Bingham, and a number of Austrian laborers, entered the Andy tunnel on the 390-foot level of the Utah Anex mine. At that time the smoke was belching from the mouth of the Minnie tunnel, and it is believed that by constructing smudges at the foot of an incline connecting the Minnie and Andy tunnels that the Mexican would be safely bottled up.

TWO FALL DEAD. The posse had reached the incline and had proceeded upwards but a short distance when three shots were fired. Deputy Sheriff Hulsey, Dr. Ray and Tom Manders were somewhat apart from the others and were preparing to light a fire to start the smudges when the three shots were fired from above in rapid succession. Hulsey and the Austrian fell with the first two, the third whistling past Dr. Ray. The latter said that Hulsey groaned once or twice and then lay still. The Austrian never uttered a sound.

The balance of the posse which was in the Andy tunnel at the time of the firing rushed to the mouth of the incline but were afraid to at once return to the Mexican's fire because of the probability of hitting their companions, whose injury they feared, but were not sure of. In a few moments, Dr. Ray crawled from the incline and told of the shooting and Sheriff Jones then returned to the foot of the Mexican. Silence was the answer to the echo of his shots.

FEARS TO MAKE MOVE. The killing or fatal injury of Hulsey and the Austrian has effectively prevented the building of smudges in the Andy tunnel because it is feared that if the two men are not dead, the fumes from the smudges ascending to the Minnie tunnel through the incline would surely be fatal. Because of the fact that the Mexican is probably hiding in a niche in the incline deputies cannot go up to see in what condition their companions are. A guard consisting of Sheriff Aljets, Patrolman Keddington, Domm, Hendrickson and Wire of Salt Lake, and A. F. Thompson of Bingham was placed at the foot of the incline to prevent the descent of the Mexican. The poisonous fumes in the Minnie tunnel above him prevent escape in that direction.

Lopez is wanted for the killing of a countryman in the Highland Boy mine a week ago and of three deputy sheriffs who tried to capture him.

Egg Boycott Will Be Unrelenting

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Across a table on which reposed a lonely but highly symbolic egg the housewives of Chicago and the egg dealers, through their representatives, met here today to discuss the boycott being conducted by the women. The conference lasted two hours and there was no compromise. The boycott will continue. The wholesalers said the prices were due to a shortage and the boycott might be a good thing for all concerned, as the astuteness of the boycotters would lighten the task of the dealers who have not eggs enough to go around.

The women declared that the boycott would be pushed with vigor to enlist women throughout the country in addition to the 100,000 said to be in the ranks in Illinois.

Berkeley Woman Sues For Stock and Damages

REDDING, Nov. 29.—Mrs. Mary McArthur of Berkeley today brought suit against the John McArthur Company, the largest land corporation in Shasta county, asking for $25,000 damages and the possession of seventy-two of the 500 shares of stock in the McArthur land corporation. Mrs. McArthur alleges that the stock was obtained on her husband's death by undue influence of relatives. The seventy-two shares are estimated to be worth $100,000.

IDENTIFIES PARTNER OF BRADLEY

Oakland Saloonkeeper Says Kessler Was With Escaped Boy

Pair Robbed Place in the Annexed District Soon After Break

Bert Kessler, alias Bert Kelly, serving five years in San Quentin for a robbery, was last night positively identified as the partner of Robert Bradley, jail breaker, and accused slayer of Special Policeman Williams two years ago. Kelly, as the man was best known, was identified by Charles Irle, a saloon keeper of 3015 Boulevard avenue, as the man who, with Bradley, robbed his place shortly after the latter's escape from the Alameda county jail. It is also declared that Bradley and Kessler together robbed the Court House saloon in Stockton.

The holdup of Patrolman Gunter of Oakland and the convict in San Quentin, and several other crimes are said by the police to have been probably committed by them.

Shortly after Bradley's escape, say the police, he met Kessler, or Kelly, and the two engaged in a series of robberies. Among these was the robbery of a man named Neman, who, when later jailed on a 30-days vagrancy charge, gave the first clue to Bradley's recapture.

Following this, efforts were made to locate his partner, and finally evidence pointed to the man convicted in Stockton. A photograph sent by the prison authorities, dated last night, and this was taken to the East Oakland saloon man. The latter identified the photograph as Bradley's partner without hesitation. It will be decided next week whether or not Kessler will be forced to stand trial on any of these charges.

Bert Wiltmood, a customer in the Boulevard Avenue saloon, who was also robbed by Bradley and his partner, according to the police, also has declared that the photo is sufficient identification of the other man.

Offers Story to Save Chas. Becker's Life

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Sam Schepps, the state's most important witness in the Rosenthal murder trial, today offered to tell an entirely different story, which he declared "may possibly save Becker." Charles Becker, former police lieutenant, and the four gunmen, all convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, a gambler are now in the death house at Sing Sing awaiting execution. The argument of their appeal for a new trial will be heard Monday by the Court of Appeals.

What Schepps is willing to swear is not known, but it is believed he intends making some other than Becker the central figure in the murder and thus ameliorate the Becker case.

Schepps is now in France and the offer to aid Becker was made in cable dispatches to Mrs. Becker, the latter's wife.

Wife Leaves Nelson; 'Battler' Leaves Ring

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Mrs. Battler Nelson, formerly Fay King, newspaper cartoonist, left tonight at 9:30 o'clock for Portland over the Northwestern railroad. It was the third or fourth "permanent" separation in the Nelson family. Battler, the "Battler," seeing a good opportunity, "retired" permanently from the ring again.

Mrs. Nelson says she'll come back if Battler wants her. Battler says he wants her now, but she won't stay. There you are. Battler, Mrs. Battler and Father Nelson came on from Hedgewich late this afternoon. They went to the Hotel Sherman and a table in the Colliers Inn was set for three. After the best of the house offered had been served, the Battler took his wife to the train, kissed her good-bye and he and Papa Nelson went back to Hedgewich.

Woman Suffragists to Demand Wilson's Stand

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The delegates to the National Woman Suffrage convention here are planning to march up to the White House next week en masse and demand that President Wilson put himself on record with regard to the suffrage question. If he dodges this issue in his message on Tuesday, a delegation of one hundred women, led by Miss Jane Addams, has augmented the force now in Washington and another strong delegation from New York is scheduled to arrive tonight. In all there will be about 700 delegates present. The convention begins on Monday.

Xmas for Birdies Is Arranged in Virginia

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Senator and Mrs. John W. Kern will give a unique party on Christmas day for the birds that live in and around Kernville, their Virginia country place. Mrs. Kern has arranged a number of tiny houses and these, filled with Christmas goodies dear to the bird heart, will be suspended from the tree branches. Birdhouses will be placed on the grounds of the beautiful country home, so the birds may find a holiday feast.

Miss L. Hoke Smith to Wed Ensign R. Simpson Groom

MISS LUCY HOKE SMITH, WHOSE ENGAGEMENT TO NAVAL OFFICER IS ANNOUNCED.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Washington society got one engagement announcement that contained no element of surprise, although it was received with much interest. Senator and Mrs. Hoke Smith formally let their friends know that their daughter, Miss Lucy Hoke Smith, would become the bride of Ensign R. Simpson, U. S. N. The wedding will take place in December.

The fair-haired daughter of Georgia's best known senator has been charmed from the period preceding her debut, three years ago, with having already given a marriage on her heart to the young naval officer. In fact that engagement is said to have dated back to the school days of the pair. Certain it is that young Miss Smith was never heart whole or fancy free as a Washington girl, and everybody seemed to know it and to enjoy the situation.

Ensign Simpson came out of Annapolis only three years ago. He began laying siege to the Smith household almost immediately and Mammy Smith, who is a charming matron, laughed the couple off with the plea that they were too young. But the young folks did not let any such objections end their romance, and now Washington hears, to its entire satisfaction, that the wedding has received approval all around.

JEALOUSY MOVES IN; BEBAN MOVES OUT

Actor Leaves Car When Applause Given Him Angers Held

Strife has disrupted the little theatrical family which, in a special car is traveling with Anna Held, in vaudeville. The car de luxe houses the fair Anna and her automobile and is supposed to accommodate the other members of the company, but in Oakland a break came, according to stories told in theatrical circles today. As a result George Beban, one of the star attractions of the vaudeville road show, moved away when the car stopped in Oakland, and made his home, with Mrs. Beban, at the Hotel Oakland.

Beban refused to say what the trouble was, and Miss Held also maintained silence. Whispers about the hotel, however, and behind the wings, say that his act got far too much applause to suit Anna—that she considered herself the star, and that Beban the best reception, peeved her very much. As a result the situation became unpleasant, and Beban moved.

"One doesn't like to stay in a car all the time," he informed the clerks at the Hotel Oakland. "There is no more unpleasantness than in any other company of the kind, so why discuss it?" Beban's vaudeville act, according to critics on both sides of the bay, overshadows that of the Held, and when she read the notices she didn't like it. The applause came too plentifully, too, say members of the company, for the Italian sketch, and Anna said many things in French about it. In any case, the Beban moved out of the car, and only stays there now when it is necessary on the road.

Second Session of Congress Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The first session of the Sixty-third Congress came to a sudden end, so far as the House was concerned, at 12:55 p. m. today. No agreement had been made with Senate leaders for a recess to Monday, so the House leaders determined to act on their own initiative, as was done in 1904. "When the House meets Monday," said Speaker Clark, "I will announce that under the constitution, the second session of the Sixty-third Congress has assembled and we will begin work under that order." The Senate plans to continue until 10 a. m. Monday and recess the extra sessions up to within a few minutes of the hour the regular session opens.

FORMER ANNA GOULD PAYS COMTE'S DEBT

Prince de Sagan's Back-Scratcher Among the Articles Redeemed

PARIS, Nov. 29.—The Duchess de Talleyrand, who was Anna Gould, today ended her fight with a money-lender for the possession of a pair of trousers, an ivory back scratcher and fifty-seven other personal articles belonging to her husband, Comte Heile de Talleyrand Perigord, Prince de Sagan. While the Duchess claims a victory, the matter was compromised and the money-lender secured $1000.

Since Anna Gould married de Talleyrand after divorcing Count Boni de Castellane, she has paid out $300,000 to clear up his debts. However, a few of his creditors remain unpaid and among these was the money lender. He has made frequent attempts to collect the money without success.

During the past few days the walls in the Etolle here have been covered with numerous large yellow placards reading as follows: "Sale by authority of justice. Paris No. 135 Avenue Malakoff, at the home of Comte Heile de Talleyrand, Saturday, November 29."

A sale will be made at all hours of the day of goods seized from the Comte and now claimed by his wife, Anna Gould, of the following articles: "Mustache comb, two nail brushes, one pair of gloves, size 24, two seals bearing the arms of the Comte, one ivory back scratcher, one fur coat, three fine linen night robes, one pair of trousers, one pair of back braces, two patent razors, one handbag and numerous other articles."

During the mid-afternoon publicity given the sale, not a prospective purchaser attended, the bidders being the only person to enter the house during the day. The officer promptly seized the articles mentioned in the notice and remained on guard for several hours. In the meantime the bailiff's drab automobile stood outside the Talleyrand house and attracted the attention of all passersby.

Prince Makes Little Progress at College

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Prince Henry had made so little progress in his studies at Eton that there is no chance of his being able to pass his examination. If the Prince remains in the lower school next term he still will have to "tag" notwithstanding he should "tag" only for one term. Prince Henry, the fourth, will be specially coached during the holidays, and then if he fails King George may demand his exemption from "tagging."

STERLINGS DECIDE TO SEPARATE

Poet and Spouse Come to Parting of the Ways

Wife Leaves Carmel Art Colony, While Husband Remains

News of the separation of George Sterling, author of "The Testimony of the Suns" and "The Wine of Wizardy," and his wife, Carrie Sterling, surprised the Carmel art colony last night. Several times a separation was rumored, but each time the quarrel was patched up and the Sterlings again became reconciled. This time, however, all is declared over, and Sterling himself has so informed a number of his friends.

Mrs. Sterling left Carmel, it is declared, to visit her sister, Mrs. Harry Maxwell, in this city, but neither Mrs. Maxwell nor her sister could be located last night. The latter, a widow of the late capitalist, has been living at the Key Route Inn for some days, and also was at the Hotel Oakland for a time. She is well known socially.

Sterling and his wife formerly lived in Oakland, where the author before he achieved the climax of his fame, was employed with the Realty Syndicate. It was during this period that "The Testimony of the Sun" won him renown, and when Ambrose Bierce declared him America's greatest living poet, and "The Wine of Wizardy" set the literary folk of the country on their heels. He left this city, moving to the Carmel art colony.

In Carmel he has written a number of poems, and has been active in a number of sections of the local literary life, and has been a frequent visitor to the classic California resort.

Sterling has mentioned the trouble to several friends in Carmel, and through these the news traveled to Berkeley, where many of the art colony winter. Literary circles last night were discussing the news. Whether a divorce is contemplated is not stated, but it is declared that Mrs. Sterling, who took the initiative in the separation, will probably file suit. Sterling is now in Carmel. "Temperamental differences" is the blanket explanation of the parting which is in circulation for all general purposes.

Brother and Sister Are Victims of Gas

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—Robert Hall, a retired engineer, 63 years old, and his aged sister, Mrs. Anna Hall, 75 years old, were asphyxiated tonight at their home, 255 Folsom street, as the result of an unfortunate accident. Both were found dead by George W. Conner, who occupies a store beneath their flat, and who was aroused into action by hearing water leaking into his place. He endeavored to gain admittance to the house, but was unsuccessful. Breaking in the door, he rushed upstairs to find the house flooded. The gas was burning beneath a water heater in the bathroom. This had leaked, causing the boiling water to make a pool on the floor and filling the place with steam. The gas had evidently burned up the oxygen and a small leak had added to the danger. Hall was found lying on his couch fully dressed and his sister was discovered in her room on the floor, where she had fallen. Both were dead.

Russians Are Dazzled By American Women

PARIS, Nov. 29.—The Imperial Russian officers enjoying themselves here continue to show a marked preference for American society women as dancing partners. Countess Du Bourgo de Borne gave a dinner and dance at her mansion last night in honor of several of the younger Russian grand duchesses and grand dukes. Nearly a dozen American women were present and the grand dukes were most attentive, asking them to dance repeatedly. The Americans were not only the best dancers, but wore the smartest gowns.

Cole Blease Roars His Hatred of Wilson

ANDERSON, S. C., Nov. 29.—Addressing an audience of 1000 farmers here today in his campaign for Senator Eliason R. Smith's seat in the U. S. Senate, Governor Cole L. Blease denounced President Wilson because he said their President allowed negroes to boss white men and wrote women in the government service in Washington. "I tell you, Wilson will not be re-elected unless he changes his present policy," said Blease, who explained that he never had been a Wilson man. Blease also denounced Federal encroachment on state's rights.

Board May Establish Twelve Reserve Banks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The Federal Reserve Board today adopted an amendment giving the Federal reserve board authority to issue reserve banks of not less than $100,000 or more than twelve in number. The conference will reconvene tomorrow at 9 o'clock.

THIRD MANIAC TRAILED BY POSSE

One of injured attendants at Mendocino Hospital Will Die, Is Belief.

Victims of Attack of Patients Are All Reported in Serious Condition.

UKIAH, Cal., Nov. 29.—The condition of Bob Gilley, Walter Broege and Oscar Getz, attendants at the Mendocino state hospital who were worst injured and there seems little or no chance for him.

The maniacs made a desperate assault last night on the attendants with an iron bar, grabbed the keys and escaped. The maniacs made their escape before the authorities knew anything of the attempt.

The escape was made at dinner time when the officers were eating. Two of the patients are criminals, McKintosh, the leader, came from was serving a four-year sentence for grand larceny. Peoples, the other criminal, came to the hospital October 27 and was under a charge of desertion from a prison ship at Seattle and had one and one-half years to

ATTENDANTS ATTACKED. McKintosh and Peoples planned the escape and induced Zavitch, an insane man, to join with them. There were just two attendants in this ward, but the violent ward, they were Bob Gilley and Walter Broege, and were assisted by Oscar Getz, a trusty.

While the attendants were at one end of the corridor the criminals secured an iron bar from a bedstead and approached the attendants and began to beat them over the head with the bar. Gilley was knocked down, but crawled under a bed to escape the blows. The criminals then proceeded to beat Broege, knocking him unconscious. Broege, however, had thrown away his keys. The criminals then renewed their attack on the trusty. They also attacked Getz, the trusty, laying him out for dead. The real insane man, Zavitch, also got into the mix-up. The criminals got the keys and $40 from the wounded Gilley and escaped into the darkness.

TWO ARE CAPTURED. They knew little of the country and were harrowed and made poor headway. McKintosh arrived at an Indian village early in the morning and the Indians notified the hospital authorities, who came and captured him. Peoples and Zavitch were also captured in the morning. Peoples going north, while Zavitch, the real crazy man, came into the sheriff's office and asked them to assist him to escape. He was taken back to the hospital.

A still hunt is being made for Peoples and he will doubtless be caught before morning.

Fresno Dan' Now Rich As Result of Death

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—The sudden death of William Clifford Russell, the referee at the Madison square today, will be followed by the reopening of one of the most famous law cases in the history of the country. William C. Russell made a deathbed will on November 27. By its terms what is left of the Russell estate, between $250,000 and $300,000, will be divided among Fresno Dan, the recognized bridge, an aunt, and members of the Russell and Almy families.

Dakota Dan's name does not appear. As soon as the document is filed, Dakota Dan will start proceedings to break it. Already he has taken steps to this end. Fresno Dan, who has been visiting relatives in Buda, Ill., is on his way to Boston.

Petroskey to Battle Whirlwind at Butte

BUTTE, Nov. 29.—Saller Ed Petroskey of San Francisco and Leon Ben tomorrow will sign articles for a twelve-round contest here under the auspices of the Copper City Athletic club about December 15.

The man will fight at 155 pounds. Benz has fought fifteen battles here, winning all except one draw. Of the others he won twelve by the knockout route within four rounds.

PATROLMAN HURT IN CHASE AFTER BURGLAR

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—While chasing a burglar in an unfinished building at Sixth and Folsom streets tonight, Thomas Stanton, a patrolman attached to the Southern station, fell 30 feet and was painfully hurt. The officer noticed a man cutting away plumbings in the building, which is in course of construction. He entered, drew his revolver, and commanded the thief to come forth. Instead of doing so the robber mounted to the second floor and a chase followed. Finally Stanton stumbled into an open section and dropped to the pavement in the darkness. He received a contusion of a thigh, a lacerated scalp and other minor hurts. The burglar succeeded in getting away.

GERMANY TO EXHIBIT OFFICIALLY AT FAIR

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—Germany will be officially represented at the Panama Pacific Exposition at San Francisco. This decision was made today at meetings of the German parties represented in the Reichstag at which it was decided to bring a full Monday asking for an appropriation of $600,000 for a German building to be known as the "Deutscher Haus." To action of the party groups in the passage of the bill by a substantial majority. It is not believed any action will be offered by the government.

DUCHESS AND DUKE MAY BE RECONCILED

Marlboroughs to Forget Their Differences and Reunite, Rumor in London.

Queen Mary Is Anxious to Bring Couple Together for Children's Sake.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The correspondence of the International News Service learned from a high authority today that as soon as certain matters too much notoriety, the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough will start their lives anew and resume together their recognized position in society. Public indications are lacking to support this and lead to the inference that the couple are reconciled. The Duke and Duchess unofficially to dissolve their marital partnership several years ago are being bridged over.

The Duchess was born in France. She was married to the Duke, who had spent a four-week vacation in London and Paris and is now glad to return to work.

The Duchess looked radiant. She wore a striking costume, a tulle of green and black. She had a black velvet hat with a black velvet ribbon around her neck and one row of her famous pearls. She kissed Vanderbilt affectionately.

DUCHESS IS POPULAR. The reconciliation of the most popular Duchess in all England and her husband is something for which the friends of the couple at court have hoped for years. Queen Mary has tried to bring it about. She has used all the arts of diplomacy for two reasons—the first, because she is particularly fond of the Duchess, and the second, because of the children of the pair.

The Duchess has sacrificed much for the children, her two boys—Lord Ivor Spencer Churchill and the Marquis of Blandford. The boys are of an age—one is 17 and the other 15—and they are at an age when they long for all the social advantages to which their parentage entitles them.

A third reason for the reconciliation, aside from the children, is the keen desire of the Duke to be included in the next Tory cabinet. This is practically impossible under the present condition of his matrimonial affairs.

POLITICS IN CASE. The present political situation in England is such that the Duke is anxious to be included in the next Tory cabinet. This is practically impossible under the present condition of his matrimonial affairs.

It is not hearsay to state there is likelihood of a Conservative government being returned and it is this eventually that is causing the Duke to enter public life, has marked him as a candidate for the next Conservative government. He already has been mentioned as possible secretary for the colonies or board of agriculture.

The recent opposition of the Duke to Lord George's land reform plans, together with his obvious desire to enter public life, has marked him as a candidate for the next Conservative government. He already has been mentioned as possible secretary for the colonies or board of agriculture.

TRIES TO RECOVER REALTY FROM WIFE

WOODLAND, Nov. 29.—The latest move as the result of the divorce that have arisen between Irma R. Laugenour and William R. Laugenour, which brought about an action for divorce filed recently in San Francisco by Mrs. Laugenour, was made today by Laugenour, who filed suit against his wife for the recovery of certain real estate said to have been conveyed to Mrs. Laugenour by her husband in 1908 and 1909.

About 25,000 acres of land located near Dunnigan is involved. The complaint recites that Laugenour was desirous of negotiating a loan and that the conveyance was made with the understanding that Mrs. Laugenour would convey the property upon the demand of Laugenour and that Mrs. Laugenour now repudiates the agreement and refuses to convey the property and is claiming a title.

The complaint asks that the court compel Mrs. Laugenour to convey the property. Laugenour is president of the Yolo Hardware Company and is worth about $100,000 and owns a fine residence in Berkeley, besides valuable realty in San Francisco and Yolo county.

SON IS SUING MOTHER TO REGAIN BIG TRACT

STOCKTON, Nov. 29.—Charles Elmer Miller has filed suit against his mother, Mrs. Harriet A. Miller, and her husband, J. B. Miller, for the recovery of a large tract of land in the Yolo Hardware Company and is worth about $100,000 and owns a fine residence in Berkeley, besides valuable realty in San Francisco and Yolo county.

The complaint recites that Laugenour was desirous of negotiating a loan and that the conveyance was made with the understanding that Mrs. Laugenour would convey the property upon the demand of Laugenour and that Mrs. Laugenour now repudiates the agreement and refuses to convey the property and is claiming a title.

SEEK TO SHOW DOMINATION BY S. P.

Secretary Testifies Railroad Trustee Held Control in Oil Company.

Government Prosecutes Suit to Cancel Patents to Land Grants.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—To show the alleged domination of the Associated Oil Company by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for the mony taken here today in the hearing being conducted as a part of the federal suit against the Southern Pacific in the United States Court of Southern California to cancel patents to government grants in the Elk Hills district.

It is the government's purpose to show that the company's claim that the old numbered sections are non-mineral is untenable when under a ing the even numbered sections as mineral lands.

SECRETARY IS WITNESS. P. G. Williams, secretary of the Associated Oil Company, was on the witness stand and through him it was established that the Southern Pacific, through W. F. Hervey as trustee, holds 200,000 shares of the total 400,000 shares of capital stock of the oil corporation, and that of $12,000,000 worth of bonds issued January 15, 1910, the railroad subscribed $12,000,000. The Southern Pacific first appeared as a stockholder in the oil corporation January 1, 1904, when, in order to allow issue of 100,000 shares of capital stock, the railroad held 40,000. Two years later it owned a controlling interest.

TRUSTEESHIP TRANSFERRED. Williams testified that the Union Trust Company of San Francisco became trustee for the company's first bond issue of $3,000,000, authorized August, 1902, but that the trustee company was transferred to the Southern Pacific Trust Company of Los Angeles at a later date.

W. W. Flavel, secretary of the state mining bureau, was a witness in rebuttal for the government today, being called to testify to the classification of oil-bearing lands as mineral.

The hearing will be continued Monday.

NAPOLEON RELICS BRING HIGH PRICES

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The sale of the second part of the Napoleon collection of William Latta of Philadelphia, was held at the Anderson galleries. The total sales of the day were $2,024. David Belasco, who was there in person, was the heaviest buyer with $385.

The first part of the collection was held last April, and consisted of Mr. Latta's library relating to Napoleon, and his collection of bronzes, with selections from his prints and autographs. Of the two sessions, the afternoon sales consisted of autographs, letters and documents, including a number of portraits, engravings, miniatures, gold boxes and small bronzes.

William Patten was the highest buyer of the day, with $175 for the gold snuffbox presented by Napoleon to his sister Caroline. Mr. Patten also bought for $80 the fan presented to Napoleon for his marriage with Josephine.

Several Philadelphia people were at the sales, including John Gilbert, who bought for $500 the duplicate civil marriage certificate of Napoleon and Josephine. Mr. Latta obtained a gold snuffbox presented by Napoleon together with the original letter of presentation. For $500, William H. Hoffman bought a miniature of Napoleon by Isabey for $320, besides two other purchases of $102.50 and $15.

GYPSIES IN WAR; "PRINCESS" IS CAUSE

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 29.—John Mitchell for 26 years "king" of the gypsies in Illinois, is tottering on his throne. Fifteen of the strongest and bravest men of the tribe, armed and determined, are entrenched in No. 1140 South Jefferson avenue, the home of "Princess" Mary and her husband, George Limbo, resolved to resist "King John."

"Princess" Mary is the daughter of "King John." By all the laws of the tribe and the laws of the United States she is George Limbo's wife. He paid $1500 cash for her and spent $500 additional for a celebration. But "King John" is avaricious. Visions of a greater fortune led him to attempt to regain possession of his daughter in order that he may sell her to another man who bid $2500 for her.

To foil him George Limbo hurried from the gypsy camp in Summit, Ill., to Chicago, where he remarried his bride according to the laws of the United States and Illinois. Still undaunted, "King John" began an action to annul the marriage, declaring that the license was obtained by perjury.

Limbo does not fear the outcome of the legal action, but the vision of a mid-winter and the theft of his wife was always with him. So he told his story to his friends and immediately 15 of them deserted the camp and installed themselves in the "castle" maintained by George and "Princess" Mary to protect them day and night.

LIVES FOR TWO YEARS WITH BROKEN NECK

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Nov. 29.—While on a fair way to make good his promise to "fool the surgeons," made more than two years ago, when diving into shallow water, Waldorf Miller, 19 years old, died from stomach trouble. He had so far recovered from his injury that three weeks ago he was permitted to leave his wheel chair and walk a few steps.

Several years ago a brother of Miller also received a broken neck by diving. He lived 10 days after the accident.

LEAVING MONTEREY. Americans and other foreigners are leaving Monterey as rapidly as possible. Dispatches received at the state department today say that every train for Laredo from Monterey is loaded with Americans, other foreigners and Mexicans.

The state department today gave out a report from Monterey that the papers there are stating that the negroes of the United States are in rebellion and with President and Secretary Bryan have been so busy with the insurance that they have no time to devote to Mexico. The "negro revolution" is reported to be most urgent "in Indiana, Texas and Colorado."

None of the departments had any information today regarding the report from Mexico City that Mr. O'Shaughnessy was about to make some declaration that the trouble between the United States and Mexico would soon be settled.

STORY IS CONFIRMED. The navy department today confirmed the story that Great Britain had waived her naval rights in Mexican waters in a personal communication between Admiral Sir Christopher Cradock and Rear Admiral Fletcher. Sir Christopher is said to have assured Admiral Fletcher that no action would be taken by the British ships without consultation with the American commander. This statement was made to dispose of the report that there had been a clash between the British and American commanders over the question of seniority.

MOVE ON CHIHUAHUA. EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 29.—The rebel army movement against Chihuahua city has begun in earnest. Since 6 o'clock this morning—two weeks to the hour since the beginning of the fight that gave Juarez to General Pancho Villa's Constitutionalists—entraining of cavalry for the movement south has been constantly in progress, superintended by the rebel leader himself.

Shortly before dawn this morning a troop train carrying 500 men under General Maclovio Herrera steamed southward over the Mexican Central. A second military train bearing fourteen machine guns and 1000 cavalry, departed at 10:30 o'clock and was followed two hours later by a third train load of cavalry. A fourth train left this afternoon, completing the troop movement.

The advance guard of Villa's army left Friday night, machine guns and 1000 cavalry, half of which went overland, the rest by train. This column will precede the main army, its mission being to repair the railway wherever it may be found destroyed and to see that telegraphic communication is not interrupted. Three machine guns, fourteen machine guns and food supplies were sent south from Juarez today, making a total of 2500 rebels already enroute to attack the federals.

NEW POSTMASTERS ARE CONFIRMED BY SENATE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The following California postoffice appointments were confirmed by the Senate today: San Rafael, M. P. Cochrane; Marysville, Thomas J. ## OPEN OPPOSITION TO HETCH-HETCHY Theodore Bell Sends Letters to Senators on Behalf of San Joaquin.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The opening of the first fight in the long struggle of the Hetch-Hetchy valley is now on. Theodore Bell, of San Joaquin, has introduced into the record the following telegram from Theodore A. Bell:

Water users and farmers earnestly protest against present Hetch-Hetchy bill. San Francisco does not need water, while every gallon is absolutely necessary for future development in San Joaquin valley. Official reports show 170,000,000 gallons daily can be developed from present sources. San Francisco has enough for 10 years. If additional is needed $20,000,000 daily can be obtained from El River free from conflicting claims and delivered in San Francisco for less than $30,000,000, including Snow mountain power plant; water shortage here is result of failure to develop supply. Power privilege Theodore Bell river should be reserved for development of San Joaquin valley. Two hundred thousand acres will remain arid if storage right be given San Francisco. Valley's whole future depends on storage, as limit to natural flow has been reached. Leaving for Washington today, amply prepared to sustain every statement above made.

THEODORE A. BELL. Attorney for Water Users' Association of the Hetch-Hetchy Valley.

BITTERLY NEAR. The telegram is dated November 27 and similar messages have been received from Bell by other members of the Senate. The message is regarded here as the first showing of their hand by the power interests and a bitter fight is expected to be precipitated on the floor of the Senate. In addition to Bell's message, Senator Borah introduced a statement by Richard P. Incho's advocacy of the Hetch-Hetchy site.

Further extending the fight on Hetch-Hetchy, Richard P. Incho, of the American Civic Association, today wired the district Federation of Women's Clubs in opposition to the bill.

READY FOR OPPOSITION. So far no serious opposition on the Senate's support of the Hetch-Hetchy measure has apparently been made. With the power interests out in the open, opposition to the bill will doubtless be developed in unexpected quarters, but the San Francisco representatives already on the ground are confident that their planned assault on the bill will be checked.

RADICAL CHANGE MADE BY LABOR FEDERATION

SEATTLE, Nov. 29.—The Building Trades Council of the American Federation of Labor adopted today, 26 to 25, a constitutional amendment which will substitute for the present elected executive council a board composed of one member from each affiliated organization, the president and secretary-treasurer to have a vote but not a vote on matters before the executive council. This is a radical departure from the policy of the department. It was vigorously opposed by President James Duncan of the Granite Cutters, who is first vice-president of the American Federation of Labor.

The radicals followed up their victory by electing Thomas J. Williams, a tile layer of Pittsburg, president, over James A. Short, William J. Spencer of Washington, D. C. was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

POLICEMEN LISTEN TILL DICTAPHONE GOES WRONG

"Grrrrrrrr! Look out for a woman! Grrrrrrrr!" This isn't the advice of a swain disappointed in love and turned misanthrope, out a police order, as transmitted to every patrolman in Oakland last night over the police dictaphone-telephone system. The "Grrrrrrrr" stand for a more complete description, telling height, complexion and dress, and also bearing the information that the lady is tattooed. The police were fooled by a scratching needle on the recording apparatus.

Requests for an examination followed the alarm, and Lieutenant William Woods, who made the record, was called. He listened, investigated the recorder, and located the trouble. Ten minutes later all the force got the real record.

Are Excluded.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 29.—The federal safety appliance act, requiring railroads to have 50 per cent of the cars in all trains equipped with airbrakes, does not apply to switching operations, according to a decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, rendered here yesterday. Judge Hook dissented.

The decision was rendered in the case of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad in appeal from the United States District Court at Kansas City. The case was remanded to Kansas City for a new trial in the court's opinion, the evident intention of Congress in passing the act was to exempt purely switching operations, because it would take more than twice as much time to switch cars about if they must be coupled with the air-brake equipment each time.

In dissenting, Judge Hook declared since the same dangers existed on switching trains as on regular trains, there should be no exemption in this case. He further referred to the fact that the law does not specifically exempt switching operations.

SULPHUR CARGO MAKES
LONGSHOREMEN ABSTAIN

Longshoremen who enjoy a little "buff" of tobacco weed while engaged in working cargo on or off a ship will have to dispense with this habit while they are working aboard the Azumasan Maru, a Japanese tramp discharging sulphur at Long wharf. Notwithstanding the danger of ignition, stevedores smoke on board a sulphur ship with all of the nonchalance they display on a lumber carrier. But Captain Kikuchi and the Long wharf authorities believe that by foregoing the pleasure of a few drafts of smoke the wharf and vessel are in a minimum of danger. Several small fires caused by cigarette butts have caused minor fires in sulphur carriers and the longshoremen who would smoke is placing himself liable to discharge.

When the Azumasan completes its 150-ton discharge here it will sail north to Portland to pick up wheat for Japan. The craft is under the charter of Hitsu & Co., a Japanese concern.

HOLD UP NOMINATION OF
WINFRED T. DENNISON

WINSTON-SALEM, Nov. 29.—Winfred T. Dennison to be secretary of the Interior for the Philippines was held up today by Democrats of a Senate committee, who want to look into Dennison's politics. Dennison was an assistant attorney-general under the Taft administration and is accredited to the Progressive Republicans.

Nominations of Henderson Martin to be vice-governor and Clinton R. Riggs to be secretary of commerce and police were reported favorably.

A large theatre party is being arranged by the various branches of the Catholic Ladies' Aid societies of Alameda county, to be given at the Orpheum tomorrow night. The proceeds will be added to a fund which is being raised for the purpose of lifting the indebtedness on property owned by the organization at Santa Maria Del Mar, near Santa Cruz. As a large number of interested ladies from San Francisco have signified their intention of attending the theatre party, the committee in charge anticipates both a social as well as a financial success.

Among those who are lending their best efforts to the success of the affair are:

Mrs. J. Kelly, president of Branch No. 1, Mrs. J. H. Mellon, Mrs. H. Magee, the grand president, who is a resident of Oakland, Mrs. W. H. Morton, Mrs. H. Crane, Mrs. D. J. Thomas, Mrs. J. Made Public.

PANAMA, Nov. 29.—The nature of Colonel George W. Goethals' reply to the offer made to him to become manager of the city of Dayton, O., probably will not be known until his answer is made public by Dayton of officials.

In the opinion of those closest to Colonel Goethals, he will not accept. It is well known that it is his desire to remain on the Panama canal work can be properly turned over to a successor.

This stage has not yet arrived as a number of important projects remain to be carried out. The Cucaracha slide has not been mastered and as a consequence navigation from ocean to ocean for deep draught vessels is not yet accomplished.

The resignation of John D. Patterson, general superintendent of the Panama railroad has been received. He left for the United States several weeks ago on special leave, ostensibly as a witness in a law suit. It is stated that no successor to the position will be appointed at present.

Advises received here are that the "Eight-first" Company of Coast Artillery which was to sail for the Isthmus on December 17, will be stationed on Flamenco Island one of the fortified groups at the Pacific entrance of the canal.

RENO THIEF IN "COOLER"
BECAUSE OF $50 COAT

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—When Patricio Garcia left Reno, Nevada, Thursday night, he was under the impression that it was warm in San Francisco. Arriving here yesterday he was chilled by the cold wind and decided that he must have an overcoat. He stepped into the store of J. O'Neill and company, 103 Montgomery street. While the clerk was in the rear he leaned over a show case and helped himself to a $50 dress coat. It happened that Patrolman McMahon was across the street and witnessed the performance. When Garcia left he spied the officer and broke into a run. He was overhauled after a three-block chase and charged at the city prison with grand larceny.

W. C. RUSSELL, WILL
CLAIMANT, PASSES AWAY

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 29.—William C. Russell, first of the late Daniel Russell and one of the central figures in the famous Russell will case, died at the family homestead today. He was 65 years old.

Mr. Russell supposed himself to be the sole heir to the half million dollar estate of his father until about four years ago when a man from Dickinson, S. D. known as Dakota Dan, claimed half the property on the allegation that he was Daniel Blake Russell, long lost son of the testator. Later a man from Fresno, Cal., called "Fresno" Dan, was recognized by the Russell family as the missing heir and the court sustained his claim after three years of litigation.

SONS OF ST. GEORGE TO HAVE EVENING OF SONG

The members of the "Sons of St. George" announce an evening of song to be given in their lodge rooms on Wednesday, Dec. 10. Well known talent of this city have volunteered their services. Among these are Edward L. Smith, who will render a number of violin selections, his work being two of Kreisler's compositions. Miss Martin will render vocal orchestra, of which Mr. Smith is director, will play during the evening. The program are endeavoring to present an unusual order of exercises, and the evening promises much pleasure for music lovers.

the Orpheum this week has the most expensive show it has staged since the Sarah Bernhardt season! it is headed by Ellen Beach Yaw!

It is vaudeville of tremendous value—rich, snappy, fun-making vaudeville—sweet singing by some of the world's greatest stars in music—feats by athletes that take away the breath—dramatic bits that thrill and stir the blood with their cleverness and reality—beautiful dancing by stars in that field—and the smartness of the most up-to-date and

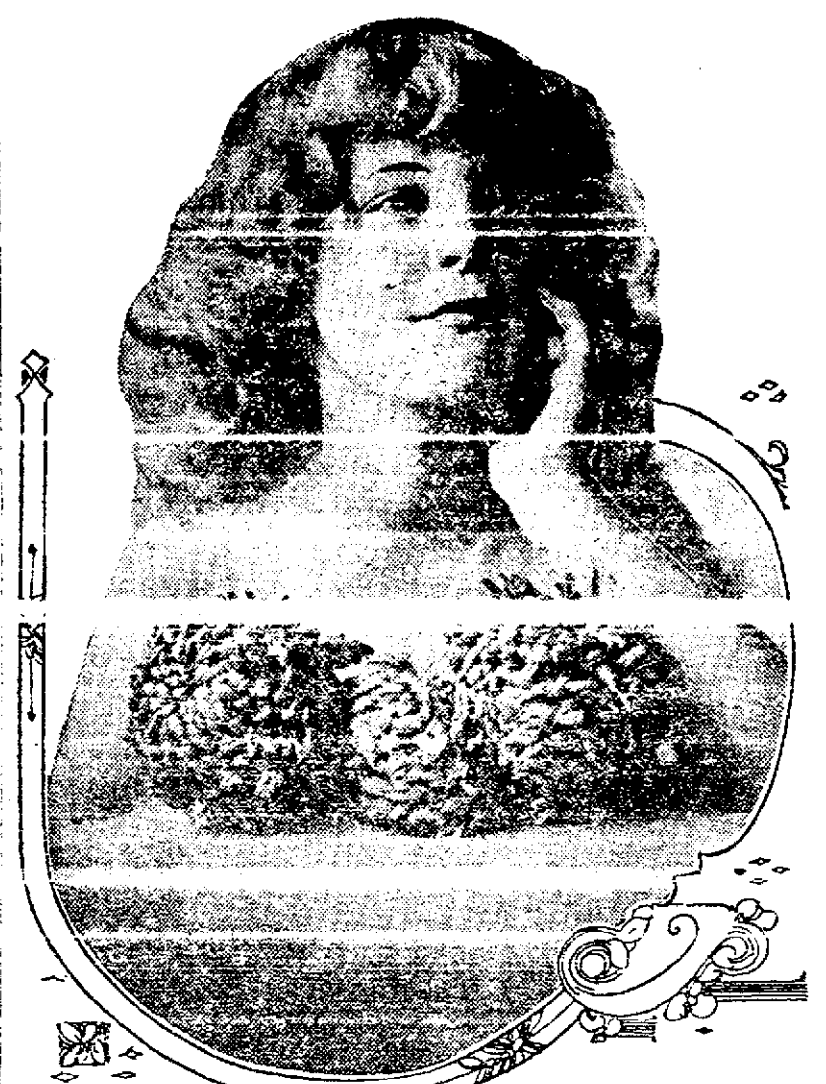

Because the bill is of such tremendous value and the crowds will be tremendous the Orpheum management respectfully calls the attention of its friends and patrons to this fact, and suggests that seats be ordered well in advance. Telephone your order now.

The management also calls attention to the following:

Orpheum Time Table

- 8:05 TO 8:15—
Operatic Concert by Conductor Kowalski's big Orpheum Orchestra.
- 8:15 TO 8:33—THREE COLLEGIANS—
Sparkling fun, embroidered with sweet music.
- 8:33 TO 8:48—SIX MUSICAL CUTTYS—
Marvelous musical family.
- 8:48 TO 9:05—DAVE GENARO & RAY BAILEY—
A gloriously clever duo in character songs, dancing and comedy bits.
- 9:05 TO 9:13—"THE GANGSTERS"—
A great comedy motion picture.
- 9:13 TO 9:30—GEO. ROLLAND & CO.—
In "FIXING THE FURNACE"—a tale of safety with nothing but laughs.
- 9:30 TO 9:35—POPULAR SONGS—
Played by the Orpheum orchestra.
- 9:35 TO 9:52—AUSTIN WEBB & CO.—
In "Your Flag and Mine," a corking dramatic bit written by Willard Mack, the actor.
- 9:52 TO 10:10—ELLEN BEACH YAW—
The world's greatest prima donna soprano, whose voice charmed and dazzled the most critical audiences in Europe and America.
- 10:10 TO 10:28—HARRY FOX & YANCSI DOLLY—
In a golden stream of rich comedy bits, new songs and up-to-the-minute dances.
- 10:28 TO 10:40—DUPREE & DUPREE—
A cycling duo from Europe whose feats are absolutely new—each a thriller.
- 10:40 TO 10:54—EXCLUSIVE MOTION PICTURES—
The world's news in picture form shown by the Pathe Weekly.
- 10:54 TO 10:56—EXIT MARCH, ORPHEUM ORCHESTRA.
- The prices are not advanced—evening prices, 10c, 25c, 50c, 75c. Box seats $1.
Matinee every day—entire orchestra 25c and 50c. Balcony 10c. All box seats at all matinees 50c.

Doll Show Enlists Young Will Contribute Talent

VYRA BLOMFELD, JUVENILE PERFORMER, WHO WILL TAKE PART IN THE DOLL SHOW FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE WEST OAKLAND HOME.

Juvenile artists will entertain the patrons at the doll show to be given for the benefit of the West Oakland home, December 4, 5 and 6 in the Edell clubhouse. The little folk will appear in character sketches, living pictures and ballet dances, which will be presented every afternoon and evening during the bazaar. Many of the gifted youngsters have already made their debut before the local public and have won laurels for their clever performances. The older folk will also compete their talent and will give original numbers for the pleasure of the patrons. The officers of the West Oakland Home declare that the doll show, which will open Thursday afternoon, will be bigger and more elaborate than that of previous years and will be one of the most interesting and enjoyable affairs ever held in this city.

The dolls are now ready for exhibition and will be dressed in their best bib and tucker throughout the show. Without uttering a word, the dolls will amaze the boys and girls. The dolls will be placed in frills and will don their latest coiffure and winter outfit, when will be much admired by the children. No labor has been spared in making the frocks for the dolls, which will be among the principal table attractions for the kiddies.

MISS GLEASON TO ASSIST.

Greeting tots of the West Oakland Home will appear in the Sunday school scene from "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," with Mrs. Mina Gleason of the Ye Liberty theater in the leading role.

The pupils of Miss Myra Morrison's school will present the exact comedy sketch of the fascinating "Fanny Brice," which they will give on the closing evening of the doll show. The scene of the play is laid in "Idlewild." Among those in the cast will be Laurence Harper, Emil Lehnardt, James Egan, Edna Finney, Kathryn Fox, Elmer Crocker, Dorothy Walker, Marion Ish and Betty Deemer.

The following programs have been arranged by the committee composed of Mrs. Emil Fritsch, chairman; Mrs. B. F. Shaw, Mrs. Mina Gleason, Mrs. A. E. Sykes, Mrs. F. W. Lauter and Mrs. A.

Thursday afternoon—Song, "Little Boy Blue," by the children of the West Oakland Home; song and dance, by "Little Boy Blue" and "Little Girl Blue," by the "Evening Prayer," children of the West Oakland Home; (b) "Coming Thro' the Rye," Muriel Lauffer and Horton MacDonald; (c) "The Little Star," Muriel Lauffer; (d) "Miss Simplicity," Madeline Johnson; (e) "Mending Day," Patty Elliott; (f) "The Doll Family," Vyra M. Blomfield; (g) "The Madonna," Mrs. Walter D. Reed and Master Dickinson Reed; (h) "Whistler's Mother," Mrs. Daniel Webster; (i) "Spring," Mrs. Fred E. Reed; Song and dance, Miss Jane Urban.

Thursday Night—Amphion Mixed Quartet, Miss Anna Soderstrand, Mrs. E. J. Reed, H. E. King and E. J. Johnson, accompanied by Miss Hazel B. Lark; reading, Miss Ida May Bradley; character singer, Gilbert Farley; A Bit of Gynastics, by pupils of St. Joseph's Academy, under direction of Prof. A. Forslund; Leslie Pines, Mario Dickinson, Bonnie Weaver, Fannie Baruch, Living pictures—(a) "Falling Out," (b) "The Girl and the Boy," (c) "The Girl and the Boy," (d) "The Girl and the Boy," (e) "The ## BAGUIO SUMMER CAPITAL DOOMED

Annual Migration of Bureaus in Manila Practically Sure to Stop.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—The Manila Times of October 17, which arrived here today, prints the following:

"Baguio as a summer capital is doomed. It is practically certain that the annual migration of the several bureaus to the mountain site among the pines will be discontinued and that hereafter government officials who go for recuperation to the land of the Igorots will go on their own expense and only on vacation leave."

"The newly appointed members of the Philippine commission, when interviewed today, were practically unanimous in their objection to what they termed the disproportionate expenditure for Baguio."

"The statement was made that the continuance of Baguio would be out of line with the policy expressed in the speech of Governor-General Harrison, yesterday, calling for stringent economy all along the line."

"One of the first bills presented to the new assembly was a resolution by Diputado Amable, of Batangas, stating that Manila shall be the situation of the insular government without interruption in any part of the year.

"The resolution authorizes the auditor to sell the government buildings at Baguio. It states that the transportation to Baguio and maintenance of employees costs annually more than 200,000 pesos; that this expenditure is not specially authorized by the Philippine legislature; that it is unnecessary and unjustified expenditure, and that it disorganizes the transactions of the bureaus with the provincial and municipal governments."

FEARS OPERATION, KILLS SELF.
NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Dreading to undergo an operation, Olaf Swenson, 60 years old, killed himself in his home, 110 St. Mark's place, Brooklyn, by inhaling gas from a tube. His wife and daughter said he had been despondent because of a long illness.

QUIT MEAT IF YOUR BACK HURTS, FLUSH YOUR KIDNEYS WITH SALTS

Meat Forms Uric Acid, Which Clogs Kidneys, Irritates Bladder or Causes Rheumatism.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and stop you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scales and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

TRIAL OF STEAMSHIP COMPANY NOT ASSURED BEGINS CAMPAIGN FOR CHAMBER MEMBERSHIP

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—United States inspectors were undecided today whether or not to push to trial the charges of poor seamanship and faulty equipment brought against the Pacific Coast Steamship Company and the officers of the steamship, testimony before we can decide if it warrants a trial on the charges made. Relatives of the dead men retained a lawyer today to press their demands for an open trial.

J. H. Milke, special membership secretary of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday started active work in his membership campaign. He will be assisted by the Progress and Prosperity committee. Milke aims to increase the chamber's membership to 1000. He is now forming a detailed program for his work.

REV. PALMER TO ADDRESS.

Rev. A. W. Palmer is to address the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. this afternoon at 8 o'clock. The subject is "Pictures That Interpret Life." This address is an outgrowth of Rev. Palmer's visit to the famous galleries of Europe last summer.

Special music for the meeting will be furnished by Mrs. T. S. Caldwell, pianist, and G. H. Smith, violinist.

UNIONIST PARTY IS WITHOUT ANY ISSUES

British Political Situation Develops Peculiar State of Affairs.

Election Would Not Aid Party in Either Way, Is Said.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

(By PHILLIP EVERETT.)

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The political situation has undergone no changes since my last letter and there is not likely to be any for some time.

give in to the clamor of the Unionists for another general election.

There is of course not the slightest reason why he should do so with the government in a position of carrying through its entire political program without the possibility of a hitch. But if he did and dissolved Parliament as soon as Lord George's new land reform has been properly put before and grasped by the masses of the people, no pen would be able to describe the consternation that would befall the Unionist party.

which has absolutely nothing to lay before the people in the way of a program except resistance to home rule, which is rather a negative one.

The results of such an election would not matter much to the Unionists. If they were defeated they would have to submit to home rule, and if they won their position would be even worse, for their first act would naturally be to drop the home rule bill entirely and in that case they would themselves have shown the Irish Nationalists the very thing to do—prepare to resist the government by armed force. Unionists have had a taste before of trying to rule Ireland when that island is in a state of rebellion, and they did not enjoy it much, and this time the rebellion would be open instead of veiled.

MAJORITY CHANCES SLIM.

Nobody knows better than the Unionist leaders, however, that their chances of getting a majority are very slim until the home rule has become a law and the number of Irish representatives at Westminster greatly reduced, and their continued cry for a general election is nothing but a sham, which is probably the reason why they are very anxious not to promise to give up their opposition to home rule in case the voters should return a majority of radical members.

Some influence is being brought to bear on the board of trade to make that body prosecute the Salvation Army, whose "beggar" General Booth, once in New York, occupied the royal suite on a crash liner. One of the army's sources of income in London is the sale of various kinds of rubbish collected all over the city and the men and women who do the sorting of the into various categories are declared to be shameless, unprincipled, and required to sort a half a ton a day. The army gives board and lodging to a man who is able to handle the above named quantity and if he does more he is paid at the rate of three cents for every hundredweight, it is alleged.

LOW WAGES, CHARGE.

A competent carpenter employed regularly by the Army gets the meager sum of 35 cents a week for which at frequent and stated intervals he is required to return dumb thanks to Providence.

At the "Salvation" wharf the conditions are said to be even worse. A gang of seven men, loading a hundred tons of stuff, receives eight shillings and two pence for its collective effort, each man getting a shilling and a trifle over for the share of the work of a week.

There is no doubt in the minds of the members of the government or of anyone else that the losses of radical votes at recent by-elections were due to the fact that while Larkin, who tried to help at the election, was in prison.

LARKIN IS CHARGED.

"Larkin was sent to prison for inciting the populace to rebel against existing authority, while Sir Carson has only told his followers to make revolution if the Home Rule bill comes a law, and there is no law which prohibits any man or any number of men threatening or organizing opposition to a non-existing order of things.

"But the moment the Home Rule bill becomes law the position of Sir Edward Carson, F. L. Smith, Captain Craig and others is automatically changed. A continuance of their campaign would become high treason and each of them would be liable to the death penalty."

That is the view law officers of the crown are obliged to take when advising the government in the present crisis and when Sir Edward arouses a storm of applause from Ulster conventurers and Tory galleries in England by challenging the government to prosecute him, he knows very well that answer he has up his sleeve. So far he has done nothing but ask his followers to remain faithful to the existing government, a most loyal act in the eyes of the law which must necessarily deal with fact and not with contingencies. Who will now deny that Sir Carson is a hero?

Londoners are wondering not only what is the matter with the Canadian farmers but also what the Canadian farmers will do to Mrs. Leathes, the wife of a Toronto professor when she returns home.

At a woman's meeting the other day in this city Mrs. Leathes said that her life in Canada was so terrible that in all Canada it was impossible to find a girl who would willingly marry a Canadian rancher.

"There are hundreds of women brought into our insane asylum in Canada," she said, "of whom the vast majority come from the country districts and have absolutely gone insane through neglect and solitude."

A man's honesty does not depend on the size of his income or his means of earning a living. Thirty-five years' experience trusting people has taught us that the man striving for a home can be as safely trusted working for wages as he could be if he drew his salary as president of a bank. That is why we are willing to furnish up the smallest salaried man in California on his mere "promise to pay."

That's why we are willing to grant the toiler the same easy terms we would allow the owner of a corporation. We ask no security—we require no mortgage. All we ask is one thing—that is: A great big natural desire for the comforts of a home. If you have that desire we know you are honest. Our credit is open to you. You can buy as much as you like and pay for it as you can afford. Start an account with us tomorrow. Make capital out of Friedman's "faith in mankind."

MONSTER SCIENCE ENGINES TOLD OF

Noted Astronomers Address
Society of Pacific at Meeting.

Great engines of science which sweep the skies that this world may know of other worlds that lie beyond, the instruments which give servants the clues to life on Mars and Mercury and the routes of comets millions of miles away and invisible to the eyes of man, were the topic of discussion last night at Chabot observatory when, before the Astronomical Society of the Pacific, Dr. C. D. Brashear and Ambrose Swasey, American scientists who have fashioned the majority of the big telescopes of today, addressed the local followers of the starmounting.

Brashear, who is noted as a maker of the most delicate machinery of the telescope. They described the Lick and Yerkes telescopes, which they built, and the great Vancouver reflector, the largest telescope in the world, which brings the moon almost within rifle-shot, and the far-off planets, optically, within a few miles.

R. G. AITKEN PRESIDES.

The session was presided over by Robert G. Aitken, director of Lick observatory, who is noted as a maker of the most delicate machinery of the telescope. They described the Lick and Yerkes telescopes, which they built, and the great Vancouver reflector, the largest telescope in the world, which brings the moon almost within rifle-shot, and the far-off planets, optically, within a few miles.

Brashear dealt minutely with the grinding of lenses, speaking of curvature, defects in glass to be overcome before accurate results may be obtained, the elasticity of glass, considered in designing and of thousands of small problems which are involved in the making of the objective of the reflecting instrument or the mirror of the reflector.

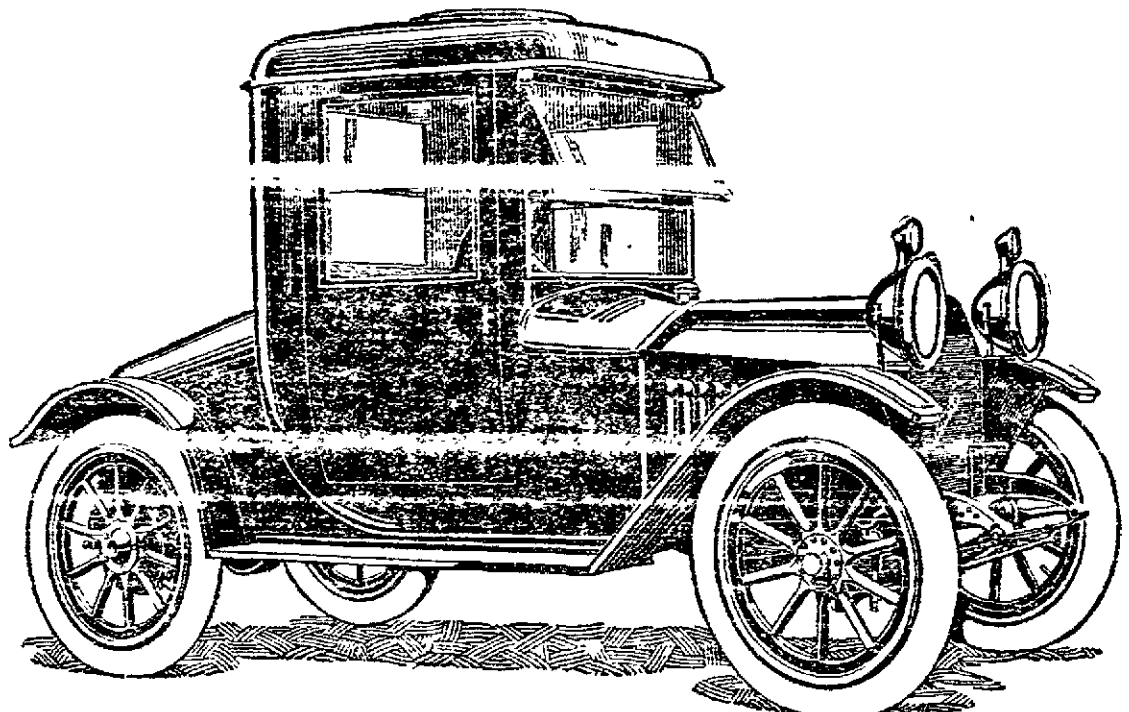

Swasey told of the methods of manufacturing mathematically correct equatorial, balances for telescopes or transit, new devices for chronographical work, connections for sidereal clocks and other subjects pertaining to the mounting of instruments. Both expressed the keenest interest in the Oakland project, in which an astronomical observatory is being planned for the University of California.

After a few days in Oakland the scientists will go north and will finally visit Vancouver, where their greatest instrument is.

THE BETTER WAY:

(BY CHRISTOPHER RUESS)
JUST ONE SMALL BOY AND HIS TROUBLES.

"Little, but—oh, my!" If we knew one small boy well, we should know all about boys. Including men, just as Tennyson says of the footers.

"I hold you out of the crannies. I hold you here, root and all, and all in all. I should know what God and man is."

How many causes are hinted and how many ways out of the maze are hinted by a brief conversation, a little eye-rolling, a quiet talk with a 15-year-old boy who is said to be a runaway from home, a problem to which there is no answer in the back of the book at all—at any rate, so far as his mother can see as she deposits him to her infinite relief at the Detention House.

RECIPE OF TROUBLES.
"Yes, that's the maker of it," said the boy, "but I'm not going to school. The teacher kept me till 4 o'clock after school for not spelling well, to write a thousand times the word I didn't spell right—and I sneaked out on her. Then my mother hid my clothes because I wouldn't go to school, and I sneaked out on her. I was out with lots of other boys."

STATE OWNERSHIP IS FAILURE IN FRANCE

PARIS, Nov. 29.—France has been unsuccessful in operating the Western Railway, and the policy of state ownership of railways is now being questioned in the National Assembly and throughout the republic. The annual deficit of the Western, which was 27,000,000 francs in 1908, when the government acquired the line, has steadily grown until it amounted in 1912 to 90,000,000 francs. The total deficit in the last six years is $74,000,000. The wages and salaries have gone up by 64 per cent of the total receipts in 1912 to 100 per cent in 1913, and the other expenses have increased from 45.4 per cent of the total revenues in 1908 to 89.3 per cent in 1912.

Learn System in Housework Home Builder Gives Advice

THE WOMAN OF TRAINED MIND REALLY PRODUCES BEST RESULTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The woman of trained mind has the advantage of system in approaching the problem of house-keeping.

"She uses the same force in home-building as in her profession."

"I believe every woman should be trained for the work for which she is best fitted, out of the earnings of which she may in turn pay for that for which she is less suited."

"The question is that women keep too close tab on servants and nag at them."

"Servants enjoy responsibility if it is respected."

"Except in emergencies, they should work only eight hours a day."

"It is better to let the middle man buy the whole hog."

"Never order more than you need, use over the telephone unless you know the brand and its exact cost."

"I make out my menus daily, according to the nourishment I will need for that particular day."

"I outline every day's work in the house and leave it to be done without ever a nagging."

"These are the views of Mrs. Inez Milholland Boissevain, termed 'the most beautiful suffragist' lawyer, wife and housekeeper. We talked it all over at her law office."

That Inez Milholland Boissevain has gone into the business of house-keeping much in the same spirit as she entered the activities of the legal profession, is evident from her summing up of the principles of home making, as follows:

HOUSEKEEPING A PLEASURE.
"Although I have not been house-keeping very long, I am not making a problem of it, but rather a pleasure. And although my husband has not yet had the opportunity of doing his share upon my account, my brothers, to whom I am hostess, seem thoroughly to enjoy my management. However, Mr. Boissevain says for New York today, and you may imagine how eagerly I'm looking forward to his approval of my new industry—house-keeping."

"It may seem a broad statement to make, but I believe that the women of trained minds really produce the best results in house-keeping. For example, were I to sweep a floor or wash dishes, or perform any other similar task, as I have done at times, I am confident that I approach these things with the same sense of system as I would in making out a brief."

"But why should I do the cooking and the baking and the sweeping when the work is done by my maid, and for which I am particularly more fitted than that of house-keeping? Therefore I think it is logical, to say the least, for any woman to do that which makes best use of her energies and characteristics and leave to others the performance of work which is better suited to them."

PROGRAM OF HOUSEKEEPING.
"This is an age where house-keeping, with all the modern sanitary methods and implements, is daily simplifying the daily routine of work, so that the brain is much more in demand than brawn in the general scheme. Therefore it is almost a simple matter for a woman to plan, work and then work my plan. I think every professional woman can readily formulate a program of house-keeping and carry it out successfully."

"First of all, I have a cook and a maid. I arrange my own menus and buy the food for five days ahead. I am very careful to have only that kind of food that will be nourishing for that particular day. For example, if I am going out to speak that night I do not want a heavy dinner. If I am to be at home and have plenty of leisure there are other kinds of food I prefer."

"In this way, before starting to my office in the morning, and knowing my plans for the day, I settle this matter of cooking accordingly. The general housework is also prearranged in the same way, so that when I return at night I find that it has been done."

"Now, many housewives might say that this is because I have efficient help. I do not think that this is the sole reason, because as a matter of fact, I pay my help less than the general average."

DOES NOT NAG.
"But I believe that the secret of success in this direction is this: I am not there nagging at them all the time. I make them responsible for that which is to be done, and I do not fret if they have a leisure hour during the day. Servants like the idea of being responsible for things if they are not at their apron strings seeing that they are doing their work, but will leave it to them."

"Also, whenever it is possible, I have them go out some part of each day, perhaps on an errand, shopping, etc. Servants like to get out through the day even as you and I. They are all the better for it.

"If I try to arrange my affairs that neither of my servants actually works more than eight hours a day, I believe that such consideration really encourages interest in the work, and special efforts to please. So that when an occasion does arrive when it is necessary for them to work longer and later the practice of the legal profession, is evident from her summing up of the principles of home making, as follows:

BUYING PRODUCE WHOLESALE.
"No, they do not do it all. I buy most of my produce wholesale, but as these markets do not deliver, my maid often goes direct to the market and brings home these articles of purchase. You have no idea what a saving it is to buy at the market and where possible to eliminate the middleman. I think that every housekeeper can do it. Economy is the first principle in the science of efficient house-keeping. And I certainly mean to continue in this direction by buying direct from the producer as far as possible, and thus saving the profits of the go-between."

"For instance, chicken that would ordinarily cost me 95 cents I pay 70 cents for. Butter and eggs I buy in a similar manner. You haven't any idea how this comes up. My canned food I buy in quantities, and there is a great saving in that, also."

"I believe that every woman, no matter what her resources, should study all these little items of saving. My husband and I will share the business of money making toward the joint expenditure of our home. In this manner I think every professional woman should participate in the production as well as in the consumption of the common income."

WEATHER STOPS BOWLING MATCH

Final in the Tournament for Taylor Prize Is Not Played.

Incident weather intervened yesterday afternoon with the program laid out for the day by the Oakland Scottish Bowling Club for the playing off of the final in the tournament for the Taylor prize between the teams skipped by Weir and Low.

On Friday afternoon six enthusiasts risked a practice game on the green by laying out a rink and forming three-handed sides, skipped respectively by Lester G. Burpee and William Patterson. The event was won by Robert Dalziel, Sr. and Dr. E. S. Hill.

Burpee's men were H. Hepworth and George B. M. Gray. In the first five ends it looked as if it were a walk-over for Patterson's team, which had scored 8 points to Burpee's nothing. Then the latter broke the ice and the game became a contest. The final score was 18 to 13. Following was the score at the close:

Patterson team.....211 210 169 169 200 0-12
Burpee team.....600 602 612 621 613 4-16

EVANGELIST BUNDY TO LECTURE HERE TONIGHT

W. L. Bundy, a traveling evangelist, working under the auspices of the International Bible Students' Association, is scheduled to speak in Oakland this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Grove street at 7:30 o'clock sharp.

The subject announced is "A Modern Golden Calf." Bundy is said to be an interesting and fluent speaker, and reports show that he has been received by good sized audiences in many places. The nature of the evening lecture is promised to compare favorably with that of the other discourses of the series during the past month. The I. B. S. A. announce that the Sunday meetings are to be continued.

Talent is reported to be available, and the public is specially invited to attend these lectures on various features of the Divine Plan.

GERMANS DEPLORE CORRUPTION AS CHARGED

The Krupp Trial Brings Forth Many Facts to Shock Nation.

Hot Reply Is Made to Statements of Winston Churchill.

(By FREDERICK WERNER.)

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—It is not too much to say that the German people feel very keenly the disgrace of the revelations of the recent Krupp trial. When heretofore we have heard of official corruption in other countries we have noted one case though such things were possible in France, America and Russia, they would never happen in Germany. And during all this time they have been going on under our very eyes. The only way in which we seem to be different is that apparently German officials are tempted by smaller bribes.

A strong party has arisen in Germany which insists that we have unacceptably brought this public disgrace upon ourselves and that the Government is necessary. The majority of Germans, however, agree that they cannot see how it could have been avoided. Political papers, on the other side, are pointing out that there was another way, which would have been just as efficient and more dignified and which would have made it unnecessary to let all the world know that German officials had been found ready to betray State secrets in return for cigars, suppers and bribes no larger than a tip to a waiter in a first-class restaurant.

SHOWS BRITISH SYSTEM.
These papers deplore what would have happened in England under similar circumstances. In that country the government would quite naturally and spontaneously have turned to the English people, which it shares the responsibility of guarding the commonwealth. Parliament. A Parliamentary commission would have looked into the matter and the public would, with full confidence, have awaited the verdict of such a commission.

The German Reichstag does not fall quite the same position as the English Parliament, but there was nothing to prevent it from appointing a commission to investigate the matter, and it would willingly have done so had it been asked by the government. But this was the very thing which the government, most of all, refused to do. To appoint such a commission, thought of investigating a commission appointed by the Reichstag with powers of investigation, but there is every reason to believe that it will no longer hesitate to do so should a similar case ever arise.

HEBREWS HOLD CONFERENCE.
At a time when interest in the Jewish question is still very strong, as a result of the recent ritual murder trial in Russia, the Association of German Jews have held their annual conference at Leipzig, and after it had been pointed out that in spite of the many eminent services rendered the State by the Jews, they had not yet been given absolute equality with other citizens, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"It shall be our effort to make known to everybody the tenets and principles of the Jewish faith. We denounce and oppose all presentations of the Jewish faith tending to make it appear that it does not fulfill all the strictest demands of morality. We are fighting for and demand the absolute equality of all German citizens regardless of religion. We demand that the government should give equal opportunities and privileges in the army with Christians. We demand that the State subsidize all religious communities as long as it subsidizes any. We oppose taxation of Jews in order to subsidize Christian churches. We demand that the government should use all its influence with the government of Russia, so that German Jews are granted equal rights with Christian German subjects to enter and travel about in the empire of Russia. We oppose all official regulations treating Jews different from Christians."

MEAT PRICES SOAR.
The prices of meat continue soaring, and in consequence the city of Berlin will, in a very near future, establish a new municipal slaughter house for horses. The consumption of meat is rapidly increasing, but there are complaints that the control of the authorities is not strict enough, and that quantities of horse meat absolutely unfit for human food is being imported from abroad and sold to the poor in this city. The St. Petersburg correspondent of a Berlin paper states that a Russian officer of the present war has been caught in the act of slaughtering his horses at Beval and Dorpat, has recently been making a big profit by selling down his horse meat and sending it to Berlin. Such a thing ought to be impossible. If certain regulations were properly enforced, but bringing has been hinted at and the government is now demanding a thorough investigation.

ANSWER TO CHURCHILL.
Captain Furtak, a retired German naval officer, and a famous naval expert, has been highly complimented by the German people for the excellent manner in which he, in an open letter to Winston Churchill, found exact expression for the feelings of a majority of the German people towards the English Minister's proposal of a 12-month naval holiday. Captain Furtak wrote in part:

"Where all we in Germany think that you have put the cart before the horse in addressing your suggestion in the first instance to Germany. It will not be unknown to you that the navy is the German's greatest pride. It is his favorite child, which the people regard with a personal interest. It is almost a personal insult to the German to suggest that he should stop the growth of his beloved navy. You should not fail to introduce this factor into your calculations."

"Before you addressed to Germany your proposal of a holiday year you ought to have been able to produce in black and white the agreement of the United States and the other naval powers to reduce their armaments to a level no higher than that in Germany. Of course, we have a parliament, but I need not describe the small influence which it enjoys. It is the will of the government—the Kaiser, the Kaiser—which is the all-powerful factor, and the government is peaceful to the wise and practical enough to know what a war would cost. Do not give up the hope that with the right method of settling the business practical common-sense will secure itself in Germany and your proposal will be accepted."

ARCTIC PARTY TO CONTINUE PLANS

Loss of Vessel Mary Sachs Will Not Interrupt Exploits of Explorers.

SEATTLE, Nov. 29.—The loss of the power schooner Mary Sachs, an auxiliary vessel of the Stefansson exploring expedition, in the Arctic ice off the coast of Alaska, will not prevent the expedition from carrying out its plans, provided the other three vessels escape. The Mary Sachs was valued at about $5000, and the supplies she carried were worth a great deal more.

Captain John Backlund, who returned from the Arctic some weeks ago, expressed his fear that the power-boat Alaska, the southern boat of Stefansson's fleet, would meet just such a fate as has befallen the Mary Sachs, for the Alaska was in a perilous position. However, the men could easily reach shore.

MEN CAN GO TO ALASKA.
The men from the Mary Sachs can go on the Alaska or they can proceed along the coast to Herschel Island, at the mouth of the Mackenzie, or they can reach Fairbanks, via Circle City, by dog team.

Stefansson talked freely last summer about the possibility of some of the boats being crushed in the ice, and his expedition was prepared for such a contingency. If able to reach shore, they would explore the Canadian mainland and islands east of the Mackenzie river.

News from the Karluk and Stefansson may be received when the mail from Herschel Island arrives at Chukotka. The expedition's Christmas, carried by the mounted police.

LATE KING'S FRIENDS ARE GIVEN RECOGNITION

LONDON, Nov. 29.—King George, if not Queen Mary, is making an especial point of being friendly with the late King Edward's friends. At a number of house parties, where the names of guests are first submitted to his majesty, it has been noticed that many of those who figured prominently in court circles in the last reign are again to be found.

At the shooting party given by Viscount Iveagh at Elvedon for the king, for instance, Count Albert Mensdorff and the Marquis de Soveral, who were two of King Edward's closest friends, were among the guests. They have the reputation of being two of the most entertaining men in society, and of course are notable for perfectly fitting and up-to-date clothes. Sir Derek and Lady Keppel, Sir Ernest Cassell and Leopold de Rothschild, the two King Edwards' financial advisers, and all close friends of the late king, also were present. The members of the Guinness family, of which Lord Iveagh is the head, are in favor with the present sovereign, as they were with the last.

PAN-ANGELICAN SUFFRAGE LEAGUE IS PROJECTED

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Steps are being taken for the formation of a Pan-Anglican League for women's suffrage. The Church League for Women's Suffrage is initiating the project, the prospects of success of which are estimated to be good. The secretary of the league is to leave England at the end of January. In order to start meetings in America, the colonies also will receive attention in due course. The league is now engaged in drawing up a petition to the House of Commons in favor of women's suffrage which is to be signed by the bishops and clergy of the churches of England and Ireland, and of the Scottish Episcopal church.

NOVEL EXPLANATION.
Smith, a negro, will be arraigned in court for chicken stealing.

When the officers who arrested him asked for an explanation Smith informed him that the chickens flew into his coat to get warm.

MINISTER TO CONDUCT LAST RITES FOR WIFE

SANTA ROSA, Nov. 29.—Santa Rosa mourns today the death of one of its best loved women, Mrs. Phillips, wife of the Rev. J. P. Phillips, pastor of the First Baptist church, and mother of Counsellor Thomas Phillips of the Missouri-Pacific railroad, who arrived here from the East to be with his mother, and of Mrs. Clara Patton, wife of the St. Louis lawyer. In accordance with her oft-repeated request, the Rev. Mr. Phillips will officiate at his wife's funeral on Monday afternoon.

PROTEST MADE AGAINST G. W. TOFT'S ELECTION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—When George W. Toft, who succeeds the late Timothy D. Sullivan in the House, stepped to the dais today to take the oath of office, Speaker Clark read a protest from some voters in his district based on legal technicalities concerning the special election to fill Sullivan's place.

NEW GERMAN CRUISER HAS 30-KNOT SPEED

DANZIG, Germany, Nov. 29.—The new battle cruiser which is to take the place of the old Kaiser, was launched here today and christened the Luetow. She will carry ten 12-inch guns as her main armament and a secondary battery of 12 5.9-inch guns. Her length is 118 feet, her beam 35 and her draft 27 feet. She displaces about 23,000 tons and her turbine engines are to develop a speed of 30 knots.

W. C. T. U. TO HOLD OPEN MEETING TOMORROW

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will hold its next meeting December 1, Monday, at 2:30 p. m., at the First Baptist church. Mrs. George Crawford, superintendent of the physical culture, will have charge of the program. The subject, "Health as a Social Obligation," Dr. Susan J. Fenton will be one of the speakers. The session will be open to the public.

Spats Are Off Shoes OF SENATOR NEWLANDS; TOGA FIGHT BEGINS

THE KNAVE

Eva Tanguay Coming; DENIES SHE EITHER SMOKES OR DRINKS

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—They were present at the auction sale when Curator George Barron bought for Golden Gate Park Museum Thomas Hill's painting, "Driving the Last Spike." The canvas depicts the final completion of the Central Pacific Railroad. Senator Stanford is the central figure in the painting.

One of those commenting on the auction of the canvas remarked that the late able painter expected to receive $30,000 from Stanford when he had finished the work and was bitterly disappointed when neither Stanford personally nor Stanford on behalf of the railroad company would accept the canvas at any price. The Senator refused the Hill artistic production for two reasons.

He insisted that he had not ordered Hill to paint the picture.

He maintained it was historically inaccurate in that it contained in the forefront of the crowd in attendance at the ceremony seven or eight prominent men who were not there.

The gentleman speaking was certainly in a position to know what he was talking about, for he had long been on intimate terms with the Senator. His conversation served to refresh my own memory, for I remember in 1890 in speaking of the Hill work Stanford gave me practically the same two reasons why he did not purchase it personally. He had no authority to buy it for the railroad, but if he had been so empowered he would not have done so for the second reason. The stand taken by the Senator caused some acrimonious correspondence between Hill and himself. After the death of the two men some similar letters were exchanged between representatives of the two families.

A Salt Lake photographer was present at the ceremony and took a photograph of the crowd. Hill used this photograph as the basis for his painting. He then got photographs of the seven or eight prominent men who are said not to have been there and made them part of the celebrating crowd.

C. P. Huntington was always impatient of the picture because of the central place it gave Stanford. Copies of the canvas hung in a number of rooms in the Fourth and Townsend headquarters of the railroad for a long time. But they dropped from sight in the offices of this and that official after Huntington forced Stanford from the presidency and took the job himself.

Steamship Magnate Visitor

William A. Barnum of New York has been in the city for several days with J. C. Ford of Seattle. Barnum is the new president of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company in succession to Henry Cannon of New York and Paris. This company owns the Pacific Coast Steamship Company and a railroad in San Luis Obispo county. It has many other properties in the Pacific Northwest. The united properties are very valuable and in their early days were dominated by Henry Villard and Elijah Smith and their Oregon Transcontinental, a pooling concern. Ford is now the leading official on this coast, having been given his position by Cannon. At one time the latter was comptroller of the United States Treasury. Of late years he has been at times a resident of an old Franciscan Monastery in Italy, where he followed a life more simple than that ever dreamed of by Dr. Wagner himself. The monastery where Cannon lived each summer is, I think, situated on the slopes of Fiesole, not far from Florence. He is the owner of the monastic building, paying a large sum for it and had its bare walls covered with tapestries. From this quiet retreat, like John Ruskin, he sallied forth every day to study art and Etruscan patterns, according to some of his former local officials and a few coast friends.

Banker Pays Servant's Dental Bill

Judging by a Paris cablegram of last Monday, Henry Brunner is still dominated by one of his old and odd hobbies. Brunner some years before the earthquake was a banker in town. That is his business in the French capital. Prince Poniatowski has a business connection with him there, the same as was the case when both gentlemen made San Francisco their home. The Paris cable sets forth that Brunner Brunner pays the dental bills of his domestic servants on the theory that all classes of servants should have good teeth. His cook had her teeth fixed at a cost of $80. He gladly paid the bill. But he demurred when one of the maids in the household ran up a bill at the dentist's for $180. He was sued and judgment rendered against him for $100. Brunner paid eight or nine bills to dentists here when his domestic servants complained about their teeth. Some of his friends knew his hobby in this respect and used to marvel at it. He made no concealment of his act, and was so sincere in discussing it and in insisting that good teeth saved doctors' bills and prolonged health and life that all who heard voted him a most peculiar and yet enthusiastic philanthropist. The story is still and he is prepared to become again a man who showed bad teeth or complained of toothache. He didn't care to have them around either socially or in a business way.

Toga Fight On, Newlands' Spats Off

A professional man of Reno was saying at the Palace Hotel the other night that the one "best bet" of the Republicans of Nevada to defeat Senator Newlands for re-election is to try and induce United States Judge Farrington to resign and seek endorsement at the primary for Senator next fall on the Republican ticket. Nevada has two Democrats wearing the toga at present, and he says the Republicans are determined to get for their party one of the honors next year by putting up the strongest kind of a man against Newlands. He thinks Judge Farrington is this individual. Whether he will be a candidate is another question. Strong influence, he says, will be brought upon Farrington to induce him to enter the race.

On the other hand, it is said half a dozen Republicans of the Sagebrush State are seeking the proper backing to enter the senatorial fight. One of these is Harry Morehouse, who is practicing law at present in Reno. Morehouse formerly lived at San Jose and was a Republican State Senator. He is very ambitious to try for the prize provided George Wingfield and his following will agree to support him. Massey, who was defeated by Senator Pittman, will not contend for the honor again.

Newlands has a press bureau already at work for him and several of his political agents are hard at it, traveling in every nook and corner of the State. It is at the suggestion of one of these agents that Newlands no longer wears spats in this city or while in the national capital. With the disappearance of this shoe decoration will also go, it is contended, the strength of the assertion and objection that Newlands is an aristocrat. I noticed Newlands minus spats a week or two ago while at the Palace. So there may be something in this tale of spats and vaulting political ambition. Anyhow, I give it as it was handed quietly to me.

Nevada now has a rich and a poor man in the Senate, for Pittman has no fortune to speak of. Newlands is one of the few very rich men in the upper house today. Elkins of West Virginia is dead. Guggenheim of Colorado is out; so is Aldrich of Rhode Island. A competent authority tells me Stephenson of Wisconsin is the wealthiest man in the Senate today. Then he places Warren of Wyoming, Oliver of Pennsylvania and Newlands of Nevada.

Crocker Building to Be Enlarged

Banker William H. Crocker has finally decided to enlarge his bank and office building at the Post and Market street corner. An extension to the west is to be built, running through from Market to Post like the present building. On the Post street side the extension will run as far West as the building of the Mechanics Institute Library. On Market street, the new addition will run to the building owned by Rudolph Spreckels and occupied on its ground floor by an optical firm. It adjoins the Realty building. The extension will be four stories in height, with a foundation to carry the same number of floors the old structure contains. The cost will be $430,000. The original building cost a little over a million. Repairs of the damage caused by the earthquake and fire cost $600,000. While the bank building was erected before the present form of steel superstructure came into use, there is plenty of steel in the building. It stood the shock of the earthquake splendidly. The great damage was done by the fire. The Chronicle building, by the way, was the first San Francisco structure in which was used the modern steel superstructure. To make room for the extension temporary buildings put up after the fire will have to be razed. The ground floor of the extension is to be used for bank purposes.

For office purposes, the Crocker building has long been known as one of the best investments on the Pacific Coast.

Raker's Victory Surprised Him

Congressman John E. Raker of Alturas, in Modoc County, whose district is an empire in itself, passed through the city the other day. The friends of the national solon and former superior judge like to dwell upon his modesty and growing political vitality. They know him as a bookworm and a man who has used much midnight oil in his studies, all of which has given him the ability and mental confidence with which, they think, he is possessed to properly discharge his present political honors and those the future has in store for him. His friends are wont to point to the Congressional Directory as proof of his modesty. That was the first time he was sent to Congress, defeating Englebright, who two years before had received 6000 majority. He that he was elected against Englebright, Republican; Morgan, Socialist, and Essex, Prohibitionist. Raker was the only Democrat elected to Congress in that year. His defeat of Englebright was a great surprise to the Republicans.

"My surprise was just as great," he said at the time.

Hetty Green's Son (Bachelor), Coming

One of the hotel managers said last night he had received a letter from Colonel E. H. R. Green of New York inquiring for a suite of rooms after the Christmas holidays. Green is the son and one of the two children of Hetty Green of New York, who has just celebrated her 78th birthday and who is generally considered the richest woman in this country.

Two years ago he was a guest at the St. Francis for a couple of weeks, creating a mild sensation while in town by stating he had received by letter and telephone several proposals of marriage. These, added to his Texas and New York communications of the same character, ran up the total of proposals received by him to seventy-two. Some people thought these statements of his were a species of mild humor with him. But he insisted they were the serious truth and that eventually one of these proposals would lead him into the ranks of the benedicks.

That may be so, but he is still a bachelor nearing the fiftieth mark.

The son of the rich woman is a man of an attractive and magnificent physique, although he weighs over 300 pounds and has a cork leg. One day in the Lone Star State while out on a handcar rabbit hunting he met with an accident which cost him his leg. He frankly admitted on his visit here that he is fond of the title of colonel, but there is no tale of war or heroism behind it. A Texas Governor made him an officer of his staff. That is how he got the title. He said one evening he knew his mother was disappointed because he never gave promise of being a big financier.

"I'm simply not built that way," was his definite, unregretted comment on the subject by way of dismissal.

Storey Slated as Santa Fe Head

According to persistent but quiet rumor a comparatively young Californian, a graduate of the University of California and who was chosen president of the Zeta Psi college fraternity at its sixty-third annual convention in this city about two years ago, is slated for high honors in the American railroad world ere long.

I refer to W. B. Storey, Jr., who, it is said, is to be the next president of the Santa Fe railroad. E. P. Riley has long occupied that position. He is getting along in years and feels that he should soon retire. Storey has for several years been a vice-president of the corporation in charge of both the construction and operation departments. His main office is in Chicago. Storey was the first official of the company to be placed in charge of two big departments and it is said he has made a fine record in both. As a railroad constructor and engineer in the West, he is generally ranked in ability and achievement along with John F. Stevens, William Hood and Virgil G. Bogue. The latter built the Western Pacific and now maintains engineering offices in New York. Stevens has long been a noted engineer with the James J. Hill people. Hood is the well-known Southern Pacific official. Storey began active life under Hood. He resigned early in the nineties to build the Valley road from Point Richmond via Stockton to Bakersfield. The Santa Fe bought this road and Storey entered the employ of the former because of the interest taken in his work by E. P. Ripley and his assistant on this coast, Captain A. F. Payson of this city.

Eva Doesn't Say: "I Don't Care," Now

So Eva Tanguay, the actress, who is to appear in vaudeville here in a few weeks, has been married to John W. Ford, her leading man, at Ann Arbor.

Eva has done very well as a vaudevillian, thank you. I remember she once told a dramatic critic that Martin Beck used to pay her $35 a week. Now she is credited with getting over $2000 for the same brief period of time from the Cort syndicate. If I mistake not, the same critic represented her as saying not so long ago that she was "just old enough to care what gossip said about her, press agent or no press agent."

And here was part of her complaint: "They tell me they show a table in a cafe where

I danced one night after I had become intoxicated. They say I smoke cigars. Now what do you think of such talk? I have never smoked and I have never drank anything much stronger than lithia water since I was quite young. And that was a long time ago."

Tribute to Mrs. Hearst Reserved

Both in her private character and in her varied work of a public or semi-public nature Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst is a most gracious and admirable person. As a hostess she is at once both a commanding and refining figure in the social history of the community. What she has done and still continues to do for the University of California is widely known and appreciated. Her realization of what influence the university is exercising on the young men and women of the commonwealth, how that influence should be widened and strengthened and how it should be supplied with the means to accomplish its great end is keen and active.

These are among the pertinent reasons why it is most fitting and delightful that the alumni of the great institution should show her a token of appreciation in the form of a reception at the St. Francis on the 11th of next month. That the attendance will be very large and the gathering a most notable one is well assured.

But the activities of Mrs. Hearst to be remembered by this reception, important and significant as they are, are but part of the work that engages her mind and heart. I recall the tribute once paid her by Mrs. Lewis R. Hovey of Massachusetts. The occasion was the closing of a big convention of the National Congress of Mothers and Parent Teachers' Association. At that time Mrs. Hovey said in part:

"Mrs. Hearst is one of the most benevolent women in the country. It was through the kindness of Mrs. Hearst that the two first national congresses met, for she financed them. She has also done wonderful work in establishing kindergartens for children, and has also thrown open her spacious home for mothers' work."

Omitting other movements with which Mrs. Hearst is identified, attention must be called to the important work she heads for the Panama-Pacific Exposition. As chairman of the board of women managers, she has a great and important duty and bids fair to become to this universal exposition what Mrs. Potter Palmer of Chicago was to the world's fair there.

Who Will Be Commerce Commissioner

The death of John H. Marble, the California member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, leaves this State without representation on that most important Federal board for the first time in about ten years. Franklin K. Lane held the position under two appointments, first by Roosevelt and then by Taft. Lane was the first Californian to be on the board; in fact, the first commissioner from the Far West. Marble succeeded him when he went into Wilson's cabinet. It is generally understood that Wilson appointed Marble to the suggestion of Lane. Marble had done work for the commission as a minor official for several years at the instance of Lane, his conferees being agreeable. The latter greatly appreciated Marble's ability and they were pleased when President Wilson made him Lane's successor.

It is believed Wilson will heed Lane's suggestion for a man to fill the vacancy. It is too early to say who it will be. In all probability the candidate will hail from this State; if not, he will certainly come from the Pacific Coast States, owing to the present complexion of the commission.

These five Californians are being quietly discussed for the place and all are thought well of by Lane: William R. Wheeler, manager of the traffic bureau of the Merchants' Exchange, is one of them. John H. Eshelman, Max Thelen and Colonel H. D. Loveland, members of the California Railroad Commission, are three more. Attorney Seth Mann is the fifth. I do not know if they are making any effort to get the place. All are considered to have ample ability for the position.

Unconscious, Dictates to Stenographer

Hospital surgeons told me the other day of a remarkable case of subconscious activity. To them it was a clear illustration of where the mind was working actively and with intelligence before the patient had returned to his normal condition following an operation and the administration of an anæsthetic.

They had operated on Attorney C. W. Durbrow for appendicitis. Durbrow is one of the able assistants in the office of William F. Herrin. He was sitting at his desk dictating an important document when he keeled over unconscious. An alarm being quickly given, his case was properly diagnosed and the sick man was soon on the operating table. When put to bed after the operation and before he had gained his normal mental condition, Durbrow surprised the attended surgeons and nurse by finishing his dictation to an imaginary stenographer. He talked rationally and quickly. He thought he had been interrupted and was concluding what had been interfered with when he fell out of his chair. He was still talking to his imaginary stenographer when there was a quick return to his normal mental state. Looking for a moment bewildered and confused, Durbrow then recalled his office experience. But the subject of his dictated document in the office was still on his mind. He did not know he had been talking in his bed to a supposed shorthand worker. He begged hard for his stenographer. The surgeons thought it best to grant his wish. Durbrow then finished his dictation and was soon in a

The next day when he called for his stenographer again his request was gently refused. He was told they were all busy at the office and that Mr. Herrin thought it best for him to take a rest and vacation.

Jordan Aided in Peace Campaign

Dr. David Starr Jordan, chancellor of Stanford University, now in Europe heading a movement for the abolition of war, has, according to some of his Palo Alto and San Francisco friends, found Norman Angell of Paris of material assistance to him, particularly in giving his work and addresses on the peace movement publicity in influential quarters and in formally introducing him to prominent characters and influential societies. The following of Bernard Noel Langdon-Davies of Cambridge University has done similar work. Through the aid of Dr. Jokichi Takamine of New York and Dr. Yamato Ichihashi of Palo Alto, he has also obtained a good hearing in England from young Japanese who are students there. These Japanese are members of strong families in Japan, where Jordan has long had a very high standing because of his personal and educational repute. Dr. Ichihashi recently became Stanford's first Japanese instructor in Japanese history and government, wealthy people of Nippon endowing the chair. Dr. Takamine, the president of a Japanese social club in New York, called the Nippon Club, is the discoverer of adrenalin and considered a noted chemist in world scientific circles. The organization has a club building in the metropolis which cost about a hundred thousand. Langdon-Davies, who was recently in this city on a tour of the world, is one of the representatives of the Garton Foundation of London, which aims to promote sane thinking on questions of peace, war and armaments. Norman Angell is very prominent in the international peace movement and the author of two books on the subject, namely, "Under Three Flags" and "The Great Illusion." He is also editor of the Paris Mail and correspondent of the London Mail. M. Jaures of the French Chamber of Deputies is one of his great admirers. Angell lived in Kern County a number of years ago and is a citizen of California under the name of Frank Lane. It was in Kern County he wrote "Under Three Flags," which deals with the Boer and Spanish-American wars. It was in Paris where he made his reputation in the peace movement. Jordan knew him out here.

"Knock" Preston, Rumored Appointee

Advises from Washington indicate that former Assemblyman John W. Preston of Ukiah is to be appointed United States District Attorney, with offices in this city, taking the place left vacant by the sensational resignation of John L. McNab, who also hailed from Ukiah.

Preston has at times been a Republican and Progressive, and is more of a friend of Congressman Kent than of any prominent Democrat in Northern California. In fact, the Democrats of this city think he will get the plum and are much angered. Three of them tell me he is a man of mediocre ability and that in deciding on him Wilson and McReynolds did not take the advice of Phelan. It is alleged certain strong land interests are really behind Preston's fight for the place.

Senator Archie Campbell of San Luis Obispo was considered too far south to be a suitable candidate. Local Democrats are in great dudgeon that S. V. Costello and Frank J. Gould should have been given the overlook in favor of the man who supported Kent in his fight against Zumwalt.

There has been a blunder all down the line in trying to fill this office since it became vacant. The first blunder the administration made was in favoring Thomas E. Hayden for the place.

There is no doubt it was offered to two or three attorneys here who would not take it. Among these were Attorneys Denman, Matt Sullivan and his associate, Theodore Roche.

Like Gould and Costello, James F. Coonan of Eureka, law partner of State Senator William Kehoe, the Progressive leader, tried hard to get the plum; so did Randolph V. Whiting of this city, former assistant district attorney.

Mayor Rolph has brought down a big storm about his ears by vetoing the ordinance providing for a municipal opera house. He is accused on all sides of "doing politics." Even his staunch friend, the Examiner, is firmly but without abuse criticizing his position. It is the first big unpopular act since he became mayor.

If the Supervisors do not override his veto, or some compromise is not effected, it is admitted the people who subscribed $850,000 to erect an opera house on a civic center lot will throw up their hands in disgust.

That will accentuate the political opposition to him two years hence. An opposition has been growing against him for some time because of his catering to the following of Supervisor A. J. Gallagher. His veto is considered by many to be a part of this system of catering.

Some of his friends, good lawyers, too, assert the ordinance in its present form should have been vetoed. They think, however, he made a bad blunder in having the ordinance submitted to him in that form. It is these people who think a political trap was set for him and he was caught. They think he could at least have "saved his face" by approving an ordinance which specifically provided for the city by recourse to the law of condemnation to take over at any time the rights to seats acquired by the subscribers to the $850,000 fund.

In considering whether to approve or disapprove the veto, I see where the Supervisors are now suggesting such a provision.

The mayor was constantly consulted about the framing of the ordinance he finally vetoed. City Attorney Long had much to do in wording and phrasing it. Attorneys Matt Sullivan and Theodore Roche frequently consulted with Rolph on the subject. I do not say they set a trap for him to fall in it. But some of the best lawyers in town insist there was blundering in not providing the city should have been empowered to condemn the prior right to seats of subscribers. Then the mayor could have approved the ordinance without any serious objection, and left the legal questions involved entirely to the

The way things stand it is a bad mess for Rolph. It is also a matter of deep regret that his political blundering or catering, or both, greatly endangers the city getting a modern municipal opera house.

Shoes Brought Him Aid

Frank Michaels, the attorney and Pacific Union Club man, who is big enough mentally to laugh heartily when his friends joke about his avowedly making it difficult for him to get through a street car door except sideways, ran across a hobo on the street the other afternoon who wanted financial aid. Young and old men of this ilk now throng the streets on their regular winter visit. The young fellow asked for a dollar, saying he was down and out. He looked the part. His clothes had seen better days but he had a good face.

"Yes, I really need money for food and a bed," he said to the heavily built and well-nourished man of law. "But nobody will give me anything. Look at my shoes. Even they won't give any more."

And he and Michaels looked at his footwear. The shoes were broken and spread out at the sides, exposing the interior lining.

Michaels took him across the street, and, paying for new shoes, gave the fellow a dollar and was on his way.

WIFE BARTER IS TRAGEDY'S CAUSE

Man Sells Spouse to Neighbor: Killing Is the Result.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—Reports from Neuville, recently received here, tell of a remarkable murder case which came as the indirect result of an affair of wife bartering. The story deals with a farmer named Marche, his wife, and one of the workmen employed by Marche.

Three years ago, moved by some unknown circumstance, Marche, who previously had been living happily with his wife, Zelmire, on his farm at Neuville, made a bargain with a certain Gravel, one of Marche's farmhands by the terms of which Zelmire became Gravel's property upon the payment of $500. No one but the principals in the recent barbarous a contract was drawn up. The fact, however, remains Zelmire became Gravel's chattel.

For some unaccountable reason the sold wife continued living with her husband. After several months she became dissatisfied and left him to take up her abode at the home of her master. The tragedy followed, for, when Marche went to call upon his wife in her new home, he and Gravel began drinking heavily and finally fell to quarreling over the woman. Gravel succeeded in killing Marche out of the door of his cottage but the action cost him his life. The farmer drunken and with wife with him, seized a shotgun of antiquated make which he had left outside the door of Gravel's home and leveling the piece at his antagonist through the window, fired three bullets, killing the unfortunate man almost instantly.

ENGAGEMENT RUMOR
WITHOUT FOUNDATION

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The rumor regarding the forthcoming betrothal of the Prince of Wales and a daughter of the Czar is quite without foundation. There is every good reason that the Prince should wait especially as the succession is in no danger from want of possible heirs. It is most unlikely that he, a child of first cousins, should be allowed to marry his first cousin. Also it is quite certain that an orthodox Romanist would not be in the least likely to change religion. A marriage of the Prince of Wales with any Russian Princess would certainly not be popular in England.

The Duchess of Edinburgh, who was the Grand Duchess Alexandrovna, never identified herself with English affairs or ways in the least, but remained as a stranger, and the same fate would probably attend a Russian Queen.

Young Girl Translates Poems
Inspirations in German Verse

The following poems by Otto Sommerdorff, a well known German poet, have been translated into English by Miss Lisa Kessler of Berlin, Germany. Miss Kessler is a niece of Richard T. Kessler of Oakland.

TO BALLAD.
Once in a summer morning's light,
Mounted his steed a gallant knight,
He carried shield and sword and spear—
Of some exploit he would surely hear.
He onward rode, where in the wood
A charcoal-burner's cottage stood.
The man, whose beard was long and white,
Related a story to the knight:

"Not far from here, in deepest wood,
There dwells a monstrous dragon's brood,
And in the rocky cave near by
A lovely maid awaits sigh for sigh.
The horrid dragon guards her well,
Sue cannot she who break the spell."

The knight had hardly grasped the tale,
He onward galloped like a gale,
He felt new vigor in his arm
And wished to break the awful charm.
Who knows, if grateful in her heart,
The maid might grant him sweet reward.
Twas midnight ere he reached the place,
So from his steed he did alight,
And he stealthily looked through gloom and night.

He saw the castle's towers
And the knight, with boldness, seized his spear.
When suddenly his listening ear
Caught from within a gentle voice:

"Cheer up, my heart, and do not fret!
My knight has come to rescue me!
Oh, how I longed and yearned for thee!
I'll harden nineteen years of age
When I was fettered in this cage:
Full thirty years have passed away,
Yet I'm still waiting for this day.
Be quick, and but the monster's eye,
You can be sure that it will die.
Oh, come, my knight, deliver me,
For ever I'll belong to thee!"

"Nineteen and thirty," spoke the knight,
"Makes forty-nine, if I count right!"
And left the place without remorse!

SELF-IMPORTANCE.
The lighthouse on the ocean's shore
Is towering over cliffs and bays,
And, far into the stormy sea,
Sends to the ship its helpful rays.

A little glow-worm spreads its light,
Sways to and fro with selfish air,
And though its light is immensely bright
And when it chanced to raise its eye
And saw the proud and radiant light,
The envious little thing cried out:
"Who dare here scorn my very right?"

"What do you want, you monstrous brute?"
"What is your name?" I cannot guess.
Is there no law that can defend
From competition's wickedness?"

THE YOUTH'S QUESTION.
Honest youth of decent feelings,
God and noble in his heart,
Loved a girl—taller, taller,
Who was perfect in her art.

Lips on lips in blissful hours
Grant him discourses by the heat
Of the nostrils; penetrates and heats
The inflamed, swollen membrane which Lines the nose, head and throat; clears
The air passages; stops nasty discharges and feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't let awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed, nostrils closed, hawking and blowing.
nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in Eli's Cream Balm, and your cold and headache will melt away.

They exchanged the vows of love,
And the timid fellow questioned,
Looking at the stars above:

"Did you never love another?
Tell me, or my heart will burst!
'Tis not I, but you, who doubt!
Swear to me that I'm the first!"

And the maiden laughed and giggled:
"Please don't be absurd, my dear,
Yes, you are the first, I swear it,
Whom I'm in love with here!"

THE "NATURALIST."
By the murmuring brook a flower stood
Of lovely shape and sweetest smell.
A naturalist went by and said:
"How unnatural!"

And as some toad crept o'er his way,
A fat, disgusting creature,
He cried in highest ecstasy:
"How pure and true is nature!"

THE POET ASTER.
In steady self-contentedness,
And never vexed by any doubt,
Not frightened by a puzzling thing—
Without a talent turning out,
Thinks—glorifying his own self—
On the Pantheon's cornice his own Worst—tallied putting with foolish pride—
He crowns a tiny mole-hill's top.

THE GENIUS.
"What a genius," people cry,
Looking at his naughty deed;
"Nothing in the world like him:
He's the spirit whom we need!"
They are blind, but many times
Does a glittering mask allure—
There is talent, yes! However—"Education" is every poor.

THE ANCESTRESS.
Now listen to the ghostly tale
Of one who every day did rave,
Who—offering of a noble count—
Was nothing but an arrant knave.

He led a gay and wicked life,
And gave a banquet every night,
And made his father's house a den
Of horrid deeds and vile delight.

One night—it was just to drink,
The moon poured out her silver light,
The door of the old castle flew,
Stood on the threshold, clothed in white.

It was the castle's ancestress,
Great count's great-grandmother, a sheet,
And terror chilled him to the bone
When he her glassy eyes did meet.

She raised her hand and onward paced
Unto the middle of the room, Cried, "Woe to you, Woe! Three times wore—
And passed away into her tomb.

The guests were rather stupefied
And hardly knew what to begin,
For in the twentieth century
A thing like that was never seen.

Next night at 12 o'clock again,
The count was feasting with his friends,
That spectre with the lifeless eyes
Appeared once more and raised his hands.

Her wailing was a yell today,
The guests could hardly stand the sound,
They hurried off, and all alone
In great amazement was the count.

But when the sunny morn did rise,
He packed his things and caught a train,
And quickly left the haunted place
He never wished to see again.

He haste he moved into the town,
And soon had company at night,
His supper being exquisite,
His palace very grand and bright.

The feast was long, the feast was gay,
And peals of laughter filled the room,
Forgotten were the past's times
And all those scenes of fright and gloom.

But suddenly a clock struck 12,
And everyone grew still and pale—
There—hark! A shrill and piercing sound:
"What does it mean? Who rings a bell?"

The count jumped to the telephone,
He shook and quaked from head to toe:
"Here Runkelstein! Who there so late?"
"Your ancestress is here! Oh woe!"

"Done! Finished!" thundered he so loud
That petrified was every look—
"Done! Three times done!" And wild with rage,
Hung the receiver on the hook.

PROGRESS SHOWN BY AMBASSADOR

Count Bernstorff Gives Figures on Foreign Trade in Article.

NEW YORK, November 28.—Germany's remarkable economic progress since the establishment of the Empire is described in the December number of "Export American Industries," by Count Johann Heinrich Bernstorff, German Ambassador to the United States. Since 1891 Count Bernstorff points out, Germany's foreign trade has increased faster than that of any other nation, the gain exceeding even that registered by the United States.

The title of Ambassador Bernstorff's article is "The Financial Situation in Germany." He gives figures to show that during the last forty years German imports have increased 208 per cent to 16,673,000,000 marks (about $2,668,000,000), and exports 282 per cent to 9,831,200,000 marks (about $2,258,000,000).

In this respect, he adds, Germany compares favorably with the United States, despite the great natural resources of the latter and the large stream of immigrants in the prime of life. Between 1872 and 1911 the total foreign trade of the United States increased 235 per cent, and that of Germany 128 per cent, but during the decade to 1911 the German increase was 142.1 per cent, and that of the United States only 105.1 per cent. The value of the foreign trade, both imports and exports, of the United States in 1911 was $3,718,820,000, while the foreign trade of Germany in the same year was $4,452,950,000.

POPULATION INCREASE.

Between the years 1871 and 1910 Germany's population increased about 25,000,000, and in the latter year was 64,903,000.

Count Bernstorff devotes considerable space to discussing the rate of interest which is somewhat higher in Germany than in some other countries, and has been mentioned as proof that Germany is laboring under a scarcity of money. This view, he argues, is erroneous. "Fluctuations in the rates of interest," he says, "are mainly due to changes in the economic conditions of a country. Besides the rapid growth of a vigorous and striving population—as that of Germany since 1870—causes a considerable increase in all needs of life. The problem of feeding, clothing and housing this increasing number of people would only be solved by the expenditure of vast amounts of capital.

The geographical situation of Germany requires constantly growing expenses for her army and navy. The different social problems, the solving of which Germany has undertaken ahead of other nations, not only cause large expenses to the Empire, but also to the United States and other nations. The latter in addition have to furnish the means for the improvement of intercommunication, for the requirements of public health, and for other important causes.

MONEY MARKET STRAINED.

"All this, of course, resulted in a heavy strain upon the money market, thereby causing a rise in the money rates. It was, therefore, inevitable that in spite of the formation of immense wealth, the accumulation of capital could not keep pace with the money demand and that consequent ly foreign capital was attracted to Germany.

"Notwithstanding this general demand for money in Germany, Germany, however, during the last years, has been able to attract a large amount of foreign capital, and to

SUFFRAGISTS ARRANGE
PARLIAMENTARY PLAN

LONDON, Nov. 29.—A number of suffragists, members of the various political parties, have made an arrangement, which, if it can be successfully carried out, will insure a majority for women's suffrage in the next Parliament. They have concentrated in the hope of arranging the organization of suffragist electors in the constituencies before the general election. The idea is that these electors should put "suffrage first," in other words, that they should inform the candidates that their votes will be given in the interest of women's suffrage. Lord Lytton and Petrick Lawrence are both in favor of the plan.

BANKER IS INVITED TO WITNESS A DUEL

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—L. W. Hellman Jr., the San Francisco banker, who is touring Europe with his wife, was the guest of James Simon, the Berlin business magnate, at a luncheon early in the week. Mr. Hellman was invited to attend a students' duel at the headquarters of one of the university corps, a privilege rarely accorded to strangers. "It was interesting," said Mr. Hellman, after leaving the room where the doctors were attending the wounded duellists, "but once is enough for me." Mr. Hellman and his wife are making a protracted pleasure tour, leaving Berlin for south Germany Monday.

Let's Pool Our Issues and Pull Together.

Oakland does not lack civic spirit nor progressive purpose. What we do lack is concentration. We divide our forces too much and do not pull together enough. We expend too much energy in spasmodic efforts and in striving to do by piecemeal what can only be effectively accomplished by united action. We should mobilize our strength and exert it all at once at given points and at given times. In other words, we need to all of us pull on the same rope and in the same direction. That is what will make things come our way and come quick.

We do not lack organization; we have too much of it, or rather too many organizations with the same object in view. Instead of having one disciplined army, directed by a single head, we have too many independent commands moving by separate routes to the same goal. Hence there is confusion and cross purposes—a lack of cohesion and concert of effort. We have too many teams to pull the same wagon, too many generals giving orders at the same time, too much pushing and pulling without co-operation. Our energy lacks propulsion because it is divided and is expended in divergent channels. We are not pulling together.

For example, we have half a dozen or more organizations having the same object in view. There is the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants Exchange, the Commercial Club, the Manufacturers' Association, the Rotary Club and the Progress and Prosperity Committee. The latter is an auxiliary of the Chamber of Commerce, but its activities are largely independent of the chamber. All these organizations have separate sets of officers and different directing heads. All are working enthusiastically to achieve the same ends, but unfortunately they do not always work together, not that they lack in harmony, but that they start at different times and pull in different ways, and hence accomplish a minimum of result with a maximum of effort. Often they pull apart without intending to do so, simply because they are not all moved by the same initiative impulse. We are wasting our powers by operating too many sets of machinery to turn the same wheel.

What we need is concentration, discipline, mobility and concert of action. We can only get that by forming a central organization, joining our forces, pooling our issues and pulling together on the same line. The results which we desire to achieve, and which the several organizations named were formed to achieve, can best be achieved by mobilizing our forces and cohesively exerting our energies. We cannot pull together unless we get together and pull at the same word of command. One big engine will do more work and better work than a dozen little ones, and do it with less friction and expenditure of fuel. Any mechanic will tell you that. Men moving in masses are merely cogs in the social machinery. If we would work them to the best advantage they must be concentrated and brought to move in unison.

THE TRIBUNE offers this as a suggestion. Hardly any one, we suppose, will deny the efficiency or the need of concentration. We cannot have it unless we form a compact organization to perform all the functions now performed by a number of organizations, which are not lacking in zeal, but which minimize their efficiency by detached effort. They desire to pull together, but concentration of purpose is defeated by lack of concert of action. The thing to do is to concentrate and bring our forces into action in a way to get the largest measure of results obtainable with the energy at our command.

The Happy Promise of the Rains.

Thus far this season the rains have fallen at singularly propitious intervals and in nicely-balanced quantities. Little inconvenience has been caused because the heaviest rains have fallen during the night hours when labor was suspended and the showers only wetted the thirsty earth. The rains have not been torrential or so protracted as to prevent people from going about their avocations for more than a few hours at a time.

We wonder if the mass of Californians appreciate the fact that Providence seems to have timed the rains so that they would do the most good and inflict the minimum of damage. Holiday shopping has not been interfered with to any great extent. The inconvenience has been more than offset by the increased enthusiasm of buyers. People went about in the rain with a buoyant feeling which was expressed in cheerful greetings and congratulations over the bounteous crops promised during the coming year. Workmen have been compelled to lose little time and have suffered only slightly from the precipitation. Moreover, the rains have made trade brisker and inspired all classes with a more hopeful spirit.

Farmers have an especial reason to be thankful over the distribution of the rainfall this season. Precipitation did not begin till the crops were garnered. Grapes and berries were not damaged to any extent, the rains coming when there was scarcely anything in the fields to be injured. The rains were not so heavy as to interfere with plowing, and have been followed by no cold snaps, hence the whole country is carpeted with green herbage, furnishing fine pasturage for stock and giving a spring aspect to the landscape. A better season for plowing and seeding has never been known. Having lain fallow during the long dry season, the soil on the hills is demonstrating now its fertility and fertility. The brooks are gurgling as if in joy that the rains have come, poppies are blooming on the meads and all nature wears a look of animation and rejuvenation. Birds, beasts and flowers are in joyous mood. Certainly California is a glad land and has a prospect that smiles from every point of view.

When a vernal season follows the Autumn equinox in the northern hemisphere, it is proof that a mild climate is in its most gracious mood. That is what we are having here at this time, hence it is not to be wondered at that animal spirits are at the high tide of exhilaration and that the land smiles and blooms with the promise of abundance. Christmas this year should indeed be a merry one.

No Drastic Regulation Here.

The population of Los Angeles is more than twice that of Oakland, yet Los Angeles has only two hundred saloons. The license is $1200 a year, and there is an ordinance requiring Sunday and midnight closing.

Nobody in Los Angeles complains that there are not enough drinking places in town; the saloon men do not complain of the high license, and nobody is hardy enough to assert that Los Angeles has been injured by putting the liquor traffic under restrictions.

On the contrary, the people of Los Angeles are discussing the advisability of reducing the number of saloons to one hundred and putting up the license to $2400 a year.

In Los Angeles there are more than 2000 inhabitants to every saloon. In Oakland there are less than 1000, under the new ordinance; under the old, there was a saloon to every 400 people. The proportion was out of all reason. Restriction here is mild compared to restriction elsewhere. Berkeley went on a prohibition basis several years ago, and since that time Berkeley's growth has been phenomenal. Nobody claims that the town has been hurt by wiping out the saloons. It would be absurd to say that Berkeley is saved from ruin by the saloons of Oakland and Emeryville. Nobody is foolish enough to assert that Pasadena and Long Beach thrive because saloons are licensed in Los Angeles.

People who think communities are made prosperous by the sale of liquor are shallow observers. Fleas do not make a dog fat, nor does catering to vicious appetite make a community rich any more than it makes the patrons of saloons individually prosperous.

Instead of being drastic the new liquor ordinance is mild to indulgence and is more than liberal to the liquor interest. The trouble is that the liquor interest has never yet submitted to regulation with a good grace. It never yields, but always has to be driven. It will be decent only on compulsion.

Apparently some of our San Francisco contemporaries have just discovered that Oroville is the center of a splendid orange-growing region. Butte county has been producing choice oranges for thirty years. A citrus fair was held in Sacramento in 1886, and at that fair Butte county astonished the whole State by her magnificent display of citrus fruits. Butte county has always been among the first to send oranges to market, and the quality of the fruit she grows is not surpassed anywhere. Oroville's citrus fair this year is not a surprising event. The exhibit she is making is a splendid evidence of the fertility and versatility of the Sacramento valley, but that should occasion no surprise to the press of San Francisco. However, the San Francisco papers have a trick of discovering the interior every few years and going into ecstasies over their discoveries. By so doing they advertise how far they are out of touch with rural progress in this State and how little thought they ordinarily give to development in the interior.

The mayor of Atlantic City would issue no proclamation on Thanksgiving Day because he believed that there were many who had no reason to be thankful. This condition has prevailed in the world since the Stone Age, but nevertheless the world is thankful for progress, if for nothing else. The world still progresses; gets more wholesome and worth while every day of its turning. Perhaps the mayor of Atlantic City is a direct descendant of old stone hatchet. He might, at least, be willing to visit his own delightful city's beach and be thankful that its inimicable "September" and "November" morns have nearby clothing stores where they may acquire at a small price a decent showing of raiment.

The British are cheering the Monroe Doctrine. Perhaps that is because it is so ineffective.

Short Sermons for Busy Readers

"MEN AND THINGS"

"But one thing is needful; and Mary hath chosen the better part which shall not be taken away from her."—Luke's gospel, 10-42.

There are many men Marthas as well as women, who emphasize the wrong things. There is a science of living and a fine art of living, and we are in danger of losing one in striving for the other. For instance, when we start off a life, when we name the baby, we give it a cognomen that means nothing. It doesn't fit. It may save from getting lost in transit through the world, but it has no quality. So we go on dealing in things rather than in humans. The important thing is life, next the quality of the life. But we deal in things rather than men. At the Thanksgiving season we are apt to talk about the progress of this nation. We have made progress, but human progress does not consist altogether in the multiplication of things. We are sorry for George Washington because he could not light Mt. Vernon with electricity, and for Andrew Jackson because he could not call his friends on the telephone, and for Abraham Lincoln because he could bicycle, but ought we not to be sorry for ourselves that our crop of such men has so nearly run out? Rev. E. J. Bradner.

LIFE TAKES COLOR.

You remember your grandfather, the shack he lived in, and the home-spun jeans he wore. See what you wear and the fine house you live in. Are you proportionately better? What difference does it make if a man can walk up to a hole in the wall and talk over two mountain ranges if he has nothing to say? And of what value is it to a man if he can ride in a train sixty miles an hour if the officers are waiting to take him in when he arrives?

Life takes its color from what it feeds upon. We have pure food laws for the body, but let the mind in a large measure shift for itself.

LIVES FROM WITHIN.

What is inside of a man will show outwardly. A man lives from within outwardly. Vital blushes are not sold at drug stores. If a man does not drink from the finger bowl, and at a pink tea can balance himself on one foot, hold a cup of tea in one hand and a plate of cake in the other, he is a gentleman. Perhaps; but these accomplishments are not vital. A gentleman is one first of all who has the sympathetic and the loving heart. Without that one may have all the manners of society and be a fraud. Raphael is reported to have painted seventy pictures of the Madonna. None of us can do that, but it is a greater thing to be a holy mother than to paint one. I would rather live a love story than to write one. You may not be able to write poetry, but can do something better—you can live a poem. "The Angelus" represents the struggle of the artist to picture prayer. Great as that is, a life of prayer is greater.

BUILDING A CHARACTER.

Things are well enough in their place, but they perish with their using. When the building is complete the scaffolding is removed. We are building a character that will outlast the stars. Some day we will look over the battlements of heaven and see the ruins of suns, stars and worlds, while we shall have just begun to live. We brought nothing into this world and we can carry nothing out except character, which is the only baggage carried on the ferry over the dark river. Sit at God's feet and choose the better part. Love God and your fellow men. Seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all things necessary will be added for you.

E. J. Bradner.

Rev. E. J. Bradner is pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal church of this city.

VEAL SHADOW IN MARITAL STRIFE

Wife Says "Chops," Husband
"Cutlets," and Happiness Is Cut Short.

"The wife must not drink intoxicating liquors save with her husband."
"She must not smoke cigarettes."
"She must not go out at night unknown to her spouse."
"She must submit gracefully to his wider knowledge and experience."
"She must not listen to stories about his character."
"She must not try to wear the pants."—Six of the "Ten Commandments" for a wife, one of which Mrs. John Wesley Marks failed to keep.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—Mrs. John Wesley Marks was a perfect

Then trouble came, and when she insisted that they were veal chops, and her husband, a local telegraph operator, declared that they were cutlets, she broke one of the "Ten Commandments" which, when the couple were married, she promised to observe. Today Marks was granted a divorce in the court of Superior Judge Graham.

The "fourth commandment" set forth that the wife was always to bow to her husband's knowledge. She had other commandments to observe—and observed them, too, according to testimony. The wife, Mrs. Marks, agreed not to drink save in the presence of her husband, not to smoke cigarettes, not to go out at night unknown to her spouse, not to listen to stories about his character, and not to try to "wear the pants."

VEAL ACTS AS SHADOW.
All were observed, and the couple, with the "ten commandments" on the mantelpiece and in the heart of the dutiful wife, lived happily and prospered.

Then, like a dark shadow, the veal fell athwart the path of true love. A quarrel arose. Marks bitterly charged that his wife had violated a commandment in not bowing to his wider experience and admitting the chops, and the suit was filed.

This was followed by more trouble, and the crash came in their marital affairs. The judge, after hearing the case, refused to pass on the veal chops, but decided, nevertheless, that a divorce was necessary.

ADVERTISING-NEEDED IN CHURCH WORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The Rev. Frank H. Ebricht, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, White-stone, L. I., believes that advertising is as necessary in church work as in business. His views on advertising were shown in an advertisement which appeared today in the White-stone Herald.

"Missing—Last Sunday, many families from church."
"Stolen—Several hours from the Lords day by a great number of people."
"Strayed—Half a hundred lambs; went the direction of no Sunday school."

"Misaid—A quantity of silver coins owed to the Lord."

"Wanted—Scores of young people. When last seen were walking up 'Sabbath Breakers Lane,' which leads to 'No Good.'"

"Lost—A lad carefully reared. Not long from home. Supposed to have gone to Husk lane. Prudential town. Any person assisting in the discovery of the above shall in no wise lose his reward."

"Whitstone M. E. Church. Get the habit."

ASKS FOR BABIES' FINGER PRINTS ON CERTIFICATES

SPOKANE, Nov. 23.—To require the finger prints of every child to be taken soon after birth is the object of a movement started by W. Hoyt Turner, chief of the bureau of identification of the Spokane police department.

A bill covering the proposal will be introduced at the next session of the Washington legislature, but Turner favors also a federal provision requiring the child's finger prints on the birth certificate.

"When we remember that one's finger prints remain the same through life we appreciate the value of the movement," Chief Turner said. "The classifications of finger prints are now so exact that it is easy to file a finger print under a card index system that enables us to find it in an incredibly short time."

"The taking of babies' finger prints would aid in preventing crime, hunting criminals, in identifying heirs, and in numerous other ways that may be government for the cost of maintenance."

LITTLE GIRL DOES KISSING FOR CROWD

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 23.—James Whitcomb P. K. went back to his Indianapolis home with the little dog of having received forty thousand kisses from school children rolled into one big and resounding smack. Riley came here to be the guest of the school children and every one of 'em wanted to kiss him, but couldn't. So they let Vera Prather, 12 years old, of the Warsaw school, do the kissing for the crowd.

"In behalf of the school children I give you this kiss," said Vera on the stage at Music Hall. When it was done Jim blushed and returned the kiss to the four-year-old with a reciprocal smack on Vera's cheek.

HAIR TUMBLES, SHE TIES UP SUBWAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Happily, the blonde kid, held up by a subway express train at the Bowling Green station. The young lady, of course one went with the hatpins, was a beautiful blonde. As she started to leave the train a hairpin fell out, and as she bent to pick it up, others followed.

Soon passengers helped her retrieve them. Soon her hair fell down. Using the door as a mirror she twisted it up while one man held her hat and dozens of eager hands held hatpins. "Madam, please holding up this train," yelled a guard.

"I should worry," she smiled at him.

Miss H. Hanselman to Wed Sets Nuptials for Spring

MISS HAZEL HANSELMAN, WHO ANNOUNCED HER ENGAGEMENT LAST EVENING AT AN ELABORATE DINNER PARTY.

Miss Hazel Hanselman, the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hanselman, has set the date for her wedding to Charles A. Smith, a well known business man of San Francisco, for the early spring. The announcement of the engagement of the young couple was made at a banquet at the home of the bride last evening. Quantities of pink and ferns were used in the appointment of the tables and dining hall. Following the dinner the guests whittled away the hours in dancing.

Miss Hanselman is of the dainty blonde type and is surrounded by a large number of friends in the bay cities. Smith came formerly from Springfield, Ill., and is established in the automobile business across the bay. Among those present at the announcement of the engagement were Miss Frances Merigan, Miss Gladys Elliott, Miss Edna Long, Miss Esther Beede, Miss Alice Slack, Miss Gertrude Graham, Miss Ethel Stewart, Miss Florence Mankin, Miss Anna Faras, Miss Hazel Hanselman, Herbert Husing, William Koch, Louis Wilbrandt, Harry Daniels, Charles A. Smith Jr., Rudolph Mohr Jr., Raymond Rapier, and Eugene Krueger, M. D. Stewart, Robert F. Finn and J. Finnigan.

TAXPAYERS' COLUMN

"STRAINING AT GNAT."

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 23, 1912.

EDITOR TRIBUNE: A clipping from your editorial page. This article makes me feel that I am not alone.

I will choke on a gnat and swallow a camel. And "stumble over a grain of wheat and never see a mountain."

Speaking of the dog-muzzling ordinance, there is a street in Oakland that is full of dogs; just one corner has nine dogs and two children. No muzzles, and many of them no license. And a policeman is an unknown thing on this street, except when sent for. And the pound man will pay no attention when notified of facts.

I was standing on the corner of Twenty-third avenue and East Fourteenth street the other day, waiting for a car, and saw a policeman standing there talking with three other men, and a large black dog without either muzzle or license on, passing around this policeman without being noticed. Then a gentleman whom I was talking with kicked the dog off the sidewalk in front of the cop, but he saw something very attractive in some signs in the window in an upper story across the street and could not see the dog. But he afterwards saw a couple of poor men trying to make a living by gathering garbage, and run them in before a gnat and swallow a camel.

There is not a day but I see from one to a dozen dogs on the streets without muzzles.

Come out to Melrose, Fitchburg and Elmhurst, and see if the muzzling ordinance is enforced. Or the license either. But I suppose if you saw some poor devil spit on the sidewalk you would have him arrested.

If you will oust the dirty, rotten saloons and the filthy book yards, and stop the dumping along the street and vacant lots, I think you would do more to preserve health than by arresting some poor fellow for spitting on the sidewalk.

I am in favor of anything that will promote health and beautify our city, but not to stumble over a grain of wheat and never see a mountain.

HENRY KOLLER.

RECOVERS WATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—Peter Mellenberger of 675 Howard street succeeded in recovering his watch lost by a thief on Monday morning. Mellenberger was walking on Folsom street early this morning when he asked for the time and when Mellenberger accommodated him, snatched his watch. Mellenberger pursued the thief, caught him and caused him to drop the timepiece. While the victim was recovering his property, the robber got away.

HELD UP ON BOAT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—Captain C. Crosby of the steam launch Dremier was held up aboard the boat early this morning by two bandits and stepped out of his cabin, only to face two revolvers in the hands of the highwaymen. They forced him to hand over $5, jumped to the dock and got away.

HINDUS ARE ALLOWED TO ENTER CANADA LEGALLY

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 23.—That the federal government orders-in-council, hitherto restraining Hindus from entering the province, except under very special circumstances, are ultra vires that Hindus cannot be excluded from Canada except on the ground of idiosyncrasy, disease, crime or mendacity, is the effect of a sweeping written judgment given today by Chief Justice Hunter in the case of Bhakawan Singh. He was forcibly deported recently. He is said to be a graduate of a university and one of the most highly educated of Hindu religious teachers. The decision means that any number of shiploads of Hindus may come here and must be freely admitted.

YOUTH PASSES AWAY ON TRAIN IN SISKIYOU

ASHLAND, Ore., Nov. 23.—Howard Simpson, a young man whose home is in Centralia, Washington, died suddenly on train No. 14 this morning while crossing the Siskiyou. He was accompanied by his mother on the way north after a season passed in Ashland. Simpson was said to be in good health and was not expected to have fatally affected an already weakened heart.

HELD ON SLAVE CHARGE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—Harry Furlong was held to answer to the Superior Court today by Judge Crist on a white slave charge, preferred by Ethel Davis, a 17-year-old candy shop girl. Mrs. Lillian Davis jointly accused with Furlong, was similarly held last Tuesday.

Our policy is to make them now at the very opening of winter.

DENIED HASH, POORHOUSE INMATE STARTS FIRE

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 23.—

Southbridge poor farm here, is locked up on a charge of arson, as the result of a fire in his room at the farm after he had been disciplined for refusing to do the chores allotted to him. Many means are used to discipline inmates who are unruly, and the method used in the case of Laprad was a restriction on what he had to eat at dinner.

When two years ago Laprad came to the farm he made it clear that hash was his favorite dish. During the holidays, when the menu at the farm was of higher class than usual, Laprad sulked and was ill humored until the turkey reached the hash stage of its career at the farm. Then he brightened perceptibly.

When he returned from the fields where he had been lying down next to some work, the authorities denied him his portion of hash. He raved for a time and threatened to "burn the barn." Then he went to his room and within a few minutes the fire brigade was in full uniform with half an hour's work before it. Laprad was caught on his way to a restaurant.

VASSAR KITTIES BARRED; STUDENTS SHED TEARS

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Nov. 23.—

By order of Louis P. Gillespie, general superintendent of Vassar College, all cats were banished at this term. Cats have been a fad at Vassar this year and the girls had scores of them, ranging from prize Angoras to plain midnight prowlers.

When the edict against the pussies was issued there was a great scurrying to find homes for them and indignation among the students was at the boiling point.

There were so many cats that the nights were made hideous and the college authorities stood firm for their removal.

"PUFFY LOVE" HEART HUNGER.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Nov. 23.—"The suppression of puffy love has been one of the greatest misdeeds," said Professor William A. McKeever, head of the department of child welfare in the University of Kansas, in a lecture.

"Boys and girls must have a chance to make love," he said. "Puffy love is an expression of heart hunger which has an important influence upon the nature of boys and girls."

DOG ENDS LIFE AS MASTER WAS KILLED

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Buster, a little brown and white mongrel was killed when he deliberately jumped in front of a speeding express train of the Long Island Railroad as it passed over the Montauk avenue grade crossing in Jamaica, where six months before, on his fifth birthday, his little master, Elmer Crook, had been killed. According to children of the neighborhood, the dog committed suicide.

On his birthday last May little Elmer, accompanied by Buster, who had been his companion and playfellow for three years, left his home in Dresden street, near Atlantic avenue, to get some sweets for his birthday party.

On his way to the store the boy met several of his little chums and urged them to be at his home that evening for the party. The boy accompanied him to the Montauk avenue crossing, and as he started to step over the rails, Buster turned to wave his hand. As he did so an express train bore down upon him and he was struck by the train.

From that day on Buster, who had always been a lively little animal, fond of performing, began to show signs of a broken heart. Every day, his tall limp and nose to the ground, the little dog would trot slowly out to the Montauk avenue crossing and sit for hours watching the trains speed by, never jumping or barking at them as had been his custom before his master's death.

Yesterday Buster took up his position as usual by the rails and on the next train came in sight straightened up the body to the ground, the little dog dog jumped directly in front of the first car and was thrown in front of the gateman's shanty.

The gateman and children, who had noticed the dog's actions in recent months, declared as they carried the body to the Crook home that the faithful little dog had deliberately chosen death to life without his master.

GIRL DETECTIVE CATCHES YOUTHFUL BURGLARS

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Emanuel Lang, of No. 343 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, and Charles Schneider, of No. 8 East One Hundred and Seventeenth street, were arraigned in the Morristown court, charged with burglarizing

West One Hundred and Fortieth street, she discovered them in her room and followed them out. At Fourth avenue she saw Patrolman Maroon. She threw her arms around one of the men and yelled to Maroon to grab the other.

He caught Lang, but Schneider broke away from Miss Cannon and ran down Eighth avenue, she hurried after him, as fast as a hobble skirt would permit, calling "Stop thief!"

Few persons responded to her cry, and when she reached One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street Schneider was out of sight. But she had a good look at him.

avenue station that an hour later Detective Barnett found him in a barber shop being shaved.

SAVES HIS LIFE BY HOLDING BULL'S NOSE

WICHITA, Kas., Nov. 23.—While passing through his feed lot today Perry Brandon, a farmer living south of Wichita, was attacked by a 9-month-old Holstein bull, which knocked him down and broke several of his ribs.

Brandon got a hold on the bull's nose and protected himself from being gored while he took his knife from his pocket. Opening the knife, Brandon plunged the blade into the animal's eye, which so discomfited the bull that it retreated and Brandon leaped over a fence to safety. He was seen arm severely while opening the knife. The bull was killed.

MUCH WANTED PRISONER RELEASED TOO SOON

YORK, Pa., Nov. 23.—After being held in jail for more than a month while efforts were being made to learn where about him, a man arrested here October 12 under the name of E. S. Slason, was released yesterday.

Today information was received to the effect that the prisoner was Harry West, of Dallas, Tex., a forger with a criminal record, badly wanted by the United States government. The local authorities are again busy trying to find him.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Nov. 23.—The Turkey Trot and Tango have been barred by the Poughkeepsie Bar-tenders' Union at their coming annual ball. Vassar girls lately adopted the dances.

PASTORS KILL RABBITS FOR CHURCH SUPPER

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 23.—Eighty-eight rabbits will be served tomorrow night at a supper which will be held by St. Matthew's Lutheran Brotherhood. They are all dressed for the feast (the rabbits are), having been brought home from a ten-day hunting trip in Bedford county by three local Lutheran ministers, the Rev. E. Victor Roland, Church of the Redeemer; the Rev. E. E. Snyder, St. Matthew's, and the Rev. Dr. L. C. Manges, Memorial.

The Rev. Dr. Manges made the most unusual kill of the trip. Dogs chased a bunny from a thicket too close to him to shoot. He kicked instead, and the dead rabbit was picked up.

NUDE "WILD MAN" IS CAPTURED NEAR PARK

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 23.—A so-called

"wild man," who has been scaring women and children residing a short distance west of Valley Park, was arrested Thursday and placed in the Clayton Jail. He is unidentified. A hearing as to his humanity will be conducted.

Citizens of the county say the man has been in the wood near Valley Park two weeks, and that most of the time he has been nude. He was without clothing when arrested. The man, scared cattle and dogs away from their pastures and frightened women and children by queer noises, but did not venture out of the wood.

AFFAIRE BELISS JUST BEGINNING

Member of 'Extreme Right' of Duma to Be Tried for Newspaper Article.

(By W. ORTON TEWSON.)

RUSSIA, Nov. 29.—The "Affaire Beliss," as the case of M. Beliss is termed throughout Russia, is only at its beginning, according to numerous Russian newspapers. In a few days the trial of M. Beliss, member of the "Extreme Right" of the Duma, will begin at Kieff. Beliss is to be tried for his connection with an article which appeared in a Kieff newspaper several weeks ago, in which the Russian government was roundly denounced for trying to fasten the murder of the Tushinsky boy upon a Jew.

The same attorneys who defended Beliss will have charge of the Kieff trial, and in many respects the coming trial is expected to be the sensational feature of the year.

It is expected that one of the sensational features will be the laying bare of the influence exerted in the Beliss trial by the peasant monk Rasputin.

GUARD IS WITHDRAWN.

Beliss has been unofficially notified that the prosecution will not take an appeal in his case, and in confirmation of this the military guard which has surrounded the Beliss home since the end of the trial was today withdrawn.

to Beliss.

In view of the daily threats Beliss receives through the press, it is not surprising that he will never be allowed to leave Russia alive, the men who regarded the military guard as a joke.

"They mean to kill me before I leave Kieff," said Beliss today. "If they could kill Premier Stolypin when he had every protection what chance will I have for my life?"

Despite the pessimistic feelings of her husband, Mrs. Beliss is completing plans for the family to leave Russia at an early date. Their final destination is as yet undecided, but it is said the family will leave Russia before the last of December. If the wishes of Beliss and his family are consulted they will make America their future home.

RECEIVES 5000 LETTERS.

All of the members of the Beliss family are very keen to go to the United States, and only today little David, who was arrested at the same time as his father, told the International News Service correspondent:

"I am looking forward to the time when I can get to the United States for I can go to school."

Hundreds of congratulatory letters continue to pour into the Beliss home, and it is estimated that Mrs. Beliss has received more than 5000 letters and telegrams.

INCOME $10 A WEEK, HE LIVES LIKE MILLIONAIRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Justice Gleason and many spectators in the supreme court listened breathlessly while Clarence C. Stein, senior member of the silk importing house of Eschen, Mass. & Co., told how on a net income of $10 a week he was able to live at high cost of living.

Mr. Stein, who is being sued for a separation by his wife, Regina, did not give his recipe for beating old "H. C. L." but he did interest the court by his recital of the following things he accomplished on his income:

Lived at the Hotel Brevoort for two weeks for $75.

Maintained an apartment where a Mrs. Taylor resided, and where Mrs. Stein interrupted him with a railing party. Took a vacation trip to Asbury Park. Entertained friends at Broadway restaurants.

Kept well dressed.

Several weeks ago Mrs. Stein was awarded alimony at the rate of $15 a week.

Louis A. Xaas, partner in Stein's business, took the same today and swore that Mr. Stein had an income of only $25 a week from the business, because the firm had been losing money of late.

Stein testified that after paying $15 alimony each week to Mrs. Stein, he had only $10 left.

Quite different from the story of her husband was Mrs. Stein's recital of his financial affairs. She said her husband was getting $30 a week and commissions from the firm.

Justice Gleason reserved decision.

PET COON FROM INFANCY UPSETS TRADITIONS

MONROESVILLE, Pa., Nov. 29.—Smoke, a pet coon belonging to Franklin Sauter of this place has cast aside its hereditary instinct of enmity toward birds and towns of all kinds and adopted a brood of young guinea hens that had been hatched in the oven of Mr. Sauter's son.

Naturalists and woodmen in this section declare it is the only instance on record where a coon is known to have overcome his natural instincts to kill all feathered creatures.

Several months ago Mr. Sauter, on a hunt, captured a baby coon that had been pushed down and injured by the dogs. Taking the animal home, it soon became domesticated and became a great pet around the house.

Not having an incubator for his guinea hen's eggs, Sauter placed the eggs in a box back of his stove. He was surprised to find the coon in the box with young guinea, mothering them.

Since that time the animal has refused to leave the guinea chicks and keeps them well covered.

GAINS JUDGMENT OF COURT AGAINST SELF

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—The case of George Leonard versus George Leonard was decided in favor of George Leonard, the plaintiff, in the Connersville Circuit Court.

Leonard was awarded $1000 judgment against himself. The case was a private individual, brought suit against himself as executor of the estate of a woman near Hammond.

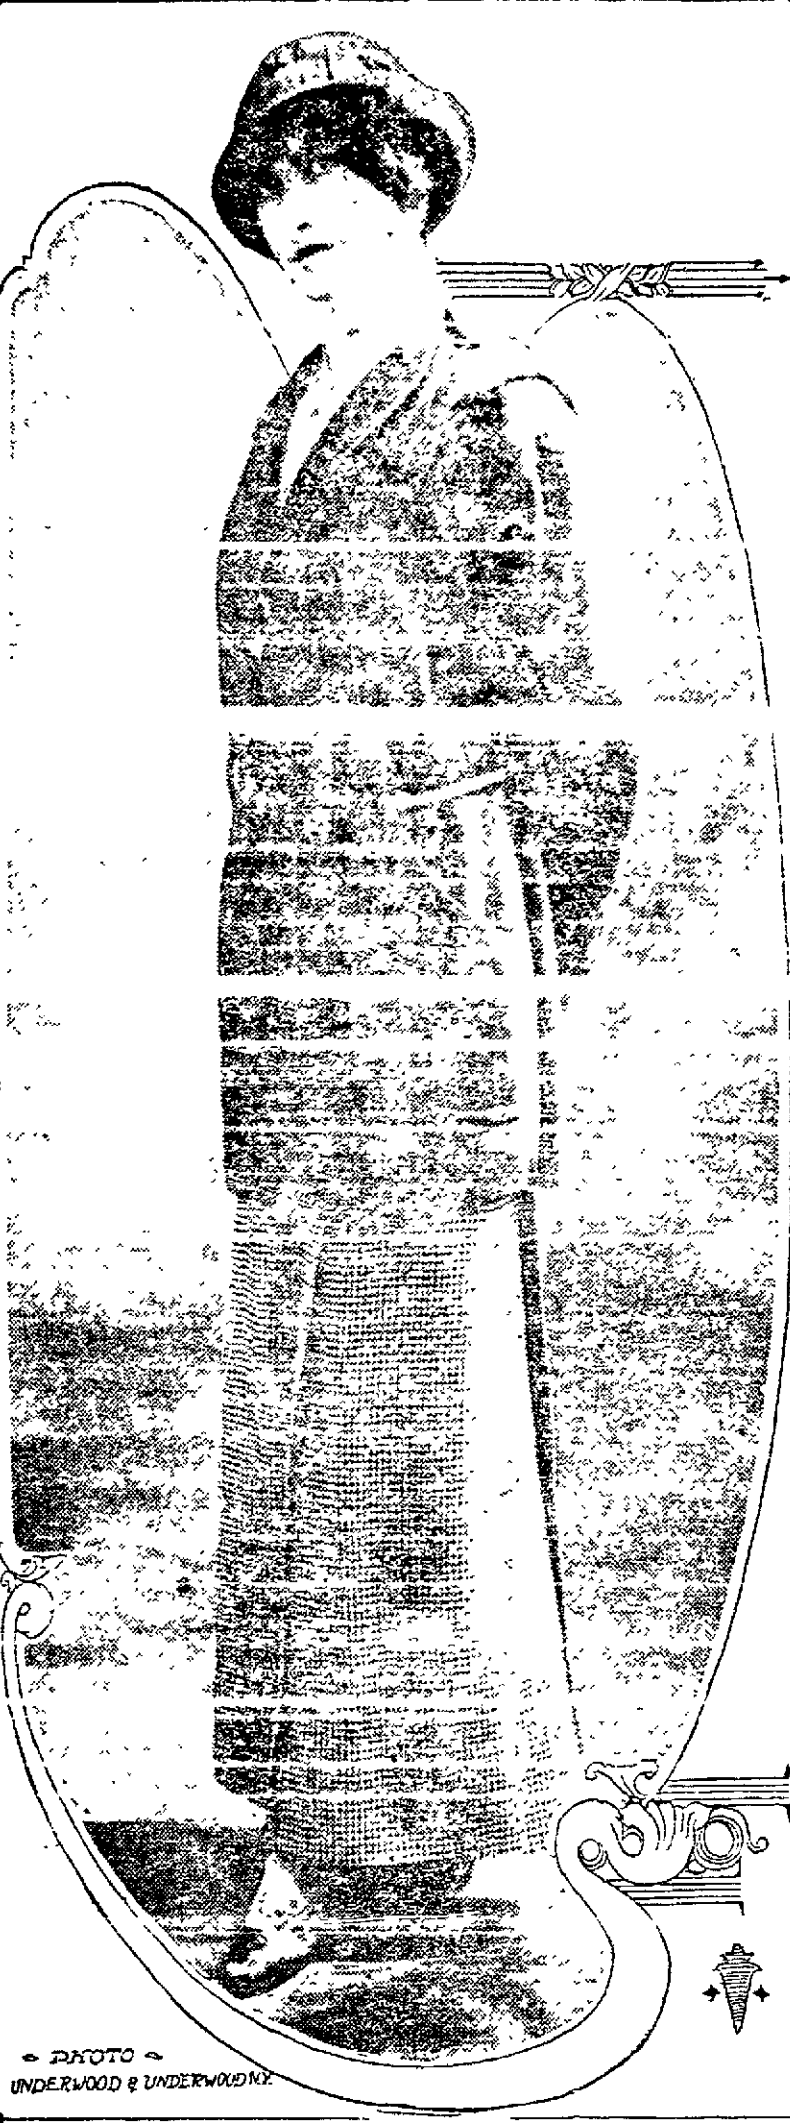

Leonard had been the business adviser of Creelman for years and there was an agreement between the two that Mr. Leonard was to receive fifty acres of land upon the owner's death.

When Creelman died his will gave but five acres to Leonard. Thereupon Leonard brought suit against himself for his actual services to the woman estate.

NEW YORK MARKET HAS DULL SESSION

Movement in Stocks Is Downward and London Quotations Are Lowered.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Today's stock market was uneventful. Aside from the announcement of the filing of the Government suit to dissolve the American Can Company, there was little in the news to affect the market one way or the other.

Prices of commodities, however, developed a few fluctuations. This was most pronounced in the market for sugar. The price of sugar advanced, and the market for sugar was active. The price of sugar advanced, and the market for sugar was active.

HAT FEATHER TICKLES A BALD HEAD; SHOW HALTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—She wore a lion feather on her hat. When she showed at Patterson the plume tickled a spot on a man's head, and he muttered something about a fly who doesn't know enough to die before November. She slapped his hand to his head, caught the end of the feather and pulled off the woman's hat.

DENTAL VIBRATIONS ARE CAUSE OF HER HEARING

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 29.—"Oh, it is like the voice of singing angels," was the exclamation of Mrs. J. M. Leonard, as she gave her opportunity to hear music. Reading of how the deaf had been afforded an opportunity to hear music, Leonard made the experiment on Miss Koller. A flute, bass viol and cello were used.

HOLDERS OF GRAIN UNLOAD IN HURRY

Recessions on All Sides and Sentiment Seems to Be Bearish.

(By JOSEPH P. PRITCHARD.)

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Wheat holders of grain were unloading in as active a manner as possible without carrying prices downward too rapidly today. As it was, there were recessions on all sides, and the market was bearish.

FOOD CAPACITY OF BIRD AMAZINGLY LARGE

DEER LUKE WORKERS; SAWMILL IS CLOSED

SHAWANO, Wis., Nov. 29.—The lure of the deer trails is so powerful an attraction for the members of crew employed in the government sawmill here, that the plant has been compelled to shut down until the hunters have captured their quota of game.

WATCHMAN SHOTS AT FLEEING BURGLARS

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—E. A. Crope, a watchman at the state normal school, Waller and Buchanan streets, came upon three burglars in the basement tonight. The men were engaged in bundling up a quantity of tools stored in the place. Crope attempted to capture them, but they fled. He emptied his revolver after them, but there was no indication that the shots took effect.

MANCHUKES DOG WITH HIS HANDS

Canines Run Amuck in New York; One Comes to Grief.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Two men were bitten by one dog and a little girl by another in Brooklyn, adding three more to the long list of persons who have been attacked by vicious dogs throughout the city in the last few weeks. The number of persons bitten in that borough is almost as large as that of the victims of savage dogs in the Bronx.

John Gleason, a carpenter, fifty years old of No. 3301 First avenue, was standing in the front of his home when a white bulldog that a few minutes before had bitten another man a few blocks away, ran up and fastened its teeth in Gleason's right leg. Gleason reached down and struck the dog with his fist. The animal leaped up and tore a long wound in the man's hand. As he dropped to the sidewalk he fastened his teeth in Gleason's leg.

Gleason tried to kick him off, but the dog would not let go, and then the dog reached down, circled the man's throat with its hands and with great strength choked the dog to death while he held to the leg.

This dog had just bitten Harry G. Collins, also fifty years old, a locomotive driver of No. 328 Forty-third street, as he stood at Forty-second street and First avenue talking with several friends. He clung to Collins.

Then he started down First avenue with several persons following. The cry of "mad dog" attracted a large crowd and before the animal had gone three blocks several hundred persons were pursuing him.

He turned frequently and snapped at those closest to him and several times ran into doorways, there attacking persons who had taken refuge from the animal when they saw the crowd running down the avenue. He tore the dresses of two girls who had crowded into a doorway and upon whom he sprang, but he did not wound them. These two girls and half a dozen women became hysterical as the dog and his pursuers passed.

Gleason heard the shouts coming down the street and from his window saw the pursuit. He ran down to the sidewalk to head the dog off and the animal attacked him. Not until he was dead could the jaws of the dog be pried open far enough to free Gleason's leg.

Dr. Garben was summoned from the Norwegian Hospital and he criticized the wounds of both men and advised them to appear at the rabies laboratory of the Board of Health for examination.

Irene Koobusch, two years old, was playing in the yard in front of her home at No. 801 Seventy-third street, Brooklyn, in the afternoon, when a strain dog leaped over the fence and attacked her. As she ran toward the door the dog overtook her, leaped, and bit the right side of her face, inflicting several deep wounds.

Heating her cries her parents ran out of the house and attacked the dog, but he was too strong for them. The girl was carried to the home of Dr. M. A. Whitaker, No. 585 Seventy-fifth street, where her wounds were dressed.

FATHER WOULD BE A NOBLE CHILDREN WORK

DETROIT, Nov. 29.—Clad in calico and cotton, pretty as a picture, brown-eyed thirteen-year-old Mary Tumorlo stood before a jury of judges today, that in a year her father may be an Italian nobleman.

Michael, the father, tall and dignified, thinks it no shame to have his children do menial work and stay away from school, so that he may go back to Italy with the savings and buy a title and an estate.

The fulfillment of their dream was postponed somewhat when in the Court of Domestic Relations, they were told that if their father did not keep the girl in school he would have to go to jail for five years.

EARLY VOYAGER'S CABIN IS FOUND

Primitive Fireplace and Part of Cabin Unearthed at St. Croix River.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 29.—Deep under inches of rooted turf, workmen have unearthed the first evidence of early settlement in the Northwest, indicating that as early as 1703 hardy French voyagers had pushed their way up the St. Croix river and hewed themselves a home.

The find, which furnishes the first material proof of the pioneer's presence at that early date, aside from Father Hennepin's written narrative, was discovered on the Minnesota side of the St. Croix near the lower end of the Interstate park at Taylor's Falls, and there workmen uncovered the remains of a primitive hearthstone of some early white man builder, for the Indians of that day neither knew nor used a hearth or fireplace.

The latter, as the unearthed foundation shows, was built after the rocky fashion of that period, made about four feet square and piled several feet high, with rough masonry of trap rock and sandstone and a hearth of evenly laid flat rock. The earth on either of the three sides of the hearth is still mixed with the ashes of the voyager's fire, and here and there can be found mouldy bits of bone, doubtless thrown aside from the meat of wild turkey and deer.

There can be no doubt, say those best fitted to know, that this ancient fireplace is the first indisputable proof of the white man in the Northwest.

The three who first worked their way up the St. Croix in the last century were Franklin Steele, Ed Baker and W. H. C. Froholm. The first two named at once laid claim to the St. Croix falls, recognizing its value for power. Froholm, however, knew more of timber and logs than the promotion of future power plants and selected a site just at the south end of a little island in the river, now known as Froholm's Island, built there a sawmill and logged lumber down the St. Croix to the Mississippi.

This was in 1845. Immediately in front of his sawmill door grew a fine hackberry tree, which he estimated "then at full 150 years. Just a few feet to the south of that one day he found the ruins of a still earlier pioneer in the hearts and fireplace.

The hackberry tree, its position showed, had grown since the passing away of the rough cabin of the early pioneer. The same hackberry tree still stands and workmen are agreed that it is easily more than 200 years old.

Time came, and the elder Froholm passed on, leaving a competence to his family. The eldest son, William A. Froholm, a white haired man, still a resident of Taylor's Falls, told George Hazard, the superintendent of the Interstate Park of what his father had told him of the early settler, and pointed out the hackberry tree as a guide to a discovery of the home.

Scores of ditches were dug around the old tree, many unearthing old hearthstone and the ashes that had lived there for generations.

WHAT SIDE OF BED BELONGS TO HUBBY?

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 29.—Judge Ewing C. Bland, a bachelor, today refused to decide whether a man has the right to tell his wife which side of the bed she should sleep on.

S. P. Thomas, arrested for kicking side of the bed and refused to move. After taking the case under advisement a short time Judge Bland told the couple to go home and decide it themselves.

DOG CHANGES SPOTS WHEN CALLED TO COME

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—While witnesses testified in the Municipal court in a case involving the ownership of Frenchie, a French bulldog valued at $150 and alleged to have been stolen from Mrs. Annetta L. Wentworth of Dorchester by Albert L. O'Connell, of the North End, the dog sat on or near the witness stand and gazed intently at the witnesses for the plaintiff.

He licked the hands of Mrs. Emma Hammett, Mrs. Wentworth's sister, who testified that the dog was Mrs. Wentworth's, and when Wentworth took the stand he remained by his side and gazed into his eyes as he testified.

When Mrs. Wentworth had finished, she declared, he had a pink in his tail, but since then, she told the court, the tail has been cut. She also remembered white marks on her dog's paws, but these could not be seen on the dog in court.

Frenchie was taken into custody by an inspector from police headquarters recently and spent that night in a cell. After Judge Murray continued the case the dog was returned to the cell and he will be kept there until the case is disposed of except when he is in court.

Once during the proceedings Frenchie walked around to the Judge's bench and remained there until he joined a member of the Wentworth family in the witness box again.

LIZARD 4 FEET LONG FOUND IN MARYLAND

CUMBERLAND, Md., Nov. 29.—A lizard four feet from head to tip, supposedly of the iguana family and known only in the tropics, was unearthed by a blast recently at the old cement mill in this city.

The rock formation in the hillsides in which the lizards had been set was being removed. The reptile was alive, but soon expired from the effects of the blast. How it came here and how long it was in the rocks, is problematical. It measures one foot five inches across the hind claws, when stretched.

Raymond Armbruster, who is conducting the government research here for the Smithsonian Institution, and Edward Harris, a botanist, pronounced the reptile a tree lizard, whose habitat is tropical America. It is of greenish-yellow color, mottled with green, the tail ringed with brown. It is esteemed as an article of food, and its eggs, about the size of those of a pigeon, regarded as a delicacy.

Some of the cement kilns blasted out were erected as far back as 1838, and the others many years afterward. Nothing like the lizard has ever been seen in this locality. It came to the surface when solid earth and rock were removed.

JILTED GIRL EATS MATCH HEADS, SEEKING DEATH

ALTOONA, Pa., Nov. 29.—The unrequited love of an Italian girl who came to this city from New York to look for a husband, led her to seek death in an unusual manner. The girl, who is 19 years of age, chewed the heads off a box of safety matches, after which she drank a considerable quantity of water. She is in the Altoona Hospital and will die.

MARY GARDEN IS NOT TO BE BRIDE

Not Even in Love, She Declares and Surprised at Opera Deal.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—"I'm neither married nor engaged to be married nor in love. In fact," declared Mary Garden, "I'm a most uninteresting person this year."

But this last statement was emphatically contradicted by the prima donna's enlivening observations on a wide variety of topics. In her suite at the Ritz, Miss Garden, who arrived in Philadelphia yesterday to begin rehearsals for the opera season talked on the latest managerial shake-up in the operatic world, on Oscar Hammerstein and his newest projects, on singing in English, on her new roles this season and on several other subjects related to life and her art.

The singer confessed the reported new deal in opera was a surprise to her.

"But if, as you tell me, Henry Russell of the Chicago company, is coming here on Monday for the opening of our season," she said, "then I am inclined to believe there may be something in the reports. I admire Mr. Russell. He is an able man, a big figure in the operatic world, and a great friend of mine."

WOULD STAY WEST.

"Perhaps, after all, it would be suitable for our company to remain in the west. It's called the Chicago Opera Company, and it is actually a western organization. Mr. Russell is on such good terms with the New York Metropolitan that he can borrow any of its fine artists any time he wants to."

Miss Garden didn't think Hammerstein would succeed in his latest operatic venture.

"Even with his superb troupe at the Manhattan he failed to survive," she said, "still I never can tell what he will do. He is to open in New York with 'Aphrodite,' an opera in which I created the title role in Paris. I always wanted to do it in this country, but Mr. Dippel had an unjustifiable fear that it was too sensational. The libretto is taken from Pierre Loti's wonderful book, and the music is by the Baron Erlanger. It's a beautiful score, and I should think its production by Mr. Hammerstein with Madame Chénal in the cast ought to spell success, if anything will."

My own new parts this season will be Dufina in Massenet's exquisite 'Don Quichotte,' with the gifted Marcoux in the titular character, and the name part in Ferner's 'Monna Vanna,' based on Maeterlinck's celebrated drama. I shall also sing for the first time in America in Massenet's 'Manon'."

About the appeal of opera in English the soprano expressed grave doubts. "There are so many difficulties to be overcome," she said. "The singers do not know how to enunciate properly, and then the translated Librettos are quite impossible. But there is no question that the right sort of librettos could be made if a genius were available."

BECKER TO MAKE BATTLE FOR LIFE

Twenty-five Reasons Assigned by Attorneys Why He Should Be Retried.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Twenty-five reasons why Lieutenant Charles Becker should not be executed for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, will be presented next week to the state court of appeals, Becker is now in Sing Sing prison under the sentence of death. His attorneys said today that the court probably would devote four days to "hearing" arguments on Becker's appeal from conviction. Becker, says the appellant's brief, is a victim of the greatest conspiracy of the age. He was not given a chance for his life. The effect of the ruling of the court made the trial a mockery.

REASONS ARE GIVEN.

One of the principal arguments in the chief corroborative witness for the state was an accomplice. His attorneys complain that the trial was rushed through and that Becker was convicted by public opinion. An appeal will also be made on behalf of the four gunmen convicted of crime — "Whitney" Lewis, "Dago Frank," "Lefty Louie," and "Gyp, the Blood." In their cases more than 150 errors are alleged in the ruling of the trial judge and sixteen reasons given for a retrial.

SERIOUSLY INJURED BY SPEEDING MOTORCYCLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—Harold Giff, a four-year-old lad, was run down by a speeding motorcycle, the driver of which failed to stop, this morning, and is in a serious condition at the Central Emergency hospital. The youngster was playing in front of his home, 1101 Laguna street, when the machine struck him, throwing him to the pavement. His nose was broken and his scalp laid open. He was carried into the house by several pedestrians and later removed to the hospital. The driver of the machine put on full speed and dashed around the corner of Eddy street. No description of him was obtained by the police.

Federation of Women's Clubs Honors Hostess Harvest Luncheon Scene of Brilliant Gathering

SCENE AT THE HARVEST LUNCHEON OF THE OAKLAND NEW CENTURY CLUB FRIDAY AT ORGANIZATION'S HOME. SEATED AT THE ROUND TABLE: END, MRS. ROBERT WATT, PRESIDENT OAKLAND NEW CENTURY CLUB; TO THE LEFT OF MRS. WATT, MRS. A. P. BLACK, MRS. OLIVE BORRETTE, MRS. PERCY S. KING, TO THE RIGHT OF MRS. WATT, MRS. JOHN W. ORR, STATE PRESIDENT C. F. W. C.; MRS. WILLIAM COLBY, MISS HYTELLE AND MRS. G. W. ELLICKER.

Oakland club women were honored Friday with the presence of Mrs. John W. Orr, state president of the Federation of Women's Clubs, who came with several others of the state officers to this city as the guests of the Oakland New Century Club at their headquarters in Fifth and Peralta streets.

The occasion was the harvest luncheon, at which the members of the Madrone Club of Napa were among the honored guests. One hundred women were seated at the tables and were served a sumptuous turkey dinner. Seated at the round table with Mrs. Robert Watt, president of the Oakland New Century Club, were Mrs. John W. Orr, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. A. P. Black, president of the California Club; Mrs. Olive Borrette, past president of the Madrone Social and Improvement Club of Napa; Mrs. G. W. Elliker, president of the Madrone Club; Mrs. Percy S. King, president-elect of the San Francisco district C. F. W. C.; Mrs. William Colby, president of the Alameda district C. F. W. C.; and Miss Hytelle.

Mrs. B. W. Sloan was in charge of the luncheon and with a committee worked ardently for the success of the meeting. Other guests of honor were Mrs. Percy Schuman of San Francisco C. F. W. C.; Mrs. Wallace Pond, president of the Twentieth Century Club of Berkeley; Mrs. Agnes Claypool Wood, chairman of the department of education C. F. W. C.; Mrs. Mary G. Holway, chairman of the department of art, C. F. W. C.; Mrs. William T. Blackburn, chairman of the department of philanthropy, C. F. W. C.; and Mrs. Hargrove of San

GAVE WELCOMING ADDRESS.

Mrs. Robert Watt gave the welcoming address to the visiting club women and was followed by Mrs. Orr, state president, who said in part of the federation and its work:

"The growth in the California Federation is phenomenal. There are now more than 250 women's clubs in the state according to the official directory of California, and between twenty-five and thirty thousand of the women in the state are club members. California is exceeded in the number of its clubs only by the states of New York, Massachusetts and Illinois."

"The club movement is growing tremendously and as president of the Federation of California I have noticed that the new clubs come into the Federation of their own accord. The Federation is always open to large or small clubs."

"A subject that is now under discussion and is being taken up by one of the foremost women of the state, Miss Lillian D. Clark of the University of California, is that of establishing a central meeting place for the women of the country who are without club houses of their own. It has been suggested that the schools be used for this purpose and the question is now under consideration."

SPEAKS OF NEW DEPARTMENTS.

Mrs. Orr spoke of the new departments that have been introduced this year, that of the department of country life, political science and of literature. The latter is considered one of the most important steps that the Federation has ever taken. Mrs. Orr concluded in pointing out the importance of having trained leaders and advocated the monthly bulletins in place of the "cut and dried" annuals, which must be followed no matter what the change in conditions. In closing the vital question of "Peace" was brought up. A special department has been formed dealing with this most essential question and the women of the Federation are doing their utmost to promote it.

"The California Federation is one of the largest and the most democratic," said Mrs. Orr, "and is not hampered by being connected with any other association."

Other speakers were Mrs. Percy S. King, who dwelt upon "Women of Today and Yesterday," Mrs. Olive Borrette gave one of the most interesting talks on "Country Life," bringing out the fact that the country boys are attracted to the city in view of higher wages, crowding out the city boys, in the meantime the country is rapidly being filled with aliens who should never have been allowed to enter. Water and gas fuel were the most necessary conveniences needed for the comfort of the country women, according to Mrs. Borrette's views. Mrs. P. F. Powers talked of reciprocity. Mrs. William T. Blackburn, Mrs. Hargrove, Mrs. Morton Dullig and Mrs. Joseph McDermott and Mrs. B. A. Sloan were among the other prominent speakers.

MISS YAW GIVES POOR GIRL ADVICE

Prima Donna Thinks "Most Likely" Girl Is Financially Handicapped.

"In these days of European travel, tumultuous money-spending at home and as many 'correct schools' of music as there are days in the year, I want to say something for the girl who I think has the most chance of all to become a really great singer."

Such is the interesting beginning of a still more interesting statement by Ellen Beach Yaw, the great soprano, who opens at the Orpheum today.

"In an old-fashioned manner of speech," continues Miss Yaw, "I think that the 'most likely' girl is none other than the poor girl."

"I know she is apt to sit at home and pine when her rich sister, or those fortunate enough to interest rich people in their talents, go to Europe with parade and show, and the opportunity of studying under great masters and attending the best of opera and concert."

"But all the same, if she keeps up heart she has far more chance of success than the one for whom the road to success apparently lies along a flowery path of ease."

POES ARE WITHIN.

"In the first place, the realization of success rarely comes only when one divides oneself. The greatest foes to triumph are not without, but within. The girl who conquers bitter poverty has it in her to conquer the world."

"Next, there is no such nurse to ambition as apparent hardship, and no such deadly drug for it as affluence. I know thousands of girls, whose futures were bright and glorious promise, over in Europe for a season or two—then they disappear and are heard of no more. Why? When they found that no money nor influence can buy real success—well, they simply wilted, that's all."

"Let the poor girl work and keep up heart, and she must succeed."

As one of the wonder-children of the great West, Miss Ellen Beach Yaw, the California soprano, is full of enthusiasm for the West, its people and its products. She has lived in the West. Musically, Miss Yaw believes that the West is America's country of the future.

"Music, more than any other art, demands breadth of idea, sunlight, sky, spaces, warm hearts, imagination," says Miss Yaw.

"You can make plays, surrounded by four narrow walls, and write books, and the life of a cave-dweller, but everywhere that you find real music you find bigness—an expansion greater than that demanded by literature and painting."

GERMAN MUSIC SIGNIFICANT.

Germany, the land of the robust agricultural Teuton; from Italy, with a greater wealth of impassioned history and glorious remembrance of any other country of the modern world; and from Russia, a land of vast, mysterious music.

MUNSEY'S WILL PUBLISH INTERESTING STORY

"Black is White." This is the rather mystifying title of the thrilling and intense novel, complete in the Christmas number of Munsey's Magazine, which will be on sale tomorrow. While the title seems to convey a rather impossible statement, George Barr McCutcheon, the noted novelist, who is the author, explains it to the satisfaction of all.

"The Rising of the Sullivan Dynasty" is the title of an interesting political essay by Oliver Simmons, in which he tells of the rise and progress of "Big Tim," who, until his death, was a great power in New York politics. Other special articles include: "Children in Paintings," with eight illustrations, by Clayton Hamilton; "Canada's Great Strides," by Michael Callahan; "Rocks that Are Barred," by Brander Matthews; and "The Death Watch," by Burns Mantle.

The three short stories, "The First Woman on the Index," by Frank M. O'Brien; "The Deliberate Detective," by Philip Oppenheim; and "The Price of His Silence," by Owen Oliver, are intensely entertaining.

Besides these features, the usual theatrical and editorial departments are maintained and enlarged, and five short poems by well-known authors serve as proper balance for the number.

The issue is well illustrated with handsome color pictures as well as pen and ink drawings and half-tones. This month's number is an unusual value.

The Christmas number gives a week's reading by the fireside. Its special articles are educating; its stories are interesting. Every one should obtain a copy. Order yours from your newsdealer today, as the indications are that there will be a great demand for this issue. Both young and old can read and enjoy Munsey's. It is an attractive addition to any library, and can be read and reread with pleasure.

EIGHT-HOUR LAW PREDICTIONS FAIL

Government Contracts for Supplies and Work Not Affected by the Act.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Predictions that under the eight-hour act of 1912 manufacturers and contractors would ignore the navy department's call for supplies and work and decline government contracts, have not come true, according to Graham Egerton, solicitor of the navy department. In his annual report he says the act has somewhat increased "first costs" to the government but has not diminished competition nor increased the cost of maintenance. Moreover, the act has had a decided effect in the direction of making the eight-hour work-day more general, he declares.

Approval also is given to the section of the new tariff act permitting importation free of duty of navy materials.

The solicitor says this will benefit the navy department generally and will more than offset any increase in costs resulting from the operation of the eight-hour law.

About one-fifth of the $140,000 appropriated by Congress for the office and staff of the old Wyoming and Jamestown for mercantile and perilous services in the destruction of hostile vessels in the straits of Shimoda, Japan, in 1863-64, remains unclaimed, probably because of the ignorance of the individuals entitled to the bounty.

The department advises that these benefits are open to proposed claimants.

COMPANY ISSUES AERIAL SERVICE TIME TABLE

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—Disregarding the two terrible disasters which have recently overtaken German dirigibles, the Hamburg-American line has boldly issued the first time tables for a regular aerial passenger service.

The company, which has secured the use of the Zeppelin airship, proposed to organize services all over Germany. It has built eight air stations, and is building eight more. When these 16 stations are completed it is hoped that an airship overtaken by bad weather in any part of the empire will be able to land safely.

Great flights have been arranged from one end of Germany to the other, some even extending to Copenhagen, and one trip round the empire is planned. There is even talk of aerial tours to England and to San Francisco during the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915.

It is believed that eventually a large air ship is unshaken. It is pointed out, too, that the recent disasters have been only accidents, and that the airships which are less safe than the commercial craft owing to the necessity of their carrying guns and ammunition.

HAUGER IS NOW WITH PEACOCK COMPANY

Well Known Car Expert
General Manager of Old Firm

(By EDMUND CRINNION.)
Fred W. Hauger, who for over a year past has been manager for the Oakland branch of the Haynes Auto Sales Company, announced late last night that he had accepted the position of general manager of the E. L. Peacock Auto company of Oakland, handling the Mitchell, Oakland, S. G. V. and Stinson cars and the Dresser and Stinson auto trucks.
This announcement comes as a big surprise to the trade in general as Hauger is well known in this territory where he is quite popular with the motorists, as is also E. L. Peacock and George Peacock, who are among the best known of the motor car dealers in Oakland, where they have been identified with the automobile business for years.
The new deal, which can well be called a merger of personal identities for the purpose of furthering the popularity of the various makes of cars and trucks handled by the E. L. Peacock Auto company, adds fair to place the local company well to the front among the selling organizations in Alameda county. By the announcement which has just been concluded, according to E. L. Peacock, who is the president and treasurer of the concern, Fred W. Hauger will become general manager and George Peacock will remain the secretary. The same sales house will for the present be retained but larger quarters will undoubtedly become a necessity for the company with the expansion of business which will follow the new arrangement.

Hauger, in speaking of the new arrangement, is very enthusiastic over the extensive line the company has to cater to the trade with. He says:

"The importance of an established name like the E. L. Peacock Company in the automobile trade is an asset that the buying public look well to realizing that no matter what make car they are purchasing they will have the local attention and service that is necessary to make motoring a real pleasure. They want the assurance of a permanent home that will guarantee them the small adjustments and attention that distinguish satisfaction in the ownership of a car.
"Our factory connections are of the very best. I have just closed negotiations with the various factory representatives to have service experts come to Oakland and carefully inspect every car of the makes we handle for the benefit of the owners and our policy will be to give owners every attention and courtesy possible.
"With our complete line embracing the S. G. V., the Mitchell, the Oakland and the Empire cars with the commercial line of Dresser and Stinson trucks we will be in a position to supply every want of the buyers in this territory."

MITCHELL AUTOS ARRIVING DAILY

"At last we are commencing to receive shipments of Mitchell cars in quantities to meet the demand," says E. L. Peacock, the head of the E. L. Peacock Automobile Company agent for the Mitchell cars.
"For over a year we have been striving to get the Mitchell factory to send us something like the number of automobiles that were necessary for this territory but only until recently have we received orders that we will be able to make practically immediate deliveries.
"To a certain extent there is a reason for this inasmuch as the Mitchell factory was undergoing a change which was perfected when John W. Bates assumed control as factory manager and designer. When Bates took up his old position the old heads of the firm assumed command and, and the high efficiency of easy days factory.
"Shipments of all models of Mitchells being made according to schedule and we have the promise from the factory that they will continue throughout the season."

'PORTAGE' TIRES LATEST ON COAST

Eichelberger, Tire Veteran, Gets Coast Agency for New Product.

The Portage tire, a product of Akron, the home of many large tire factories, is making its debut in San Francisco this week under the guidance of C. C. Eichelberger, one of the veterans of the tire industry on the coast, and probably one of the best known of the members of the San Francisco tire fraternity.

Eichelberger, who pioneered the Firestone tire interests on the coast, has secured the western representation for the Portage tires and opens sales quarters tomorrow in the new home in Golden Gate avenue at Hyde street, in San Francisco. The new concern will be a distributing agency for the Portage tires and Eichelberger will head the company. Eichelberger, who is very much pleased with the Portage tires, says:

"While Portage tires are comparatively new to the public, yet they are constructed by the combined experience of an organization formerly connected with five of the larger and best known tire factories, and are the result of a combination of the best methods of construction; hence, they are not an experiment, and are new only in name.

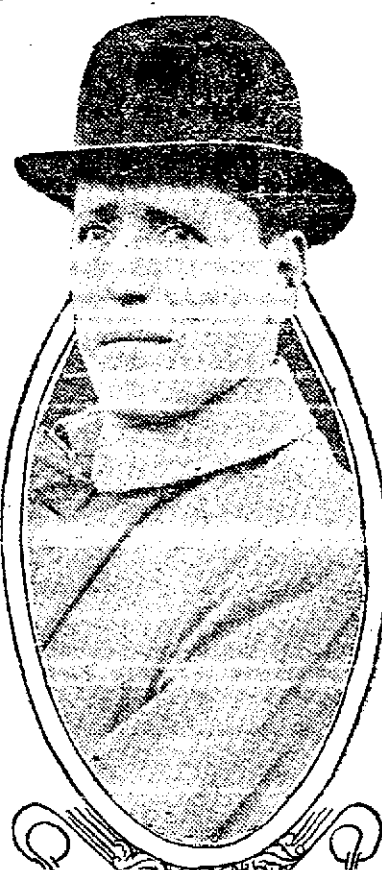

"Portage tires not only have the combined proven points of merit of the others, gained by actual experience in tire construction from the inauguration of the bicycle, up to the automobile and on to the present time, but have added individualities, such as the carcass being built on a ply heavier than the standard construction, and of 17 1-4 ounce Sea Island fabric.
The rubber used is what is known as straight compounded stock, not containing any snappy, that can be duplicated day in and day out, and the tires are cured with the latest equipment (our entire factory and equipment being new) in what is known as the press vulcanizer, under 1600 pounds pressure to the square inch, which assures perfect amalgamation between the various plies of fabric, as well as between the carcass and the tread stock. The name 'Portage' on a tire is a mileage guarantee in itself."

NEW STATE LAW FEATURES TOLD

Lamps Needed in Conformance
With New Rule Are Here Already.

"In a little over thirty days the automobile law in the state of California will go into effect and it would be well for every owner of motor cars to thoroughly read and digest the new law in all its phases," said G. A. Morrill, Oakland manager of the Chanson & Lyon company.
"The fact that all fines shall go into the road funds of the state in which they are imposed means that inasmuch as the state will take in something like $1,000,000 from the motorists of the different counties to be used for the up-keep of state roads that they, the officials in the different counties, will take advantage of every occasion to impose fines for the infraction of the laws so as to gain funds for their own local roads which is provided for in the law.
"This means that every motorist using the highway after the first of January, 1914, will have to see that his car is equipped and in condition to conform to the law.
"One of the most important parts of the law is what is designated as section 11 which requires the placing of the license number on the front and the back of the car at least sixteen inches from the ground.
"While the state furnishes these numbers it requires that they shall be placed so as to be visible at all times. Especially the number at the end of the car; this has to be so placed that it may be illuminated by a white light at night discernible fifty feet off.
"At the present time many motorists have their state number inside of their three or four close to their trunk rack. By the new law this number must be brought out

MOLINE ADOPTS KNIGHT ENGINE

Pursuant to its acknowledged policy of keeping abreast with modern engineering science and offering motor car buyers the best in automobile construction, President W. H. Van Dervoort of the Moline Automobile Company, East Moline, Ill., announced the adoption of the powerful Knight motor to sell for $2400. Hereafter the product of that company will be known as the Moline-Knight.
For some months rumors have been making the rounds of the motor car industry that the Moline Company, the officials of which are identical with those of the Root & Van Dervoort Engineering Company, makers of the world-famed R. & V. engines, was to produce a sensation for the coming season but the company has kept its secret well regarding the price and mechanical details.
That this old and experienced organization is bringing out a Knight motor car at lower cost to the buyer than has been accomplished heretofore, is apparently the biggest motor car "news story" of the season.
The Moline-Knight has a powerful guaranteed 30-horse power engine having four cylinders and is similar to those engines used in the Daimler of England, Mercedes of Germany, Panhard of France, Minerva of Belgium and many leading American Knight motor cars.
Another automobile concern which employs motorcycles in its service department is the firm of Phillips Bros., Oakland, Cal.

ALASKA SHOWS ON STUDEBAKER MAPS

Dealer Has Territory of the perilled line, the entire territory of Alaska has been annexed to the commercial realm of the automobile. Within a short time residents of the territory will be favored with a real automobile garage and salesroom, their first intimation that even the Arctic Circle is not to remain longer without civilization's most recent development in land transportation.

The annexation was a feature of a recent gathering of Studebaker regional managers at headquarters in Detroit. It was brought about by A. H. Brown, of Portland, Ore., who has charge of the corporation's wholesale business in the Pacific Northwest.
Brown asked authority to place a Studebaker agency with a man in Juneau who had been importing for some time, by letter and by a personal visit.
"Go ahead," answered Sales Manager Benson. "Go as far as you like," and he walked over to the big map that hung on the wall, showing, in solid, blue lines, the territorial limits of the various branches. Around the territory he added the heavy line that plainly answered the whole question, placing a tract of more than 500,000 square miles under the jurisdiction of the Portland branch.
Brown emerged from the conference highly elated.
"I'm now the boss of the biggest branch territory in the home organization," he remarked. "It may not be famous for its asphalt and macadam but, mark my words, I'll put eight or ten cars into Juneau this year and sprinkle a few more along the coast. They'll multiply as roads are built, and they'll themselves be the most influential factors in speeding the time when the motor car will replace the dog train as the medium of independent transportation in Alaska."

Brown is seriously considering a trip into his new territory, during the coming summer. Some of the extreme northwest has already been penetrated by a Studebaker car which, several months ago was driven from Seattle to Hazelton, winning thereby the trophy offered by the citizens of that town for the first car to enter it by the overland route. There are several cars in Hazelton now and Alaska proper probably contains as many as six or seven, maintained by private individuals and bought in "The States."

The Lawndale Motorcycle Club of Chicago, Ill., has planned an endurance run from Chicago to Wilmette and return. The run will take place at the advent of the first snow storm of the winter.

ENCOUNTERS TOUGH HILL.

After Franklin Studebaker Riley had finished a trip in his Studebaker car from South Bend to Boston and return, he reported that he had met with but one instance of trouble, being compelled to shift gears on one unusually steep hill. This would not have been the case, he said, but for the fact that there was a railroad crossing part way up, which prevented his acquiring the usual momentum.

FEW PEDESTRIANS LEFT.

The steadily increasing proportion of motorists in California's population is shown in recent statistics compiled from the state's registration figures. Some counties show one automobile for every 33 or 35 of population. There are 157 makes of cars in service, of which nearly twelve per cent are Studebakers.

MAXWELL CONCERN SUPPLYING PARTS

Huge Task of Giving Service
On Old Maxwell Cars Is Tackled.

Hercules' Multi-He had a snap compared with Barnes' task.

Why, Hercules was on a perpetual vacation as compared with the job J. E. Barnes assumed when he became head of the Service Department of the Maxwell Motor Company at New Castle, Indiana, with the task before him of furnishing replacement parts to 122,000 owners of 244 different models of automobiles. 129 Columbia models, 55 Stoddard Dayton, 48 Maxwell-Brisson, 3 Everett, and a miscellaneous lot of other models formerly made by now defunct concerns, under the names of Simpson, Courier, Brush, etc., according to C. A. Allen, the Maxwell car dealer in Oakland.

Old Hercules had a snap beside this. One who has not visited the mammoth Maxwell plant at New Castle can have no conception of the task that confronted the re-organized Maxwell Motor Company, when it decided to do what no other concern has ever done—concentrate all the drawings, blueprints, dies and repair parts of all the cars made by all the former concerns whose assets have been purchased by the Maxwell Motor Company so as to furnish those 122,000 former owners with replacement parts as long as their cars are on the road.

There was no legal obligation to do this. Now, according to the managers of the trade, there are no moral obligations, for the common practice of concerns when succeeding other bankrupt concerns, has been to dispose of repair parts business to some junk dealer or some other concern who makes a business of buying up the parts and parts of the former concerns and selling them to the luckless owners who must have the parts at any price. Obviously such a concern would have no interest whatsoever in those who formerly bought cars, and therefore would give indifferent service even at the high price.

The Maxwell company decided that there was a moral obligation even though there was no connection between the present Maxwell company and the concern which made the former Maxwell car at Tarrytown, N. Y.

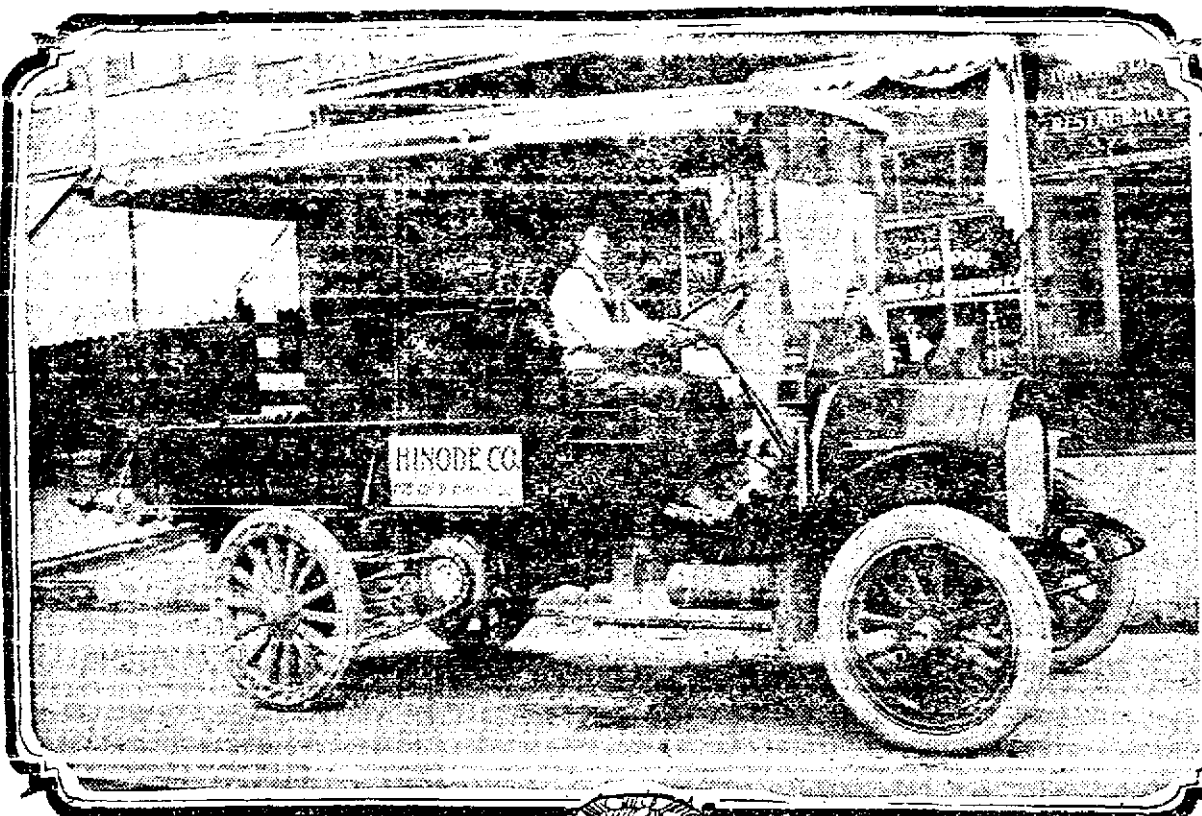

The Maxwell company purchased the assets of the former Maxwell-Brisson Co., as well as those of the Columbia, Stoddard-Dayton and other concerns mentioned above, from the Receiver, through the United States court. So there was no legal obligation.

It will interest owners of those cars to know that the one reason for selecting the name "Maxwell" for the new company was for the protection of about 60,000 owners who had purchased cars under that name, though from another company. By adopting any other name the value of those cars in a second-hand market would be cut in two. The first impulse of the new company was to adopt the name Columbia for the corporation and the full line of new models. But there were 60,000 Maxwell owners as against 11,000 Stoddard Dayton and 3000 Columbia. The greatest good for the greatest number decided the point.

When it was decided to continue furnishing these replacement parts just as if the cars had been made by the present Maxwell Motor company, the management cast about for a plan for doing it. They decided there was only one way. To concentrate the entire business in one plant. And as the plant at New Castle is ideally equipped for the purpose and ideally located within 150 miles of the center of population of the United States—it was decided to make that service headquarters.

COUNTRY LIFE IS MADE ATTRACTIVE

In the olden days the country homes were built back from the highway when the horse reigned king. It was a treat to drive up to the house, along broad paths shaded by overhanging branches of tall trees. One always felt a sense of anticipation and extended hospitality.

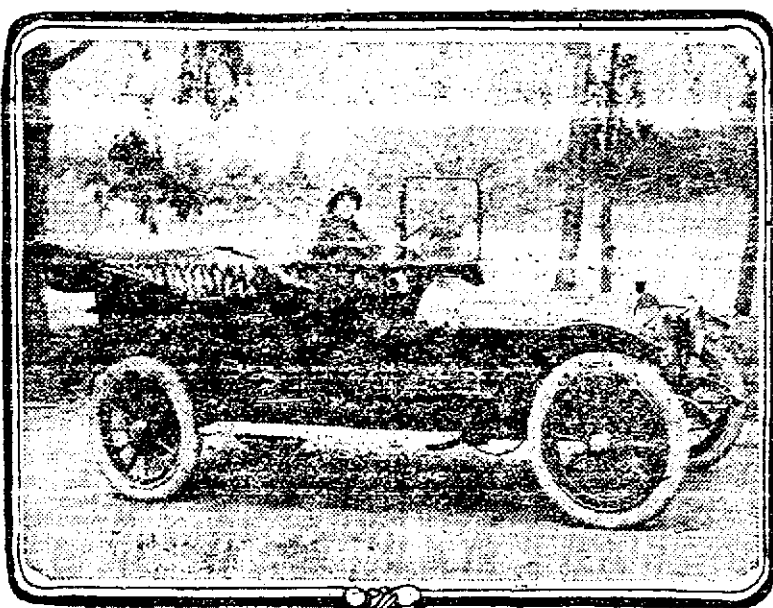

Then for a time the American idea of haste stepped in. Homes were set down on the very edge of the roadway so that no time would be lost in reaching them. Beautiful trees, green, red and gold borders of garden foliage became a thing of the past; all must be low and up to date. Cold cement walks led up to the equally cold stone fences and steps. The old fashioned drive was abandoned. The inviting welcome to the guest disappeared.

With the advent of the motor car the old way came back into vogue. Country homes are enhanced by long approaches and winding drives. We are going back to the old idea of hiding our homes in proper seclusion back from the highway—away from the dust and travel.

"One cannot but marvel at the many beautiful country homes in California," remarked W. B. Cochran, president of the Haynes Auto Sales company, upon his return from a tour through the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys. "The prosperous farmer enjoys living away from the bustle and bustle of the city. No less enjoyable is country life to the farmer's wife, and the motor car is the great factor in bringing about this state of contentment."

"With the modern equipped motor car it is just as easy for the woman to operate, and especially is the Haynes Electric Gear Shift 1914 model. With the woman at the wheel it permits of social and educational intercourse between communities and interchange of thought, broadens life's view point and makes country life attractive."

OVERLAND COUPE LATEST ARRIVAL

1914 Model Is Marvel in All
Its Appointments, Says
Dealer.

"The height of automobile craftsmanship is to be seen in the new four-passenger Overland coupe which we have just received," says J. T. Barnes, the head of J. W. Leavitt & Company, Alameda county distributors for the Overland car.

"This coupe is distinguished by general roominess and an air of refined elegance in all its appointments. One of the most striking features being that all passengers face forward in riding."

"The suspension of the weight midway between front and rear springs and on a long wheel base gives the coupe unequal riding quality. The body lines curve outward and the glass panels in front are rounded, enhancing the appearance and giving it an unobstructed view of the road ahead.

"The upholstery is of Bedford cloth, beautiful in appearance, soft in texture and of good wearing qualities, while the interior upper body surfaces are in vinyl covered cloth."

"The body is non-rattling, weather and dust proof, which makes the model 79 coupe the ideal car for theater and calling parties; and also for ladies' use, by the reason of the motor being electric started upon the mere pressing of a foot-button."

"The seating capacity is so arranged that no one is in the least bit crowded and the driver has ample room to handle the car in the most congested district."

"The exterior finish is the finest that the Overland factory has ever turned out. The great demand for a coupe by Overland owners has resulted in the placing of the model on the market. The satisfaction that the Overland touring car has given and especially the model 79 has caused the factory officials to build a limited number of the coupe bodies. These bodies are mounted on the regular Overland model 19 chassis carrying with it all the latest refinements that has marked this model one of the cars of the season."

It is said that practically every real estate firm in Louisville, Ky., employs one or more motorcyclists. These riders are mostly employed in the collection departments. Some of them are also sent out to look after complaints.

Immediate Deliveries

The handsome, powerful, Six-Cylinder Buick Touring Car, fully equipped in Oakland, $2100.

The handsome, luxurious Buick Coupe model, fully equipped in Oakland ..... $1950

We will have this beautiful coupe model on exhibition in our Oakland saleshome today and tomorrow.

Due to the arrival of our world's record trainload shipment of 415 automobiles, valued at $522,374, we are able to make immediate deliveries for the first time since announcing the advent of these two worthy additions to the popular Buick family.

In harmony with our slogan of "when better automobiles are built, Buick will build them," these two latest Buick models are offered to fill the requirements of those that want either a six-cylinder touring car or a coupe model with the same high standards of mechanical construction that has made the Buick car synonymous with service and satisfaction.

The Buick "Six" and the Buick Coupe are both backed by the Buick organization to fulfill every possible anticipation of the most critical owner.

BUICK AGENT SAYS RUMORS ARE FALSE

Offers $10,000 Reward to Any One Proving Defamatory Allegations.

Now that a record breaking train load of Buicks is here and mostly disposed of there are numerous defamatory rumors being circulated regarding the gigantic shipment, says C. R. Howard, head of the Howard Automobile company, Pacific Coast distributors of Buick cars. These rumors are mostly stated by persons who have no idea or conception of the demand for autos in our territory and I can readily imagine that to this class of people the bringing of 415 automobiles, valued at $522,374, to the coast in a solid train load is an absolute impossibility. Another class who are responsible for a certain percentage of these false reports is the man who has a limited amount of business experience and who immediately jumps to the conclusion that the cars are shipped to us on consignment, simply for the advertisement which such a shipment derives.

In the spring of 1912, when we brought three train loads, each one larger than the last, to the coast in less than 60 days, these reports became so persistent that to protect our good name we were forced to offer a $10,000 reward payable to any charity designated by any one proving that our train load shipments were not as stated. This offer is still good and my suggestion to the man or woman who is in possession of facts proving these shipments to be other than represented is to claim the $10,000 reward.

The person who will take the trouble to give this matter the slightest thought will see how absolutely foolish it would be to misrepresent a shipment of this size. In the first place the records of the railroad companies handling this shipment are open to the public at all times and it is a matter of minutes only to look up the bill of lading and see whether the 415 Buicks which we claim were shipped. In fact, the person looking this matter up will find that the shipment contained 415 Buicks instead of 415 and that the train was made up of 39 double decked cars instead of 38 as advertised. The increase in the size of the train was caused by the Buick factory's not being able to load some of the cars as per our instructions, and the one extra car was a truck chassis which we telegraphed for just before the train left.

The folly of bringing a shipment of this size to the coast simply for advertising purposes will be apparent to any one when the cost of such a shipment is taken into consideration.

In the first place the freight alone on the train load from Flint to San Francisco is more than $45,000.

Then there is the item of interest on an investment of more than half a million dollars. To this expense it is necessary to add several thousand dollars to cover the cost of double decking the freight cars in order to load the machines two deep. In other words, the expense of the train load of this size is about $55,000. Rather a large amount to spend simply for one advertisement. Of course there is a certain amount of advertising value to these shipments and the Buick factory appreciate this fact. This is one of the reasons why we are able to secure these train load shipments, which are always in addition to our regular allotment of 15 per cent of the entire out-put of the Buick factory.

LIGHT SIX ADDED HUDSON LINES

New Auto Designed by Coffin, Is Said to Surpass Expectations.

H. P. Harrison Company, local distributors for the Hudson cars are jubilant today over the announcement of the Hudson Six - 40, popularly known as the Hudson Light Six. The good news has just reached them from the factory that deliveries are to begin in December. Possibly a few towards the latter half of the present month. For months motorists have been on the qui vive about this much-talked-of and widely interesting model. The fact that the Hudson Motor Car company refused to give out a word of information until the new car was actually being produced tended to fan the flame of curiosity. Now, Charles Burman has printed specifications and descriptions of the car, with photographs, prices and full details.

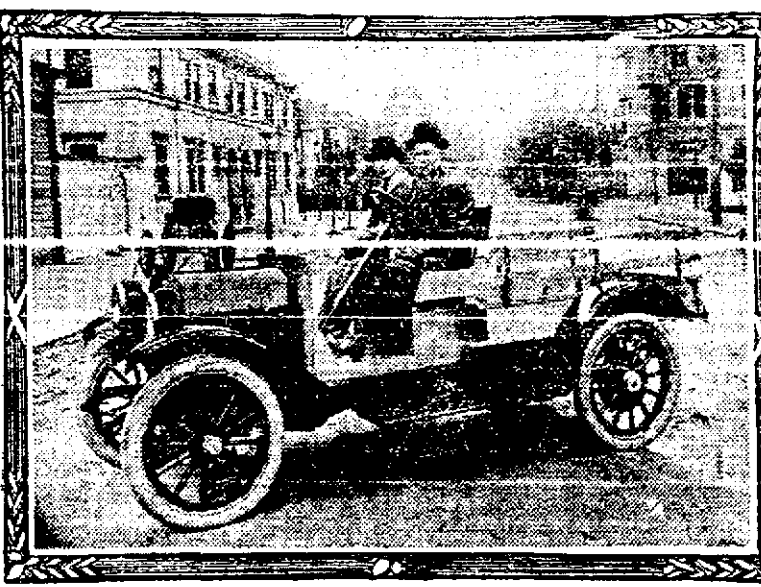

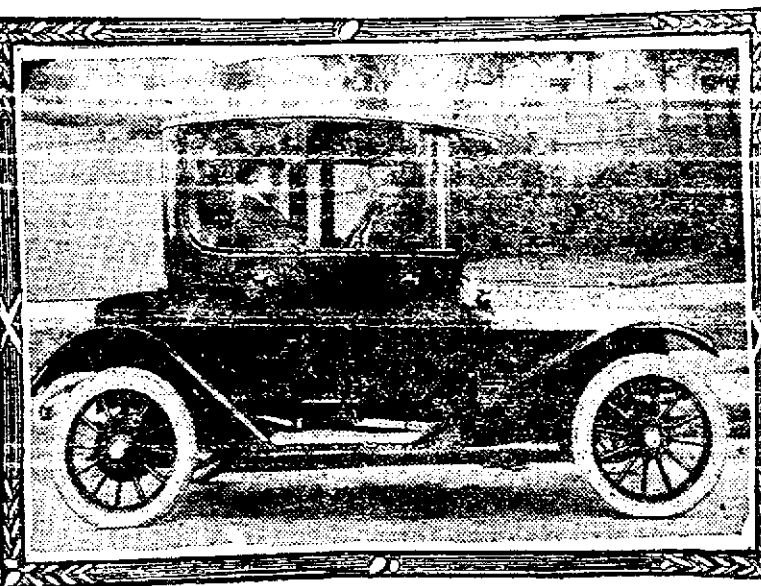

Believing that thousands were waiting for a medium-priced, light six of high grade, Howard E. Coffin, the Hudson company's famous engineer has built a car to correspond with this mental motor of a hundred thousand men. It is designed for the army of motorists who demand a six-cylinder car at a price between $1500 and $2000. This new Light Six is claimed to be the easiest riding car even to surpass the expectations of its designers. It is low in price, costs little to run, is easy on tires, and has all the advantages of the six in smoothness, flexibility, and economy of gasoline and oil.

GOODRICH TIRE FOR UNCLE SAM

The purchasing agent for the Postoffice Department has contracted with the B. F. Goodrich Company to supply Goodrich Pneumatic Tires and other rubber accessories during the next fiscal year, for the motor trucks which are being used in the postal service.

The method of supplying the different postoffices with the necessary equipment is sure to save the Postoffice Department a lot of time and money, as postmasters are to get their equipment direct from the Goodrich service station in their respective cities instead of sending their order to Washington, where it would have to go through a lot of red tape which causes considerable delay.

Every postmaster will be given a list which shows them the prices the government is to pay for the tires and accessories, and when replacement of repairs are needed, instead of running the truck into the garage, where it would have to stay until the order was filled from Washington, the truck will pull up in front of a Goodrich service station and get the necessary supplies in quick time.

The Goodrich contract covers the equipment of 35 trucks in use in the postal service, distributed as follows:

Atlanta	2
Baltimore	5
Boston	2
Buffalo	4
Columbus	2
Detroit	3
Louisville	2
Minneapolis	2
Philadelphia	2
Nashville	3

Goodrich tires and Goodrich supplies are exceptionally well represented in the service of Uncle Sam. Already sixteen out of the twenty-five trucks in the quartermaster's division are equipped with Goodrich tires, and something over fifty per cent of the Navy Department's trucks have Goodrich tires. Other important executive departments such as the government printing office, Department of State, Department of Interior, Capitol building, Congressional Library, have over one-half of their trucks shod with Goodrich tires.

All castings and tubes, as well as small sundry articles like bulbs, cement and vulcanizing rubber used in connection with the trucks, are to be supplied exclusively by the Goodrich Company.

REO CAR FACTORY STATES STRENGTH

Financial Resources of Auto Concern Said to Be Excellent.

"At the last meeting of the stockholders of the Reo Motor Car company of Lansing, Mich., an interesting balance sheet of the company showing conditions was presented for their consideration," says C. H. Hunter, sales manager of the Chase-Reo company, agents for the Reo cars in Alameda county.

"It showed that the company had assets amounting to $4,217,474.20, with liabilities of $2,155,536.30, allowing a surplus account of $2,061,937.90.

"The assets included the $500,000 worth of stock of the Reo Truck company, which was distributed as a dividend to the stockholders in the Reo Motor company as well as an interest of $112,500 in the Reo Motor Company of Canada, Inc.

"The balance sheet shows that the valuation of the buildings amounted to $382,063.04, for machinery, $407,303.48, factory equipment, $239,726.89; dies and tools, $55,857.47; dies and patterns, $40,912.75; machinists' supplies, $15,713.69; office furniture and fixtures, $8,512.23; making a total of $1,241,456.17, to this is added the value of real estate amounting to $55,400.00. This made the total assets $1,296,856.17. The interest on other corporations that of the Reo Motor Truck Co., $500,000.00; Reo Car Company of Canada, Ltd., $112,500.00; inventories of cars, car material, parts, accessories, factory supplies, etc., $1,061,895.53; accounts receivable, $61,712.32; bills receivable, $173,262.51; interest accrued, $1,871.50; cash on hand and in the banks, $838,383.61, making a total of $2,183,226.67, under the head of deferred charges, insurance unexpired, $4,891.36, gave the total of the assets of $4,217,474.20. As an offset to the assets the capital stock authorized being 200,000 shares of par value of $10 each, amounted to $2,000,000, this stock is issued and comes under the head of liabilities, accounts payable, $66,852.53; accrued wages, taxes, etc., $88,733.97, making a total of $2,155,536.50. This would leave from the total assets a surplus account of $2,061,937.70.

"It is interesting to note from these figures the condition that abides at the Reo factory and shows conclusively that the car factory is in as fine a financial condition as any other car factory in the United States.

"The one item of cash on hand and in the bank amounts to over three-quarters of a million, in fact, almost a million dollars, shows that the Reo company is able to cancel every outstanding indebtedness and still leave something better than $500,000 in the bank."

The citizens of Aurora, Ill., are very grateful to the special motorcycle policemen for the good work they have done in curtailing speeding on the city streets.

Chalmers—1914 The New "Six"

A Motor That Can't Be Stalled

Here's a New Factor in Safety—An Additional Source of Comfort

The Picture Tells the Story

Any motor might lose its spark unexpectedly; the gas might be cut off accidentally. Think of the possibilities if this should occur on a crossing.

The non-stallable motor of the New Chalmers "Six" protects you in such a case. The electric starter speeds up the motor even should the gas be cut off or the spark interrupted. It keeps it running in every emergency.

It prevents "going dead" in crowded traffic; keeps it from stalling under sudden overload.

A Guardsman Always on Duty

The starter is always ready. It comes into action automatically with the release of the clutch whenever the engine speed drops to a certain point. No need to give it a thought. Throw on the switch at the outset—that's all.

This non-stallable feature of the New "Six" gives you a sensation of security that doubles your motoring pleasure.

Where the New "Six" is Supreme

No honest maker claims that a "Six" will get away any quicker—run any faster or climb any steeper hills than a "four" of equal weight and horsepower.

But Oh! how much more smoothly, silently and easily it does it. The six cylinders give a continuous stream of power; there's no interval between explosions; the impulses are utterly imperceptible.

The entire absence of vibration nearly doubles the life of the car and the comfort of the passengers. You can tour day after day in the New "Six" with the comfort of your easy chair.

Ride in it once and you'll be forever spoiled for any "four."

Here's Flexibility No Four Can Equal

Take the wheel of the New Chalmers "Six." Push the switch of the electric starter and let in the clutch.

Notice how quietly—how smoothly it moves away. See how easily and how quickly it mounts to 20—30—40 miles an hour or throttles down to two—and then off again, without shifting gears.

That's flexibility. And it's all in the motor itself, gear shifting is seldom needed. Any auxiliary gear mechanism to secure flexibility would be merely superfluous weight.

Let the Car Prove It

Come and see this wonderful "Six." Its classic beauty—its harmony of outline will fascinate you.

Let us take you for a ride in it. Its mystic silence—its velvety smoothness—its supple power will give you a new sensation in motoring pleasure—the thrill of speed with the luxury of rest.

William Hoppe, amputee billiardist, must feel like Alexander the Great felt when he wept because he had no more tears.

Last week at New York before a brilliant assemblage in the ballroom of the Waldorf, Hoppe, the victor of the cue, swept his most recent challenger, Calvin Demareest of Chicago, out of his way for the second time with a score of 500 to 384, amply tete the tale of Demareest's shade better than the champion averaging a shade better than 100 a game for his best run. Demareest's average was only a fraction above 12, while his high run was, probably, would have Hoppe's harder argument than any of his American brethren, their exalted reputations as players, and Hoppe's own reputation as a player, capable of hitting a 200 to 40 average almost any time in match play.

Demareest's score was 384, and he played with the crack Chicago amateur Percy Collins of Chicago. "Chick" ran off his string of 300 points in the opening game of 100 and 110, and then a high run of 175. Old billiard critics said the performance openly declared no player in the world was better than the modest little Californian.

During his recent sojourn in the West, Hoppe had been in California

Thus have Demart, Sutton, Moranzaga and Clire, representing the platoon with the most notable exception of George Slosson, the veteran, and the newcomer among the protesters, taken the field at San Francisco, fallen, one after another before the prowess of the present proud holder of the title.

It is difficult to believe that the vanquished stars might be added Kofu Yamada, the clever Japanese, who not only has been a champion, but has also beaten at the hands of Hoppe than any of his other victims.

Wrigley took up with Champion Hoppe, and his friends are advising him to cut his losses and get out of the ring in the regular way. He may do it, too, though it is believed the veteran will not do so. Hoppe is a champion's opponent. Slosson recently withdrew when it appeared that Hoppe would beat him. He has been a champion of Melbourne Inman, but now that the latter match has been set aside for

As a matter of fact, the little dark horse, Harry (Chick) Wright of California, while anything but robust he is noted for his nerve, and should he get a crack at Hoppe any time this winter, it is good betting the former amateur champion, now owner of two big billiard rooms, one in San Francisco and the other in this city, will give a good account of himself.

The departure of William Johnsten and Elia Fottrell for Manila last week was an interesting item in tennis doings—interesting for the reason that it created no unusual stir. It wasn't so many years ago when the mere contemplation of such an idea would have created excitement, but today the actual reality passes without surprise. This nonchalance clearly demonstrates the progress of tennis as a sport.

No doubt the progress of tennis has been greatly accelerated by the marvelous success of our California players, particularly that of Maurice McLoughlin. People who were disinterested before became interested after watching him play. With them it acted as a stimulant; it aroused the element of curiosity, resulting in them familiarizing themselves with the game. As a result of this new knowledge thus obtained, they soon became enthusiastic lovers and followers of the game and its numerous activities. So much for the success of our local tennis players.

California is unusually fortunate in possessing such an unlimited stock of good tennis players. This is due chiefly to our "lay out" all-the-year-around weather." With this advantage, it is expected that she should produce something out of the ordinary. And that expectation is well founded.

The American Society, which until now has been unusually busy Sunday morning and judging from the noises that emanated therefrom, some one would have thought that another McLaughlin had been discovered.

But such was not the case. It was not

Scotch and British Teams Are Picked for Annual Struggle.

The teams for the international game between England and Scotland were selected at last night's meeting of the Callington Association League. England is appearing without a regular center forward in the city, as the player who has been playing center half all the season has been chosen for the position. It is played center forward, however, in British Columbia. The game will take place on December 28; the ground has not yet been decided upon.

The San Francisco club was last night penalized two points for playing King an unregistered man, against the Barbarians last Sunday. The game in which Alameda played a substitute for an injured player against the Barbarians was declared void.

The most interesting contest in today's schedule is the meeting of the Pastimes and San Francisco at Freeman's Park. Both these teams are considered contenders for the championship. The Pastimes have not lost a game, and the Fishes have won their last six matches without a succession. The latter team has now a lot of ground to make up as the result of being penalized on yesterday. There will be plenty of excitement at the Burns and Thistles game at Ocean Shore ground. The Thistles are still unbeaten and the Burns have been steadily climbing the percentage column.

The Burns club is staging a novelty game at Freeman's park for Christmas day in the shape of a five aside tournament. Any club in the California association can enter as many teams as desired and the winning men will receive handsome prizes.

them. At the beginning it appeared that F. J. McLaughlin had his own way until a few days later when J. B. Poulter got in his rifle target work and took the lead from him. The last shot, November 2, came along and J. B. Poulter with his 22, and took first place by his credit.

The indoor pistol and rifle shooting for the year has come to a close and L. S. Hawley, hunter, the champion indoor rifle shot of the Pacific coast, took the high honors for the year 1918 with a score of 1255 out of a possible 1270. In class A. H. Furumasa was first in the indoor rifle shooting with a score of 1245.

The pistol shooting on the indoor range was the first of the sports scores were away from the average. George Armstrong set a new school mark when he won the first place in class A with a score of 491 out of a possible 500. This was the first time the first place was won by a student of the Rifle Club and the record of the average. George Armstrong holds now several records in indoor pistol shooting.

C. W. Seely was a very easy winner in class B with a score of 473. B. B. Johnson was second with 467 points. His total was 691, he having best three of the lowest three men in class A. C. M. Kiani won the first place in class C, scoring 446. H. H. Hargreaves won the first place in class D with a score of 434.

There is to be a great handicap shootoff between the three highest winners in each class on the pistol range outdoors. The banquet will take place at 5 p. m. and the banquet members in charge are K. W. Klenbroich, chairman, A. M. Poulson, W. Guld, E. Poulson, O. A. Poulson and W. A. Siebe.

President George Holstein will deliver the address of welcome and Judge James G. Quinn will act as toastmaster. There will be plenty of talent in the line of singing, musical numbers and dancing.

The strong Kaloi Kibui wined of Oakland, one of the most widely known clubs about the bay, will endeavor to reach a high standing in the annals of the baseball world when they clash in their initial diamond tussle at Alcatraz this afternoon, with the Aurora Club of San Francisco as a worthy opposition. Intense rivalry exists between the two teams, and a number of invades the scene of battle, with an determination to conquer one another. Names have been looming up for weeks the two teams will meet, and the encounter should see each club in splendid fettle for the fray. The Kaloi Club has a team some well seasoned members in Frankie Smith, Jack Budd, Olie Hamley and "Buck" McSorley the stellar ranger of the San Francisco team, and a few players from the county. Modesto is a team composed of two players, batsmen via the strike-out route, and this mysterious assortment of benders should not doubt prove as an enigma to the slugging club.

Frankie Smith, the mainstay of the San Francisco team, is a right-handed pitcher. Olie last season, and a slabster of play the club's best pitcher will weave an intricate web of craft and guile to outplay the club's carabie manager.

Jack Budd the Kaloi outfit are a line to meet the cream of the semi-pro players. Frankie Smith, Olie Hamley, Modesto "Red", and Mark McSorley preferred. The Kaloi warriors prove worthy contenders for the championship in the Inter Club League.

At the close of a month's trial. A handsome silver trophy will be awarded the winners. Following the trial the winning team will endeavor to claim a permanent berth of the Kaloi League. Smith, Jack Budd, Olie Hamley, "Buck" McSorley, Frankie Smith, Modesto "Red", and Mark McSorley are the players on the Kaloi team.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Behold a new and absorbing English game, "Fishing-rod golf," the outcome of a wager between Robert May, a well known British golfer, and J. H. Mackinlay, an enthusiastic fisherman, by the terms of which Mackinlay agreed to use, instead of the customary outfit of clubs and balls, his casting rod and line in a match with May equipped with the regulation implements.

CZAR AROUSES IRE OF POLICE IN MANY TOWNS

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 29.—The czar has aroused the ire of his police, probably without intent, by sending a valuable jewel as a present to Vladimir Duraff, a clever, who amused the imperial children at Yalta recently, exhibiting several trained tigers.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 29.—The courts at Vilna are occupied with some extraordinary litigation arising out of an American inheritance. A Pole by name Tatzkewitch, who is a native of that province, died last year in New York, and left a fortune of about a million rubles. His only known relative was a brother, an old man over seventy, who still lived in Vilna, and had been a poor mechanic. His succession as sole heir, seems to have been undisputed, but much time has been consumed in establishing judicially the connection of the New York Tatzkewitch with his origin in Vilna.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The wonderful bronze figure of Alexander Helios (Greek for Sun) the discovery of which in Egypt last year, caused such a furor among antiquarians, is on its way to New York and will shortly be exhibited there. It is now the property of Dr. Madge, a prominent collector of Cairo.

SWEDES ASTONISH BY ATHLETIC PROWESS

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 29.—Experts who have come here to watch the practice of the Swedish athletes, have been treated to the most astonishing athletic results ever achieved by any system of training hitherto known. Schoolboy Swedes easily clear a 5 ft. pole in the high jump, while 5 ft. 9 is thought nothing of. Other events reach the same high standard as an everyday occurrence.

$800 cash and $30 month and move into this new bungalow near Claremont and College ave.; 5 rooms and bath, 40x125. At $3,500 you are getting it all.

$1,000 for a $1,400 lot in 4th Ave. Heights is like finding money. New homes all around. Lot is 40x100. Don't miss it.

$1,750 was the price, but this owner says, "Sell that corner lot, 40x110 in Emeryville, 1 block from 45th and San Pablo. Now it's up to you to buy a bargain. Make your price."

$2,500—Don't overlook this downtown cottage on Market st.; 5 rooms and bath; 25-foot lot; now rented for $18; $1,000 will handle it. Close-in property is always good and saleable.

$3,000—This week only—last chance to save from foreclosure; 6 rooms and bath on 40-foot lot near 35th and Shattuck ave. This is a good home in a good locality and you are saving at least $750 by getting it. $2,000 cash mortgage can remain.

$4,000—This business lot with a good cottage, 5 rooms and bath, lot 50x100, is adjoining brick stores now paying good rent; lot alone worth the price. Cottage will rent and carry investment while increasing in value. At junction of Telegraph ave. and Key Route trains. This can be bought on terms.

$5,500—This property, consisting of 2 apartments, 10 rooms and 2 baths, and a rear cottage of 4 rooms, was taken in by present owner on a foreclosure and he has cut the former owner's valuation from $8,500 to $5,500. See about it at once, before we lose the tenant.

F. F. PORTER, 1220 Broadway

Three More Foreclosure Bargains

I sold the one advertised last week, but here are three better ones, taken in by a large corporation which wants to cash up. They are new, have 7 rooms, sleeping porches and all conveniences; 40-foot lots; one a corner; terraced and on a fine elevation in Oakland Heights. You can buy one of them as low as $6,000.

Charming Bungalow

The prettiest home built this year; cement exterior; beautiful lines; large plate-glass windows; 8 rooms, breakfast and servants' rooms; furnace; instantaneous water heater; vacuum cleaning plant; master's bedroom has private lavatory with shower bath; lot 50x200, with garage for two cars. Not built for sale, but for a home. Owner's business compels him to leave, so will sell for less than you can duplicate for. The manager of my "Fine Homes" department will show it and give price on personal application only.

I make loans on real estate in Oakland and vicinity and in the country. Money on hand at all times for any sized loan.

CITY SPENDS ALMOST MILLION AROUND LAKE

$765,740 CONSTRUCTION COST OF APARTMENT HOUSES IN YEAR

Apartment houses erected in Oakland from December 1, 1912, to November 26, 1913, cost $765,740. The list as compiled by Max Mantel of the Bureau of Permits and Licenses:

	Permits	Cost
Two Story Frame Apartments	5	$ 48,680
Two Story Frame Apartments, With Stores	1	8,490
Three Story Frame Apartments	24	500,570
Three Story Frame Apartments With Stores	2	49,000
Three Story Brick Apartments	1	25,000
Five Story Brick Apartments	1	50,000
Six Story Brick Apartments With Stores	1	84,000
TOTALS	35	$765,740

The figures represent only the expenditure in construction. The investments include valuable sites and the real estate deals involved during the year are of great magnitude.

Construction of apartment houses of unique and modern types in many parts of the city has kept pace with the building of hotels in the downtown district. Some of the apartment structures have been erected in old and new residence sections, but there is less complaint against them in the newer districts, such as the Grand-avenue region, than might be supposed, as the buildings are of the artistic sort. On Harrison and Alice streets, near Fourteenth, apartment house builders are busy at present. Sommarstrom Investment Company is building a three-story structure on the east side of Alice, north of Fourteenth, and south of the Bermuda apartments, which were recently completed by the Coit Investment Company. Still further south, on the same side of Alice street, the five-story Raymond apartments have been completed during the last few months. On the east side of Harrison street, north of Fourteenth, E. A. Smith is building a three-story apartment house. The year 1913 has been marked by more hotel and apartment house building than Oakland has heretofore known.

IMPROVEMENTS ARE VARIED AND COSTLY

Auditorium, Boathouses and Landings, Parking and Paving, Betterments

Around Lake Merritt a remarkable amount of activity is being shown by the city of Oakland.

The municipality's $500,000 auditorium is under construction in the center of the tract that is to become Peralta park, on the south side of the lake.

On the west side the city boathouse, which is to cost $28,238, is being built upon the nucleus formed by the artistic pumping station that has been an ornament among the Willows for several years.

The boat landing to be known as the Embarcadero, at the northeastern end of the lake, is nearing completion. It will cost $17,500.

Lakeside park extension, reaching 3000 feet along the shore west of the boat landing, is now being graded and prepared for the sowing of grass and planting of shrubs. For a considerably greater distance along the eastern side of the lake work is still in progress on the parking of the strip between the boulevard and water.

DRIVEWAY ALLURING.

The east shore driveway is to be one of the most beautiful in the city. It affords, besides the outlook upon the lake, an impressive view of the taller buildings of the city, with the Hotel Oakland in the foreground. From the boulevard the vision may also sweep the hills for many miles.

On the eastern shore of the lake a boat landing costing $3000 has already been erected and forms an artistic break in the stretch of parking. Perhaps the most notable of the present improvements around the lake is the permanent paving of Grand avenue, the main driveway to the hill region and used by automobilists and all manner of travelers. The estimated cost of the asphalt paving, which is now about half finished, is $107,000, including that to be expended by the street railway company.

The city is also expending a large sum in the upkeep and improvement of Lakeside park, which, even during the winter, when the days are balmy, is the gathering place of thousands of pleasure and nature lovers.

But with all of the work now under way around the lake completed, much work will remain to be undertaken. This expansive body of water, almost in the heart of the city, affords a setting for almost endless development.

IS POPULAR THEORY OF BUYING AND SELLING REAL ESTATE WRONG?

The popular theory of buying and selling real estate is largely wrong, and it is little wonder that those who are governed by its frequency lose their entire investment, says the National Real Estate Journal, editorially in a recent number.

"The public generally is not anxious to buy real estate unless business is active, the demand good and the prices rather high and steadily increasing. It is then they chase each other about the streets and buy and sell real estate something like a broker on 'change buys and sells bonds and bonds."

The time to buy real estate intelligently and safely is when other people wish to sell; when, in fact, they are compelled to have money and must dispose of real estate in order to obtain it. The less the demand the better it is for the purchaser, when conditions of this kind prevail real estate reaches what is known as a bottom price and becomes almost absolutely safe as an investment. Those who buy in such quiet times and under such favorable conditions are the ones who are enabled to hold their property for the advance in prices which recurrent times of speculation invariably bring about. After all, such favorable conditions have passed away it will be found that the original owners of such property have always made good money. It is true, some shrewd middlemen may have bought and sold quickly and made some money, but they took their chances to come out ahead, and nine times out of ten even the experts get caught when the boom is punctured.

RAIN AND HOLIDAY FAIL TO CHECK CONSTRUCTION

Building Cost for Short Week in Oakland Amounts to $104,658

Cost of Building for November ..... $414,226.25

(Figures from official record of Bureau of Permits and Licenses, announced yesterday at noon by Max Mantel).

Frank J. Woodward announced last week that work is to begin in January upon the ten-story building which he and Edward J. McGary are to erect at a cost of $150,000 at Broadway, Seventeenth street and Telegraph avenue. Substantial progress is being made during the rainy weather on the steelwork of the Carlston and Snyder skyscraper on the point of the gorge south of the Woodward and McGary building site.

Excavation for the seven-story Friedman building at the southwest corner of Sixteenth and Clay streets was started during the week and work on the structure will be rushed.

The steelwork on the ten-story Thompson building at Seventeenth street and Broadway and on the eleven-story First Trust building at Sixteenth street and San Pablo avenue has been completed, and the walls of both are going up. Both will be finished before the end of winter. Brick work upon the seven-story hotel and store building at the northeast corner of Jefferson and Fourteenth streets is almost complete. The seven-story Moody estate hotel and store building at Twentieth street and San Pablo avenue is receiving the finishing touches.

With Monday, a holiday eliminated, as far as the week's building permit record is concerned, the cost of construction for five days amounted to $104,658. This includes but a portion of last Wednesday, the largest part was for the four-story concrete garage to be erected by Mrs. E. Sussman at the southwest corner of Twenty-fourth street and Broadway at a cost of $55,000. Another was for a two-story brick hotel and store building on the south side of Eighth street, east of Webster, by Hew Hing, a Chinese merchant. The cost will be $10,000.

The summary of building permits applied for at the Bureau of Permits and Licenses, Oakland, for the week ending Wednesday, November 27, follows:

Classification of Bldgs.	Permits	Cost
1-story dwellings	9	$ 14,500.00
1 1/2-story dwellings	1	2,500.00

OAKLAND REAL ESTATE ASSN. PROBLEMS

Broker Must Observe Rules in Bringing Action for Commission.

By C. FRED BURKS, Secretary Oakland Real Estate Association

The Oakland Real Estate Association and printed in THE TRIBUNE of Sunday, November 15, together with the published interview appearing in the real estate section of THE TRIBUNE of November 22 on the rights of brokers to commissions where forfeited deposits were concerned, have been the subject of so much comment by both brokers and the public that we take pleasure in accepting the generous offer of THE TRIBUNE for space during the next few days to indicate our solution of some of the more salient problems constantly arising among the agents and their clients.

This Sunday's article will be general in its character and merely introductory to the subject matter that will follow during the next three or four weeks, when the details will be taken up and considered from the standpoint of the Oakland Real Estate Association.

It is quite remarkable how many actions are brought in the courts by real estate agents for the recovery of commissions which they claim to have earned. In many cases, they often meet with failure in their efforts to recover their fees because they overlook the necessity of complying with some imperative provision of the law, their oversight in this respect acting as a bar to obtaining redress by legal action.

RULES TO BE COMPLIED WITH.

There are certain well defined rules both of law and practice which must be strictly complied with by the real estate dealer before he can entitle himself to a commission for his services in a sale or purchase of real estate. These rules have been on the statute books for many years and unfortunately seem to be unknown to many of those whose business would particularly benefit from a knowledge of them. The main difficulty has been the multitude seeking admission to the occupation. Many are called but only a few are chosen to continue in the business as the years go by.

The constant stream of new men coming into the real estate business naturally upsets ethical standards and has a tendency to bring about a chaotic condition among the realty fraternity in so far as good practices are concerned.

CHANCE TO BUILD UP.

The business of dealing in real estate ought to be and actually is a noble and elevating occupation. The intelligent placing of the right people upon the right soil is certainly rendering to society itself a service of upbuilding. The stimulation of the construction of modern buildings in cities due largely to the constructive genius plus the faith and imagination of real estate experts, places every municipality under great obligation and debt to the men who deal in real estate. Numerous other instances could be cited indicating that the business practices largely of the nature of a profession each day. The tendency toward organization and co-operation on the part of the real estate men is making ethical considerations possible and the wholesome effect of the tendency is to be seen on every hand. Each day becomes harder and more impossible for the evil and low-minded to establish themselves in the real estate business. This type of man soon gets discouraged and drops out.

DEAL IN OPEN.

The ease, however, with which men can enter and exit of the real estate business is finally, in this modern day, causing the straightforward, conscientious and sincere dealers to "sit up and take notice." They are making the public understand that they are dealing in the open and that they expect the public to deal with them likewise. They are formulating principles to govern their own actions. They are looking up the common law (not by Chambers) as applied to property. They see the wisdom of learning the legal rule and adding thereto some good, old-fashioned moral rules as well. The dissemination of these rules and principles among the brokers and their clients are found to be the salvation of the real estate business. The real estate dealers of every city in the nation are "cleaning house" by means of their real estate associations.

The better class of real estate dealers want to know what the right way is and they are insisting that all the men in the business be made to live up to this right way or pay the penalty for deviation. The successful real estate man of today must know more and also must be more than was required of him in the years past. Intelligence and character in the real estate business counts today and counts very heavily.

SOLVE LOCAL PROBLEMS.

The Oakland Association here sits in judgment on problems and questions pertaining to the ethics and proper transaction of the business. Indured parties among both the brokers and the public are constantly submitting their difficulties to the Oakland Association for arbitration. In rendering this kind of service, it really amounts to serving the interests of the Oakland realty dealers in the best possible way. ## MORE THAN HUNDRED NEW HOMES IN SINGLE MONTH

One-and-a-Half and Two-Story Dwellings Are Popular in Berkeley

BERKELEY, Nov. 29.—The story-and-a-half and two-story residences are in such demand in this city today that builders apparently cannot erect them with sufficient rapidity to supply the demand. Within November alone more than one hundred such residences have been started, and applications for permits for new structures keep the office of the building inspectors busy.

The new homes, most of them of modest cost, are being built in all sections of the city but especially in the territory from Shattuck avenue west, in the new tracts and in the southern half of the city. Many of the new structures are being put up by their prospective occupants, but the larger percentage this month are speculation enterprises, and will be put upon the market as soon as completed.

In the new tracts building is rushing ahead rapidly before the rainy season sets in earnest. The tracts which are now reached by excellent car service are experiencing notable activity at this time, and the demand is heavy for sites in these holdings. Among the permits recently issued for new structures have been the following:

Alteration to brick bungalow, Roosevelt near Alston, A. Larson owner, cost, $600.

DIGEST OF RECENT REALTY DECISIONS

Following is a digest of recent real estate decisions of interest:

Rights of Second Mortgagee.—The existence of a prior mortgage in excess of the value of the land, the Supreme Court of Oklahoma holds, does not disentitle a junior mortgagee to a decree of foreclosure. When the vendee, in payment of the purchase price of real estate, pays the indebtedness secured by a first mortgage, he is not subordinated to the lien of that mortgage as against a second mortgage, whose mortgage is duly recorded at the time of purchase. Kahn vs. McConnell, 131 Pac. R. 652.

Representation as to Right of Way.—Fraudulent representations made by the grantor of land as to the number of acres taken and occupied as the right of way of a railroad through the tract sold and upon which the grantee relied in his investment, the Supreme Court of Kansas holds entitles him to a recovery of damages for the loss actually sustained, although he learned from the instrument of conveyance and other sources that the railroad company has a right of way over the land, but did not know the extent of the same. Disney vs. Laog, 123 Pac. R. 572.

Proof of Agency.—The court of civil appeals of Texas says that the knowledge of the plaintiff's material averments in an action brought to recover a broker's commission for the sale of land was that he was an agent of the defendant for the sale of the land, and while agency cannot be shown by the acts and declarations of the alleged agent, yet proof that he acted as agent was competent, when other competent evidence of agency had been offered. Proof, therefore, that the plaintiff painted and put up a sign advertising the land for sale was admissible, with his direct testimony of appointment as agent. McFarland vs. Lynch, 158 S. W. R. 302.

Requirement in Action Between Brokers.—In an action on a contract between real estate brokers for a division of commissions on the sale of real estate, jointly listed by both parties, by which it was provided that if sale was made by the second party without the aid of the first party the second party should have all of the commission, it being conceded that the sale on which the first party claimed to be entitled to a division of the commission was in fact made by the second party, the burden was on the first party to show by a preponderance of the evidence that the sale was made by or with his aid or assistance. Supreme Court of Oklahoma vs. Johnson, 140 Pac. R. 1022.

Vendor Showing Wrong Land.—A vendor having shown to a purchaser certain lands as the tract offered for sale, and the sale having been consummated in the belief of both parties that the land conveyed was the land so examined, the purchaser may rescind his purchase on discovering that the land conveyed was not the land examined, but a different tract. There is no statute of limitations that applies in such cases, but the right to rescind may be barred by laches, or estoppel.

The first of these two cases was the first of its kind in this state, and the court, which are splendidly appointed.

exercise of proper diligence, he ought to have discovered it. Supreme Court of Minnesota in Lindquist vs. Gibbs, 142 N. W. R. 156.

Not Entitled to Commission.—One who is employed by another to sell specified property at a stated price for an agreed compensation for making each sale, but has no exclusive contract of agency with other persons with his knowledge being likewise authorized to make such sale with the same agreement as to compensation, cannot recover the stipulated commission upon sale being made by others so employed, although his own efforts may have contributed to the result. Supreme Court of Nebraska in Starbird vs. J. H. McShane Timber Co., 142 N. W. R. 632.

WAGNER & PUGH, NEW REALTY FIRM

Concern Locates on Fourteenth Street; Opening Tomorrow.

Wagner & Pugh is the name of a new firm which is launching out in the real estate business in Oakland. Both members of the firm, A. L. Wagner and Chas. F. Pugh, are well known to the public and to the real estate fraternity as men of thorough knowledge of conditions in city and country and as men of standing and integrity.

Wagner came to Oakland a number of years ago, bringing with him an extensive experience and knowledge of the business as carried on in the southern portions of the State, and especially in Los Angeles and Ventura counties. A period of active participation in the business and social life of Oakland has won him recognition as a man of keen judgment in matters pertaining to the trade in city, real estate and country lands and as one of the community's solid men. His knowledge and experience will be of great value to the new firm's clients.

Pugh has been a lifelong resident of Oakland, and has collected for several years in an executive capacity with a prominent firm of Oakland real estate dealers, in which capacity he gained a most valuable experience and knowledge of all departments of the business, and one which will serve him well in connection with the new firm of Wagner & Pugh.

$1,764,000 COST OF NEW SCHOOLS

Two Structures to Be Finished Next Month; Five in January.

Many of the new schools upon which the city of Oakland is spending $1,764,000 close of the year. Four months delay in construction has caused by inability of the city to sell school bonds, but despite the payment of $20,000 damages to contractors on account of this delay, City Architect J. J. Donovan reports, a saving of $11,000 in the total cost of building schools has been effected.

The first work was upon Fremont high school and began in September, 1912. Good progress has been made upon all the up period, when there were no funds available, between June 12 and September 13 of this year.

Both the $101,505 addition to the Washington school and the new McChesney school will be completed next month, and the following next January: Emerson, Santa Fe, Dewey, Lazar, and Fruitvale No. 3.

Others yet to be completed are: Longfellow, February 1, 1914; Durant, August, 1914; Lockwood, August, 1914; Lake View, February, 1914.
